HOT AIR AT AIR TRIAL

Reid Again Flies Off Handle

Mitchell's Defense Counsel Waxes Wrothy as Judge Slaps Wrangling

Jury Attorney Caps Climax of King Incident by Trying to Unseat Graves

BY KYLE D. PALMER
"Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Because a member of the military court trying Col. William A. Mitchell for insubordination thought counsel for defense and prosecution were indulging in "disgraceful wrangling" and possessed the hardihood to say so, the court-martial for a time today approached perilously close to a burlesque of the entire proceedings.

The most absurd development in a long series of absurdities that have marked this remarkable trial occurred when Representative Frank R. Reid, Mitchell's chief counsel, challenged the right of Brig.-Gen. William S. Graves to sit as a member of the court.

Reid's challenge was based on a disputed elucidation from Gen. Graves to the effect that "this wrangling is disgraceful and should be stopped." The general addressed his remark to Col. Blanton Winship, law member of the court, and it was occasioned by a renewal of the childish bickering between Reid and prosecution counsel, Maj. Guillion, assistant judge advocate. Reid asserted that on this as on other occasions Gen. Graves had interfered with the examination of a witness.

REID HAS CIRCUS

For several days Congressman Reid, in the verbiage of veteran newspaper correspondents attending the trial, has been "getting away with murder." Possessing a genius in the art of insult that has left opposing counsel and witnesses speechless with indignation and resentment, and equipped with a rapier-like wit altogether subtle and ruthless for the blunt and perspiring and sometimes bewildered soldier-lawyers, Mr. Reid has indulged in a veritable orgy of derisive side remarks, cross-court tactics and heckling. Probably never in the history of military courts in this or any other country have the members of a court been forced to face a situation so contrary to customary

HISTORY WRITTEN AS OLD FOES SIGN LOCARNO PACT

Strong Emotions of Envoys Hardly Concealed as London Meeting Launches New Peace Era

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—A document was signed in the British Foreign Office today which takes its place among the great historical papers of the world—the Locarno pact, known also as the Treaty of Mutual Guarantee. Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Belgium met once again—this time to affix their signatures and give a pledge of peace and good will among the European nations. Simplicity marked this momentous event, but beneath this simplicity lay strong emotions, hardly concealed, of the men who for years have striven to bring together in a spirit of conciliation those who had been torn apart by the tragedy of war.

Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, upon whom the King bestowed knighthood of the Most Noble Order of the Garter and the British Prime Minister, Stanley Baldwin, the German Chancellor, Dr. Hans Luther, and German Foreign Secretary, Gustav Stresemann; M. Briand, the French Premier and Foreign Minister; Emil Vandervelde, the Belgian Foreign Minister, and Signor Scialoia, representing Premier Mussolini of Italy, attached their signatures to the pact for which Great Britain and Italy stand guarantors and which protects the other three nations from aggression against their borders.

It was in Germany that the idea of a security pact was conceived less than a year ago, and today the representatives signed with smiling faces. Though the first suggestion came from Germany, it was at Locarno, a little town in Switzerland, that the details were elaborated and in reality completed, to be ratified by signatures and seals today.

OTHER PACTS SIGNED

After that came the signing of the supplementary treaties, which provide for the submission to arbitration of disputes between the nations that may hereafter arise. The signatories of these treaties included Count Skrzynski of Poland, and Dr. Eduardo Benes of Czecho-Slovakia.

Not more than 300 persons were assembled in the room, among them the wives of the British Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary, dressed in mourning, but outside in London, throughout the British Empire, and in all the countries of the world, the people waited to hear that Germany and the Allies had at last joined hands.

Today's ceremony was carried out in a spirit of optimism which was hailed as auguring well for an era of peace throughout Europe.

SHIP BURNED AS SIGNAL

Men Saved From Death at Sea

Fifteen Days of Tossing on Angry Ocean Results in Desperate Action

Vessel Sights Blaze, Takes Crew to Wales, Whence They Return Home

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Twenty-two out-at-elbows sailors, penniless but well fed, were landed here today by the White Star liner Doric. The crew of the freighter Algiers, they had drifted and rolled in an angry ocean for fifteen days without food or fresh water for the last three days, and finally had gambled desperately for life by burning the vessel to signal the only steamship they had sighted for a week.

This was the Rassay, bound for Cardiff, Wales. It landed them there and the American Consul arranged for their return.

Charles McKenny, a steamship agent, bought the old freighter, idle for years at Philadelphia, two months ago and ordered her to New York in ballast. She was to pick up a general cargo here for Miami and then proceed to a wrecking yard.

FIGHTS RAGING SEA

Fifteen hours out from Philadelphia the ship ran into high winds and was soon fighting a boiling sea. Her single screw could hardly hold her nose into the wind and she was carried 340 miles off her course within the next three days. She was far out of the steamship lanes, unequipped with wireless and leaking ominously. Capt. Hannon burned all his flares, but attracted no response.

On the fourth day the fires in the boilers died out and they drifted, praying no fresh gale would rise. Their food supply was reduced to a can of gingersnaps on the ninth day. The starving men hoarded their water supply, but it, too, was exhausted four days later and they could not rig up any distilling apparatus.

The next day the coal lying in the bunkers shifted, washed about by the steadily rising water and blocked the hand pumps by which the Algiers had been kept afloat. She filled fast and the water stood fifteen feet deep in her hold on the morning of the thirteenth day. The men were lightheaded from overwork, worry and lack of food and water.

VESSEL SIGHTED

The next night, toward sundown, they sighted the Rassay. It was thirty miles distant and light was fading. It was their last chance for the Algiers might plunge bottomward at any hour. Capt. Hannon ordered the small boats prepared and the planking ripped up from the decks. It was piled with all available bedding on the aft deck and set afire with kerosene.

This pyre attracted the Rassay and when it came up two hours later the men were picked up in their lifeboats.

The sea was lighted for the rescue by the glare of the flaming ship and lucky so, for the men with the oars of the Algiers's lifeboats were too weak to make much headway toward the Rassay's side. Most of them had to be carefully fed back to health, but all were able to walk off the freighter when it reached Cardiff, where they boarded the Doric.

Pardon Board Delays Action In Montclair Slaying

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

TRENTON, Dec. 1.—Appeal of Harrison W. Noel, awaiting execution in the death house in the State prison here for the murder of Raymond Pierce, negro taxi-driver of Montclair, for clemency was deferred today by the Court of Pardons. Noel's counsel was told by the court first to exhaust his legal remedies before the law courts before bringing the case to the Court of Pardons.

In his plea today defense counsel contended that Noel was insane and asked that the death sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

SANTA STARTS LAST DASH

Reindeer Team off to Flying Start in Push From Seattle to Los Angeles

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SEATTLE, Dec. 1.—Santa Claus landed with his team of reindeer here today and found them in such high spirits and anxious to be off that he hitched them to his sleigh and started with them immediately for Los Angeles.

The long sea trip from Nome, Alaska, aboard the S. S. Snowflake gave Dunder and Blitzen and the rest of the reindeer such a good rest that Santa's arms are growing weary from holding them in on their run to Los Angeles.

Word may be expected from him momentarily now saying just when he will arrive in Los Angeles. He would have fixed a time today, he said, but was anxious to see first how long the reindeer could keep up the fast speed with which they travel in the North. Santa hasn't driven his great team of reindeer these many years for nothing. He knows that after the first wild dash of speed when starting out on a long trip they settle down to a slower and steadier canter, especially in a country warmer than the Arctic.

REINDEER TEAM TO BE SEEN ON BROADWAY

With the receipt of news dispatches from Seattle last night to the effect that Santa and his reindeer left there bound for Los Angeles, preparations were speeded up to give boys and girls of Los Angeles and vicinity an opportunity to see the reindeer after they get here.

It may be that Santa will agree to take his team up and down Broadway and some of the other downtown streets. But he will certainly have to hold them down to a walk, with everybody on the street wanting to get a good look at them. Probably not one person in ten thousand in Los Angeles has ever seen any real, live reindeer. And these are Santa Claus's own reindeer.

It is going to be a great experience for the reindeer, too. First time in their lives they will have been out on our streets in broad daylight. Ook Wat, the Eskimo who is coming down with Santa Claus, will probably have to walk at the heads of the leaders of the team to see that they mind the traffic bells and don't get frightened at the traffic and the crowds.

FISH COMMISSIONER OUSTED

Richardson Lifts Newbert from Game Body When Request for Resignation is Ignored

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 1.—Declining to resign when informed by the Governor that his services no longer were needed on the commission, Frank M. Newbert of Sacramento today was ousted by Gov. Richardson, as president and member of the State Fish and Game Commission. Ralph H. Clock, of Long Beach, a former Superior judge of Los Angeles county, was named as Newbert's successor, having been drafted by the Governor.

Newbert had been a member of the commission since 1911.

Gov. Richardson announced that he had been "patient and long suffering with Newbert, whose reckless extravagance, bulldozing methods with legislators and his antagonism to sportsmen's organizations long have made him a Jonah in the administration ship." The Governor declared he "gave Newbert every opportunity to go overboard when the water was tepid, but he preferred the chilly ice of ousting."

About the same time that Gov. Richardson announced that he had removed Newbert from the commission the Fish and Game Commission president made public a letter mailed today to the Governor in reply to a letter he received from the Governor on November 24, advising Newbert that "for the best interests of the State Fish and Game Commission" he would appoint a successor to him on December 1.

CHARGES EXTRAVAGANCE

Gov. Richardson's statement in ousting Newbert and naming Clock follows:

"I gave Newbert every opportunity to resign. In a courteous letter a week ago I informed him of my purpose to fill his place on December 1. So far he has not replied, but publishes in the afternoon papers an attack upon me. I have said nothing until today, when Judge Clock was drafted to fill the vacancy. Policy of economy had resulted in building up a large reserve in the fish and game fund. Business methods in the commission's affairs have been hampered because of the extravagant ideas and lack of business methods in the commission, due, I believe, principally to Newbert, who has dominated the commission and its employees. If Newbert could have had his way all of the fish and game revenues would have been spent without adequate results, and an added tax burden placed upon the people who hunt and fish.

"I have been patient and long suffering with Newbert. His reckless extravagance, his bulldozing methods with legislators and his

ALL ABOARD STRANDED SHIP SAVED

Crew Signed at San Pedro Taken Off Schooner Halco by Breeches Buoy

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WESTPORT (Wash.) Dec. 1.—All remaining members of the crew of the three-masted steam schooner Halco, which was discovered stranded on the rocky reefs just inside Gray's Harbor early today, were brought ashore by the Coast Guard rescue crew tonight by use of the breeches buoy.

Three of the crew were known to have reached shore safely this morning in a lifeboat but as the point where the ship has gone ashore is inaccessible, being more than twenty miles from any road, they are believed to be waiting for the Coast Guard boat to pick them up on its return to Westport.

A new storm threatened tonight and the sea was becoming rougher. Marine men here said it was doubtful if the vessel could withstand the smashing waves for many hours. All hope has been abandoned for saving the vessel, which stranded hard and fast on the rocks at high tide.

The Halco is owned by the Hammond Lumber Company of San Francisco. Lars A. Nelson of Alameda, is master of the vessel, and it is understood that most of the crew were signed at San Pedro, from which point the Halco sailed north to load lumber at Gray's Harbor. The Halco is a modern type of wooden oil-burning lumber carrier.

Asserted Delay in Closing Bank Basis for Suit

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Dec. 1.—Delay on the part of the State Banking Superintendent in closing the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Tempe, after an examination had disclosed the institution's condition, is the basis of an action for $29,967 filed by K. T. Hyder of Tempe against A. T. Hammons, banking superintendent, and a Maryland surety company.

In the complaint is charged that an examination made by Hammons March 1, 1923, showed the bank insolvent, but that it was allowed to continue operation until July 27. Two of the officers of the bank now are in the penitentiary and a third has disappeared.

ARIZONA GIVEN NEW OFFER FOR RIVER AGREEMENT

California and Nevada See Hope of Pact With Guarantees Getting Approval of Hunt Group

BY FRED C. SPAYDE
"Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Dec. 1.—Representatives of Nevada and California today laid before Gov. Hunt's Arizona Colorado River committee the draft of a proposed tri-State agreement which had been approved in Los Angeles by the California legislative Colorado River committee and Gov. Scrugham of Nevada. The tri-State agreement was proposed as a supplement to the Colorado River compact entered into at Santa Fe, N. M., in 1922 at the suggestion of Secretary of Commerce Hoover and approved by six of the seven Colorado River basin States, Arizona alone holding aloof.

For the purpose of offering concessions and guarantees to Arizona that will assure the State ample water for its future development and royalty revenues from all power plants built including Boulder Dam, estimated at $500,000 annually, Gov. Scrugham proposed to California that the tri-State agreement be drawn up and submitted to Arizona so that it will fall into line, and thus the entire Southwest will present a united front at Washington in requesting action by Congress to get Colorado River development under way.

PLAN EXPLAINED

After hearing Charles P. Squires of the Nevada delegation, Gov. Scrugham's representative read the text of the proposed agreement at a meeting in the State Senate chamber here, Chairman Cleve W. Vandyke of Gov. Hunt's committee said that Arizona appreciates the work of Nevada and California to bring about an agreement but, he said, the Arizona committee only could take the proposed agreement under advisement so that it could be examined from all angles, and then the California, Nevada and Arizona committees could be called together again to hear Arizona's answer.

Mr. Squires and Ed W. Clark Gov. Scrugham's representatives, issued the following statement this afternoon summarizing and interpreting the agreement as proposed by California and Nevada:

"The agreement provides:

"First, the flow of all Arizona streams is released to Arizona. All the water Arizona contributes to the Colorado is thus reserved for Arizona use, exclusively. This sets aside for Arizona development approximately 1,000,000 acre feet not yet in use.

"Second, each State has a definite allocation of all water now put to beneficial use; these rights are established and cannot be taken away by compact.

"Third, California is allocated 1,095,000 acre feet. This is the amount in acre feet of the 1500 second feet which Southern California municipalities have filed upon for domestic water supply.

"Fourth, Nevada is allocated 300,000 acre feet, in addition to that of the Virgin River.

"Fifth, all the remainder of the water is divided on a fifty-fifty basis between Arizona and California. Under the Colorado River Compact, allocation of 7,500,000 acre foot per year to flow past Lee's Ferry, this fifty-fifty division will reserve to Arizona for future use in agricultural development approximately 1,350,000 acre feet, and of course the same amount to California. Arizona's share will be increased by surplus water passing Lee's Ferry in addition to that allocated by the Colorado River Compact. Under this agreement, Arizona and California will be on an equal footing as to future agricultural development from Colorado

FLORIDA LAND LOSS HUGE

Receding Storm's Death Toll Put at Five, While Property Damage Reaches Millions

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

JACKSONVILLE (Fla.) Dec. 1.—While the west coast of Florida still was in the grip of a receding storm, on the east coast storm warnings had been hauled down, and work of repairing the damage done was started.

The toll in the vicinity of Tampa stood at five known dead, four missing and eighteen more or less seriously injured, with the property loss expected to run into millions of dollars.

The tempest temporarily paralyzed tropical shipping, but only one steamer sent out a call for assistance. The Munson steamer "Red Bird," bound for Havana, ran into trouble in the high seas and with the Shipping Board steamer West Chalata standing by, made the government cut at Miami and dropped anchor to await an opportunity to enter.

Three planes were swept out to sea at Daytona Beach, but no one was injured.

Communication with principal points cut off by the storm, had been re-established tonight. Lakeland, Clearwater, St. Petersburg, Bradenton, Sebring, Avon Park, Sarasota, Fort Myers, and other points report damage by wind.

The citrus crop as a whole suffered little damage, C. C. Commander, general manager of the Florida Citrus Exchange, said.

While the waters have receded from Miami's principal streets, small pools of several inches in depth remained generally throughout the district.

Twenty Other Indictments in Moss Landing Rum Fight Handed Down

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—Mayor J. Herbert Madden of Sausalito and twenty others were indicted by the Federal grand jury here today on charges of conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act in connection with a gun battle between a Sheriff's posse and a gang of supposed rum-runners at Moss Landing, Monterey county, on July 5.

Chester A. Howard, a former prohibition officer and Charles Corbett were indicted on charges of impersonating Federal officers in connection with an asserted San Francisco escapade in which Howard is supposed to have received a bribe of more than $1000 to stop prosecution of a liquor case.

Mayor Madden is charged by Federal officials to have had guilty knowledge of the Moss Landing battle, although not participating in it in any way. Simon Bube, one of the indicted principals, received treatment for a gunshot wound in a Marin county hospital a few days after the battle, but insists that the wound was received accidentally.

(c) There is hereby allocated, from waters of the Colorado River to the State of Arizona, its present perfected rights to the beneficial consumptive use of 231,000 acre feet of water per annum in perpetuity.

(d) There is hereby allocated from the waters of the Colorado River to the State of California its present perfected rights, in addition to all other allocations, the beneficial consumptive use of 2,146,600 acre feet of water per annum in perpetuity.

(e) The use of waters of the Colorado River not otherwise hereinabove expressly allocated, is hereby allocated in equal shares to the States of Arizona and California, being the intention of the signatory States, subject to the terms of the Colorado River compact, to divide for use in said States all of the waters of the Colorado River; provided, that any water allocated by this paragraph (e) but not actually applied to agricultural or domestic use by January 1, 1975, shall thereafter notwithstanding the foregoing allocation be subject to appropriation for use in either Arizona or California.

ARTICLE IV

It is the intention of the signatory States so to divide the waters of the Colorado River as to provide for the maximum use thereof within said States, and notwithstanding the foregoing allocations, no State shall withhold water and no State shall require the delivery of water which cannot reasonably and beneficially be applied to agricultural or domestic use, within said State.

ARTICLE V

The chief official of each signatory State charged with administration of water rights, together with the Commissioner of Reclamation of the United States shall co-operate ex-officio to promote the systematic determination and co-ordination of the facts as to flow, appropriation, consumption and use of water from the Colorado River and the interchange of available information on such matters.

ARTICLE VI

That in the event the United States of America shall construct a dam in the main stream of the Colorado River at or near Boulder Canyon, creating a reservoir of not less than 20,000,000 acre feet of water, at which hydroelectric power shall be generated by persons or agencies other than the United States of America, then such persons or agencies generating such power at said dam shall each pay to the Secretary of the Interior one ($1.00) dollar per annum for each operative horsepower which may be installed by him or it or for his or its benefit, in addition to any and all other requirements by the United States, which said sums so paid shall be paid by the Secretary of the Interior to the States of Arizona and Nevada in equal parts, annually, said payments to be made at such times and under such reasonable regulations and in such installments as the Secretary of the Interior may by general order prescribe. No payment under this article shall be required until power-generating machinery upon which said payment is based shall have been placed in actual operation. The provisions of this article shall not be construed as affecting, or intending to affect, the taxing power of any of the signatory States, but that in the event of any of such persons or agencies generating power at said dam shall pay any tax, assessment, impost or other liability, demand or charge upon said power or works therefor, under the taxing power of the State, or subdivision thereof, then and in that event, for the year immediately following such payment, the amount of money so paid shall be deducted from the amount to be paid to the Secretary of the Interior as hereinabove in this article provided, for the benefit of the State to whom such payment was made. The payment of said sums to the said Secretary of the Interior for the benefit of Arizona or Nevada shall be in lieu of all licenses or other fees now or which may hereafter be required by the said States, or either of them, for the use, license or privilege of storing water or building and operating generating plants, transmission lines or otherwise in connection with the said dam.

ARTICLE VII

Should any claim or controversy arise between any two or more of the signatory States over the meaning or performance of any of the terms of this compact, then, upon the request of the Governor of any one or more of the signatory States, it shall be the duty of the Governors of each of the signatory States to appoint a commission with power to consider and adjust such claim or controversy, subject to ratification by the Legislatures of the States affected, and by the Congress of the United States. Nothing herein contained, however, shall prevent the adjustment of any such claims or controversies by any then present method or by direct Legislative action of the interested States, with the approval of the Congress of the United States.

ARTICLE VIII

In the event this compact should at any time be terminated by unanimous agreement of the signatory States, all rights established under it shall nevertheless continue unimpaired.

ARTICLE IX

The provisions of the compact have reference to the use of the waters of the Colorado River for agricultural and domestic use only and have no reference to the use of said waters for the generation of electric power, except that the use of said waters for the generation of electric power shall forever be and remain subordinate to the use thereof for agricultural and domestic purposes, and except further as hereinbefore expressly provided in Article V hereof.

ARTICLE X

Jurisdiction in the United States of America to construct the said dam and incidental works referred to in Article VI hereof, is hereby conceded and consent is hereby expressly given by the signatory States to said construction and to the use and benefit of any property of the respective signatory States, which may be found necessary or convenient of use by the United States of America for said purpose.

ARTICLE XI

This compact shall become binding and obligatory when the Colorado River Compact has become binding and obligatory upon all of the signatory States, thereto, and when this compact shall have been approved by the Legislatures of each of the signatory States hereto, and by the Congress of the United States. Notice of the approval by the Legislature shall be given by the governors of each of the signatory States to the governors of the other signatory States and to the President of the United States and the President of the United States is requested to give notice to the governors of the signatory States of the approval by the Congress of the United States.

ARIZONA GIVEN OFFER ON RIVER

California and Nevada Men Meet Hunt's Group

Guarantees Proposed for Supply of Water

Payment for Power from All Projects Included

River water; Arizona is given protection against more rapid development in California.

"Sixth, California agrees that if power is developed at Boulder Canyon, Arizona will receive $1 per horsepower per annum on one-half of that power installation, Nevada receiving a like amount, or approximately $500,000 annually of revenue for each State from this project alone. This is designed to be the equivalent of a reasonable State tax on dam and power plant regardless of whether the project be built by the Federal government or any other public or private agency.

WORKED HARD

"Gov. Scrugham and Nevada's commissioners have worked hard to bring about this offer from California. We trust that Arizona will give serious consideration to the very substantial concessions California has made and the protection for Arizona's future agricultural needs which it affords, and, further, the immediate material benefits which it guarantees to Arizona under this beginning of Colorado River development."

The California legislative committee members present at today's conference with Gov. Hunt's committee were Senator Ralph Swing of San Bernardino county, Assemblyman Walter Little of Los Angeles and A. C. Finney of Imperial county. Gov. Scrugham of Nevada was represented by Mr. Squires and Mr. Clark, both of Las Vegas, and the entire membership of Gov. Hunt's committee was present, Cleve W. Bishop, A. G. McGregor, F. A. Reid, Thomas Maddocks and H. S. McCluskey, secretary to the Governor. Gov. Hunt was said to be out of the city and was scheduled to return to Phoenix tomorrow.

At the conclusion of the discussion in the Arizona Senate chamber, the California and Nevada delegates were the guests of the Arizona committee on an automobile trip to the Salt River irrigation project. A luncheon had been arranged at the San Marcos Hotel at Chandler, and here the delegates from the three States engaged in a "round-table" discussion of Colorado River problems.

Returning to Phoenix late this evening, the California and Nevada delegates left for their homes with the understanding that Arizona will be ready to give its answer at a conference to be conducted, probably at Phoenix, the latter part of this week or not later than early next week.

Before starting for their homes the California and Nevada delegates said that they were much pleased at the attitude of the Arizona committeemen as expressed during the afternoon trip and at the luncheon at Chandler.

HOPE EXPRESSED

"We are hopeful," said Mr. Squires of Nevada, "that a real start was made today toward an agreement on the development of the Colorado River. The expressions of the Arizona committeemen on the terms of the proposed three-State agreement were friendly. It looks as if we of the three States have made a start toward getting together. I am very hopeful tonight that we are on the road toward an agreement that will mean action on Colorado River development."

Also attending with the Nevada delegation was Dr. Roy W. Martin, president of the Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce, and from California, Mayor S. C. Evans of Riverside, Mark Rose and Charles L. Childers of Imperial county, Dr. S. S. M. Jennings of Coachella Valley, R. C. Harbison of San Bernardino county, Special Counsel W. B. Mathews and Chief Electrical Engineer E. S. Scattergood of the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power.

At today's hearing no mention was made of the Swing-Johnson bill and the all-American canal, and the entire discussion revolved around obtaining Arizona's approval to the tri-State agreement as a step toward Arizona signing the Colorado River compact.

REPUBLICAN GROUP SUPPORTS BOULDER DAM

The executive committee of the Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee yesterday passed, with two dissenting votes, a resolution favoring the construction by the government of a high dam at Boulder Canyon and an irrigation canal in Imperial Valley all on American soil.

The resolution sets out that such a dam will avert the yearly flood menace, will supply needed domestic water to many Southern California communities shortly to need it, will supply hydroelectric power and storage water for irrigation.

An attempt to indorse the Swing-Johnson bill by name was voted down. After considerable discussion a provision was included to give preference to political subdivisions in the allocation of power and water.

BRIDE'S FATHER SEEKS TO ANNUL MARRIAGE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

STOCKTON, Dec. 1.—Action to annul the marriage of Lottie Adabella Early and Wilbert Leon Huston, both of Sonora, was begun by the bride's father, James M. Early. The complaint reads that the daughter was induced to leave her home and go to Fairfield, Solano county, where the marriage ceremony was performed. Huston, the father asserts, falsely represented the girl as more than 18 years of age in obtaining a marriage license. The father says his daughter is 16.

INDICT TEN AS BOMBERS

Woman and Male Companions Held Under $25,000 Bail Each in Chicago Outrages

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—The special bombing grand jury returned its first indictments this afternoon accusing nine men and Mrs. Lena Rice, "the woman bomber," of malicious mischief, misdemeanor, and bombing, a felony.

There were six indictments. Two of the asserted bombers were named in all of them; from one to five charges were laid against the others. Chief Justice Thomas J. Lynch of the criminal court fixed the bail at $25,000 on each charge.

The persons accused are: George Martini, John Davis, Joseph Avanzi, Fred Wanquist, Joseph Sangerman, Louis D'Andry, George W. Mills, Frank Schiro, Mrs. Rice and Mike Abbinanti.

The indictments were based on five separate bombings. The penalty for conviction on the bombing count is from one to twenty years in the penitentiary. For malicious mischief the penalty is from one to ten years in the penitentiary. Malicious mischief in the bombing cases is a felony since the damage exceeds $15.

One hundred and fifty new witnesses were subpoenaed in the bombs investigation.

While the jury went on from the point which it reached yesterday, when true bills were voted against nine alleged bombers, the police dragged the lake near North avenue for the body of Herman Linneman, chairman of the Chicago Master Barbers' Association and an associate of Sangerman, whom State's Attorney Crowe named as "the head of the bomb trust." Linneman disappeared yesterday leaving behind him a letter saying he intended killing himself.

A cap identified as Linneman's was found on the breakwater at North avenue last night and a rosary was picked up there this morning. The body was not recovered, although the police dragged the lake bottom for hours.

Linneman owned a barbershop, and friends said he had been depressed ever since the bomb investigation began.

REID FLIES OFF HANDLE AGAIN

military procedure or so shocking to the sensibilities of the orderly military mind.

The thinly disguised arrogant attitude of the flying colonel himself has been far from soothing and added to this has been the belligerent attitude of Reid, both counsel and defendant seemingly more desirous of impressing public opinion than members of the court.

TAKES ADVANTAGE

From the first the court has been confronted with unpleasant alternatives—either to proceed rigorously and risk offending a populace already disposed to disregard Mitchell's obvious breach of discipline, or to handle Mitchell so gingerly as to impair discipline and morale in the Army and Navy.

A middle-of-the-road policy has been the result of this. Representative Reid has taken full advantage.

Today's uproar was an extension and an enlargement of the "damned rot" comment of Gen. King last week. Possibly it is indicative of the stress and strain on the dispositions of the court members that no sooner were apologies offered and received relative to this episode, and a formal report of it submitted gravely to the War Department than Gen. Graves precipitated a second "crisis" of like seriousness.

THREE CONFERENCES

Three executive conferences by the generals and colonels comprising the court were necessary before this latest obstacle could be removed.

Gen. Robert L. Howze, president of the court, who has remained imperturbable during the storms that have raged since the trial began, denied Reid's demand that Gen. Graves be disqualified as a member of the court. Also the grizzled presiding judge took occasion to admonish Reid and the prosecution counsel and warn them that their "constant bickering" must cease.

"The court announces," said Gen. Howze, "that the remark made by Gen. Graves to the law member of this court was as follows: 'This wrangling between opposing counsel is disgraceful and should be stopped.' He referred to both counsel for the defense and for the prosecution, and his remarks were intended to uphold the dignity of this court and facilitate orderly procedure.

"The court wishes to state that it has viewed with disfavor the constant bickering between counsel for both sides in violation of the court-martial manual ruling that all remarks should be addressed the court. The court again warns counsel for both sides to address only the court during the remainder of the proceedings."

BECOMES RUFFLED

Gen. Graves, who had become exceedingly ruffled during the intermittent debate with Reid, then replied with some composure that he had not interfered with Reid's examination of witnesses and asserted that he held no prejudice for or against the defendant.

Reid, however, when asked by Gen. McCoy to explain his charge against Gen. Graves, asserted that Graves "has made certain expressions and ejaculations time and again" and to such an extent that "even the official reporter is unable to get an accurate report of the proceedings because of his talking."

Gen. Graves did not appear to relish the Congressman's remarks and announced that he wished to make a statement. Gen. Howze ruled that a statement by the harassed Army commander did not appear to be proper. Col. Winship, the law member, requested that the court go into conference to consider the request of Gen. Graves that he be permitted to make a statement. The courtroom was cleared. The generals retired. They returned very grave and solemn.

STATEMENT BARRED

Announcement was made that Gen. Graves acquiesced in the ruling that he should not make a statement. The trial was resumed.

Mr. Reid took up his cross-examination of Capt. H. E. Yarnell, U.S.N., who commanded the "Black" forces in the mimic battle maneuvers in Hawaiian waters. It was Reid's sarcastic interpretation of a statement by Yarnell that precipitated the remark of Gen. Graves with the consequent turmoil and vexation of spirit.

Including that of Yarnell the testimony of witnesses called by the prosecution today was designed to refute charges of Col. Mitchell that separate Army and Navy air forces result in lack of co-operation and in confusion. Each witness was searchingly cross-examined by Reid.

And so began, proceeded and ended another day in the Mitchell trial.

LOCARNO PEACE TREATY SIGNED

Envoys of All Nations Given Cheers by Throngs lights, Chancellor Luther of Germany, Premier Briand of France and Foreign Secretary Chamberlain of Great Britain entered the famous golden reception room of the Foreign Office arm in arm, conversing and smiling.

CABINET PRESENT

After them came the delegates of Italy, Belgium, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, followed by Premier Baldwin and all his Cabinet. The latter ranged themselves along the back of the room to witness the crowning success of the efforts of their government and especially of Foreign Secretary Chamberlain, whom the delegates addressed as Sir Austen, because of the honor done him by King George, who yesterday awarded him the Order of the Garter for his services at Locarno.

Immediately the delegates had taken their places at the large table in the order in which they sat at Locarno, the British Foreign Secretary, without rising, began an address of welcome in French to the plenipotentiaries, speaking in the name of the King. His words fell in an impressive silence.

In a very brief speech he told the foreign statesmen of the gratification felt over their presence at the ceremony, and expressed the King's disappointment that his mother's death had made rearrangement of the program necessary.

GERMANY FIRST

Chancellor Luther, who followed, expressed his country's pleasure at the conclusion of the pact. After him came the remaining delegates, voicing similar sentiments and speaking according to tradition in the alphabetical order in which the countries fall and in the French language.

A few moments were taken up by the Foreign Office's legal adviser, Sir Cecil Hurst, in formalities and the signing began at 11:35.

The treaty was first handed to Chancellor Luther, and then to Foreign Minister Stresemann, Foreign Minister Vandervelde of Belgium, Premier Briand of France and Premier Baldwin of Great Britain. All these used ordinary pens, but Foreign Secretary Chamberlain took up a good quill to add his name.

Signor Scialoia for Italy, Count Skrzynski for Poland, and Dr. Benes for Czecho-Slovakia completed the signatures. Then the arbitration pacts negotiated at Locarno were rapidly passed to the delegates.

In a brief ten minutes the efforts of months of negotiation had been legalized, and the nations involved had sworn to observe the historic compacts.

CAMERAS CLICK

As Chancellor Luther bent to affix his signature to the four sheets of foolscap-size paper comprising the main document, a score of cameras clicked. The German statesman raised his head and with a smile bowed in the direction of the cameramen.

Secretary Chamberlain and Premier Briand leaned forward and nodded their heads in approval at each other, and then at their German colleague. When the pact had been signed Secretary Chamberlain arose and handed Chancellor Luther the Allied interpretation of Article XVI of the League of Nations covenant, taking cognizance of Germany's position as a disarmed nation and paving the way for her entry into the League.

Again the cameras ground out their historic pictorial records and again the representatives of the signatory nations spoke in turn, this time to declare that their governments would forever fulfill the obligations to which they had just subscribed.

The British Premier, who was the only one to employ the English language, was visibly moved when he announced that his government welcomed the treaty of Locarno, and would scrupulously and with loyalty fulfill its duties under the compact. Great Britain, he added, was certain that the treaty would not disappoint the hopes of the world in laying the foundation for that peace which had so long been sought. His sentiment was that of the other speakers.

PEACE HOPE STRESSED

Dr. Stresemann delivered his remarks with vigor and conviction. The only delegate to raise his voice above conversational tone, he repeatedly struck the table as he made his declarations.

Nothing, he said, would serve greater purpose in these days of difficulty than the spirit of good will, which the treaty evoked. He looked to the future and the fruition of the work they had done with great hope.

Premier Briand of France, in a solemn voice, declared there was not a person in the world who was not interested in the proceedings of the day.

"I can see across the table the German Chancellor," he said, "and I am sure I can tell him that I have remained a good Frenchman just as he, in coming here, has remained a good German—but both of us are Europeans."

Great Britain's leading statesmen, her ambassadors at the capitals of the signatory powers, the Diplomatic Corps and the privileged representatives of the press crowded the room to witness the signing.

WIVES PRESENT

On a raised platform sat the wives of plenipotentiaries. On another side of the room was a family group of the Chamberlains, Lady Chamberlain, her son and her brother-in-law, Neville Chamberlain, watching the conclusion of the diplomatic triumph of the head of their family.

In the background hovered the Earl of Balfour and Lord Cecil, two of the nation's tried diplomatists, who almost for the first time since the begining of their active careers were witnessing a signing ceremony in which they were not the principal actors.

The bright photographic lights which blazed on the table often bothered the delegates, some of whom shaded their eyes with their hands, and none of whom apparently felt easy in the encompassing eyes of the motion-picture cameras. The final act of the delegates was to send a telegram of thanks to the municipality of Locarno for its hospitality during the negotiation.

Today's ceremony took place in the Victorian reception room of the Foreign Office, renowned in prewar Europe for the brilliant gatherings of statesmen and diplomatists who accepted the hospitality of the British monarch's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. Among the figures of the early-century statesmen who gathered in the gilded room, but who no longer are concerned with the affairs of nations, were the ex-Kaiser, the Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia and Count Apponyi, representative of the Hapsburgs.

HALL REDECORATED

During the war this room, with the adjoining banquet hall and dining-room, was abandoned to typists, who were moved only a few weeks ago. Workmen have restored the gilded luster and the color to the walls. Flags of the nations represented today hung about, and a thick red carpet hid the ink spots and bruises on the once polished floor.

The treaties were not, as is the usual case, engraved on parchment, but only printed in French, German and English on fine paper, with the fourth and last pages left almost blank for the signatures.

The signatures were in alphabetical order of the names of the countries in French, so that Chancellor Luther and Foreign Minister Stresemann, representing Germany (Allemagne,) were the first to sign.

After the signing the German plenipotentiaries proceeded to Buckingham Palace to sign the register. Afterward they attended a private luncheon with Mr. Chamberlain.

All the signers were in the Foreign Office a few minutes before 11 o'clock, when the ceremony was scheduled to start. The Italians were the first of the foreigners to arrive, at 10:30 o'clock, and shortly afterward came the Belgians, French, Czechs, Germans and Poles.

BALDWIN IN RUSE

Foreign Secretary Chamberlain had already gone into the Gold Room from his private office. The actual signers of the pact were in good spirits and appeared to enjoy their privilege, but the secretaries wore long faces.

There was a large crowd of spectators in Downing street, and when Premier Baldwin was seen to emerge from Number 10 the police formed the crowd into a lane through which it was expected the Premier would pass. Immediately upon seeing the large number of people, however, Mr. Baldwin turned sharply to the right, evaded the spectators and entered the Foreign Office by another way. The crowd cheered him vigorously, seeming to be pleased with his little ruse.

The crowd had begun assembling before the time for the signing and by 11 o'clock its numbers had increased so greatly in tiny Downing street, which is only about 150 yards long, that mounted police were assigned to keep the entrance of the Foreign Office clear.

The crowd was especially interested in the German representatives who raised their hats in acknowledgement of similar tribute from some of the spectators.

CROWDS CHEER

The doors were locked a few minutes after 11 o'clock and several late comers with cards of admission were not admitted, much to their disappointment.

It was a happy crowd in Downing street that greeted the foreign delegates as they rolled by in their limousines after the ceremonies.

Premier Briand, all smiles, was the first to pass through the lane of men, women and children lining both sides of the short thoroughfare. Then came Count Skrzynski of Poland, followed by Chancellor Luther and Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany; next Foreign Minister Benes of Czecho-Slovakia, then Foreign Minister Vandervelde of Belgium and last Signor Scialoia of Italy.

The hood of each car was adorned with the national colors of the country represented. The crowd cheered each car as it passed and the delegates all responded with smiles and doffings of hats as their machines disappeared into the traffic of Whitehall.

ALLIED MINISTERS HAIL NEW EUROPEAN ERA

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—"The peace of the world could not have been effected without some great demonstration of international goodwill, such as this ceremony today," said M. Briand, the French Premier, after the security pact had been signed.

"This has been done," he added. "It is the most important step in the history of the modern world and the future should be one of arbitration and collaboration between nations, where war and armament have no places."

In a brief statement, Austen Chamberlain said the conclusion of the Locarno pact has solved the problem of security, while the peace of Europe has been consolidated by the adhesion of Great Britain and Italy.

The treaties were the outcome of a sincere desire on the part of the nations concerned for peace and conciliation. They banished war and provided for the automatic ostracism of any eventual aggressor. To those thinking the pact did not go far enough, he answered that it led straight to disarmament by creating a new sense of security.

Proof of this is that the Council of the League of Nations will prepare a disarmament plan for presentation to the next assembly.

"The Locarno treaty," declared Dr. Eduard Benes, the Czecho-Slovakian Foreign Minister, "has solved the international problems of Europe. It's up to the nations to put their internal affairs on a solid basis and when this is accomplished the prosperity of Western Europe is assured."

Emile Vandervelde, the Belgian Foreign Minister, thought that "the house-cleaning of Europe through the Locarno treaty probably will allow a resumption of closer relations between Europe and the United States, without the United States running the danger of being committed to take a hand in any European affairs."

"The Locarno pact," declared Count Alexander Skrzynski, the Polish Premier and Foreign Min-

SENATE WAVES OLIVE BRANCH

Old Guard Invites Radicals to Party Caucus

Republicans Agree on Policy of Conciliation

Vote on Speaker May End House Hostilities

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. — The Republican "old guard" in the Senate today offered the olive branch of reconciliation to the liberal Republicans in the Senate by sending invitations to Senators La Follette and Nye to attend the party caucus Saturday. The invitation later may include Frazier and Brookhart.

This action means that Senator Gerald P. Nye, recently appointed from North Dakota to succeed Senator Ladd, will be seated in the Senate. Such a reversal of political form has not been exhibited in Washington in a generation.

COOLIDGE INFORMED

The action of the Senate leaders was communicated today to President Coolidge by Senators James A. Watson of Indiana and Richard Ernst of Kentucky and was approved by him. In fact, there is reason to believe that the President has had much to do with inspiring the action taken. When stated point-blank just what the terms mean, Senator Watson said:

"It means that a policy of conciliation has been agreed upon and will be followed in organizing the Republican party in the Senate at the coming Congress."

In addition to inviting the reluctant Senators to the Republican caucus, the invitation which went forward today also inquires whether they wish to be assigned to Senate committees as Republicans.

WATCH SPEAKER VOTE

Simultaneous with the proffer of the olive branch in the Senate, come rumors that the Senate leaders, who only recently determined to organize every committee in the House so that the regular Republicans might control them as against a Democratic-La Follette alliance in the future, may now take their guidance from the vote cast for Speaker of the House next Monday.

If the LaFollette followers vote for Nicholas Longworth, the regular Republican choice, this act may result in a cessation of hostilities in that body also and in the assignment of LaFollette followers to their usual committee places.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BANGKOK (Siam) Dec. 1.— While the whole nation has been plunged in mourning over the death of King Majiravudh, the populace believe that in Prince Prajatipok they have a ruler that will have the interest of the country at heart.

The new ruler, who, with his wife, is very popular with all classes, recently made an extended trip throughout Europe and the United States, where he made many friends.

Majiravudh, who assumed the title of King Rama VI on taking the Far East throne, succumbed November 26, only a few weeks after he dethroned his official wife, by whom he had no children, and promoted to the rank of sovereign Princess Chao Chom Suvadana, who presented him with a baby daughter two days before his death. She cannot inherit the throne, however, and Prince Prajatipok is recognized as the ruling power.

GOVERNOR OUSTS GAME OFFICIAL

antagonism to sportsmen's organizations have long made him a Jonah in the administration ship. He was given every opportunity to go overboard when the water was tepid, but he preferred the chilly ice of ousting. It was with a sigh of relief that I signed the commission for an upstanding man to take the vacant place.

"I have drafted Ralph H. Clock as a member of the Fish and Game Commission because of his peculiar fitness for the place and because he is willing to devote his time to public service without compensation.

"Judge Clock is much interested in the preservation of wild life and believes in the economical handling of funds of the commission. Judge Clock is an enthusiastic sportsman and has hunted and fished in every county in California. He will bring to the commission ripe experience, sound judgment and business methods."

In his letter to the Governor, which he gave to the press before it reach the executive, Newbert declared:

"It is with pleasure that I acknowledge receipt of your letter of November 24, 1925, in which you state that you will appoint a successor on December 1, to fill my place as a member of the Fish and Game Commission. The fact is pleasing to me because I never have set properly in your administration. You and I always have been miles apart in the matter of fish and game finances. It has been my belief that the Fish and Game Commission of this State has not had and has not now sufficient funds to carry on its great work of conservation and protection. Further, I always have believed that the fish and game preservation fund should be spent wholly and entirely for the purpose for which it was created. Thus, you and I have disagreed hopelessly in this great work and I could not conscientiously adopt your program, because I believed it suicidal to the interests of fish and game."

Newbert goes on in his letter, which is a voluminous four-page affair, to review the finances of the commission since Richardson became Governor, claiming that the Governor's first budget allotment to the commission was "wholly insufficient" and required a deficiency allowance. He charged that the Governor "attempted to confiscate the sportsmen's money," but was defeated.

He also told of the fight he made in the Legislature to have the hunting and fishing licenses increased from $1 to $2 a year on the ground that "the income of the commission was not sufficient to the work necessary to be done."

Newbert declares that he has "steadfastly refused to have this commission made a political machine to aid the aggrandizement of any person or party."

"I have insisted," he said, "that its whole aim and effort be directed toward the protection and conservation of fish and game. I never have asked an employee of this commission what his or her politics were, and I care less."

It became known two weeks ago that Newbert soon was to be removed from the commission. The last time Gov. Richardson was in San Francisco a delegation of sportsmen, headed by E. R. Kauffman of that city, waited upon the Governor and requested that Newbert be ousted for the best interests of the sportsmen.

Newbert had been in controversy with the State Board of Control over handling the finances of the commission and the administration also opposed his efforts during the last Legislature to increase the fishing and hunting license fees $2 a year. The delegation that visited the Governor charged that Newbert spent too much time fishing and hunting and not enough in the work of the commission.

Complaint also was made against M. J. Connell of Los Angeles, a member of the commission.

FACES CHECK CHARGES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MESA (Ariz.) Dec. 1.—S. H. Alston, according to the local police, about a month ago borrowed an automobile from a friend, stating that he was going to a show. Two weeks later Alston was found in Muskogee, Okla. He has been brought back to Mesa for prosecution on charges of embezzlement and of issuing bogus checks. The machine had been wrecked.

AUTOS HURT SEVEN IN STORM

Two Drivers Held After Series of Street Accidents; Pedestrians Injured

Five pedestrians were injured by automobiles last night, four of the accidents taking place during the rain. Two automobile drivers were held by the police. In addition three motorists were injured.

Albert Thompson, chief clerk of the Automobile Club of Southern California, was seriously injured when struck by an automobile driven by Harry Parker, 68 years of age, of 1558 South Hobart Boulevard, at Adams street and Grand avenue early in the evening. Thompson, who is 52, was taken to a private hospital after being treated by Police Surgeon Chase. Thompson was badly bruised and suffered injuries to his head. He probably will recover. His address is 231 West Twenty-seventh street. Parker was held by police.

Miss Kate Bernstein, 28, of 4101 Budlong avenue, suffered injuries which may prove fatal when she was struck by a machine driven by William Thomley, 1510 South Vermont avenue, at Santa Barbara and Normandie avenues. Police held Thomley pending the result of her injuries.

Serious head injuries were suffered by Cruz Delgado, 6, of 174 East Thirty-eighth avenue, struck by a machine driven by John Sadler, 124 East Forty-fifth street, at Thirty-eighth street and Long Beach avenue.

Mrs. Pherol Eggeter, 37, of 2119 Magnolia street was injured by an automobile driven by John D. Derenia of 237 West Eighty-third street, at Thirty-fourth and Hoover streets. She suffered head injuries, a wrenched back and possible internal injuries. Her condition is serious.

Charles Carr, 54, of 737 East Fifty-seventh street suffered a possible skull fracture when struck at Seventh and Wall streets by a mail truck driven by Edward Salvage. He was treated by Police Surgeon Renfrew at the Receiving Hospital.

Three persons were injured and two motor cars were badly damaged when the machines skidded into each other at Sixth street and St. Andrews Place.

Those hurt in the collision were Ludy Langer, 32 years of age; his father, Frank Langer, and Miss Elsa Roab, all of 4737 Elmwood street. The senior Langer and his son, who is said to be the former long-distance swimming champion of the world, sustained severe cuts of the head and face, while Miss Roab suffered a severe shaking up. All the injured were in the Langer machine. They were taken to the Receiving Hospital, after being treated by Dr. T. O. Luckett, 600 St. Andrews Place.

The machine which skidded into the Langer car, overturning it, was driven by Albert Milke, 3701 Moneta avenue. Milke escaped injury.

AGED WOMAN KILLED, DRIVER HELD

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 1.—Mrs. Eady Ann Hopper, 52 years of age, was fatally injured at Walnut and Cypress streets, a block from her home at 346 Cypress street, by an automobile driven by Lewis Vibert, 22, of 414 West Colorado street, tonight. Vibert was held without bail pending an investigation.

Mrs. Hopper suffered fractures of the skull and spine and died shortly after arrival at the Emergency Hospital. She is said to have been carrying an umbrella against the rain when struck, and Vibert, who declared he was making only twenty miles an hour, said he thought she did not see his car. She was dragged about eighty feet, according to police.

Mrs. Hopper lived with her daughter, Mrs. C. H. Wood.

RAIN TORRENTS HIT SOUTHLAND

night over the city, with indications pointing to a continuation through the remainder of the night.

Partial flood conditions obtained in various sections of the city. Broadway, from Temple street south, ran a small flood between 8 and 9 p.m., the intersection of First and Broadway being an eddying whirlpool of water. Lieut. Scofield of University police division, reported that at 9 p.m., on Jefferson street in front of and adjoining the station, water was up to the curb line and automobiles were stalled in both directions.

The rain was the first of magnitude since completion of the southwest storm drain and residents of the southwestern portion of the city experienced satisfaction in the changed conditions.

In Glendale, concern was felt for the partially completed storm drain which was damaged several days ago by excessive waters coming from the Verdugo Hills.

Up until 10 p.m., the rainfall there was .80 of an inch. It was still raining at that hour.

Water swirled into stores at San Fernando Road and Brand Boulevard in the suburban city. The street department sent a crew of men out to guard and strengthen the storm drain, which extends from Chevy Chase Drive at Adams street across the southern portion of the city, emptying storm waters into the Los Angeles River bed. A portion of the storm wall about 100 feet in length was broken in recently and fear was felt for other sections of it last night.

The local precipitation was expected to total more than three-quarters of an inch before daylight as the rain continued, although considerably lighter, after Col. Hersey's reading was given. At the time of the reading, the measurement brought the season's total to date up to 2.07 inches. Last year at this time the total was 1.77.

TRAVELS SOUTH

Heavy precipitations were reported from scattered points in Southern California, Point Hueneme recording the heaviest downfall at 1.35 inches. Oxnard was a close second with 1.20 inches. Santa Barbara and Pasadena each reported a quarter of an inch and San Luis Obispo, .18.

Los Angeles Harbor at 9 o'clock reported .70 and it was still raining.

Orange county shortly before midnight was experiencing a general fall and the rain was moving steadily southward into San Diego county.

Although no reading was obtainable last night on Mt. Wilson, a report was received from that point that rain was falling steadily, but not heavily. The temperature was moderate and the opinion expressed that no snow was falling in the near-by mountains.

Similar conditions prevailed along the range east. At Monrovia approximately one-tenth of an inch was estimated to have fallen at 9:30 p. m.

GRAZING BENEFITED

As had been predicted the rain moved steadily southward along the Pacific Coast. In Fresno .12 had fallen at 4 p. m. and dispatches told of a steady continuation. At that time, the fall was nearly an inch more than at this time last year and .20 more than the normal precipitation there for this time of the year.

Rain conditions were general in the Porterville district through the night. The fall began in Porterville about 7 p. m. Cattlemen there were declared in a receptive mood for the rain because of its value to grazing land.

Falling barometer readings were general from San Francisco south during the afternoon, dispatches stated.

The prediction of Father Ricard, Santa Clara University's "padre of the rains," is for a continuation of the rainfall through tomorrow with clearing weather Friday. Another period of "successive depressions taking control of the Pacific Coast, dispensing rains over the plains and snow over the mountains" is scheduled to set in Sunday and last until Tuesday, according to the sun spot prognosticator.

MORE SHOWERS ARE EXPECTED TODAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—More scattered showers are expected to fall throughout California tomorrow before the present rainstorm is over. Forecaster Willson of the Department of Agriculture predicted today that it will rain tomorrow probably over the entire State.

The rain, which started in the northern and central coastal regions Sunday, today extended over the whole State. The precipitation reduced the fire hazard in the Southern California forests to nil for 1925, according to Assistant District Forester Barrett of the Forest Service, who says that all fire danger for the year is over.

The present storm formed in the Pacific, north of the Hawaiian Islands a week ago. It moved eastward slower than government forecasters expected and did not reach the coast until two days after its anticipated arrival.

"The pressure has fallen decidedly over the Pacific Slope and Western Canada," said Forecaster Willson, "causing cloudy and unsettled weather west of the Rockies with rain from Central California northward and the plateau and scattered rains in portions of Southern California. East of the Rockies, the weather is generally fair except in New York, New England and Florida, which, owing to its low altitude, is almost deluged by the rain which has fallen there."

The weather has been so warm this week that the precipation in the mountain regions is in the form of rain instead of winter snows. Almost an inch of rain had fallen at Summit in the high Sierras today and the snow which fell last month is all melted.

Storm warnings which had been up along the Oregon and Washington coast were ordered down this evening.

Following are figures of rainfall ending at 5 p.m. today:

	Last 24 hours.	Seasonal to date.	Seasonal last year.
Eureka	2.06	10.43	20.72
Red Bluff	1.42	4.06	8.13
Sacramento	.62	1.75	3.89
San Francisco	.23	2.37	4.46
San Jose	.34	1.80	2.97

CONGRESS SEES MANY CHANGES

Ninety-two New Members to Answer Roll

Julius Kahn Among Eleven Called by Death

Two Widows Will Take Up Duties in House

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Deaths, voluntary retirements and the voters' recall have brought many changes in the personnal of Congress since the last session began a year ago.

The year has seen the passing of ninety-two members of the House and Senate, and when the gavels fall at noon next Monday there will be seventy-eight new faces in the House and fourteen in the Senate.

Death has ended the careers of five members of the Senate, two of them outstanding characters—Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, veteran of many historic forensic battles, and Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana, one of the very few men to refuse a Presidential nomination of a major political party. Other Senators who have died are Medill McCormick of Illinois; Selden P. Spencer of Missouri, and Edwin F. Ladd of North Dakota.

Of the six House members who have answered the last earthly roll call, two were stalwarts, Julius Kahn, Republican, California, and Robert Y. Thomas, Democrat, Kentucky. Death called also T. Frank Appleby of New Jersey, John Jacob Rogers of Massachusetts, Arthur B. Williams of Michigan and George B. Churchill of Massachusetts.

The widows of two of the dead members and the sons of two others have been elected to succeed them. Robert M. La Follette, the youngest man elected to the Senate in more than half a century, will take the place so long held by his father, and Stewart Appleby will succeed his father in the House.

Mrs. Florence Kahn has been elected to her husband's seat as has Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers. They, with Mary T. Norton of New Jersey, will make up the women membership of the House, with Mrs. Kahn and Mrs. Rogers on the Republican side, and Miss Norton on the Democratic side of the isle.

Outstanding figures in the Senate retired by the will of the voters include Magnus Johnson, Minnesota Farmer-Laborite; Thomas Sterling of South Dakota, an ardent dry leader; A. Owsley Stanley of Kentucky, a leader of the weds, and David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, a leader among the Democrats.

Among the new Senators who come to their offices with far-flung reputations are Coleman L. Blease, former Governor of South Carolina; Frederick H. Gillett of Massachusetts, for many years Speaker of the House; Thomas D. Schall, who succeeds Magnus Johnson after years of service in the House, and W. H. McMaster, former leader of the Non-Partisan League in South Dakota.

Besides Gillett and Schall, the House has lost other members who had made high places for themselves. They include John C. McKenzie of Illinois, Everett Sanders, who retired to become President Coolidge's secretary; Samuel E. Winslow of Massachusetts, Sydney Anderson of Minnesota, long a leader of the farm bloc; Homer P. Snyder of New York, Isaac R. Sherwood of Ohio and James F. Byrnes of South Carolina.

MUNICIPAL COURT PLAN HELD LEGAL

Highest State Court Finds Recent Amendment Valid; Governor Asks Aid

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—The State Supreme Court upheld today the legality of municipal courts established in various cities of the State in accordance with provisions of a constitutional amendment passed by the last Legislature. Included in the cities that have established municipal courts are Los Angeles and Long Beach.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 1.—Before departing for Los Angeles on official business tonight, Gov. Friend Richardson sent to judges, attorneys and others in the southern city a plebiscite containing the names of 111 candidates for appointment to the new Los Angeles Municipal Court.

The document is not a voting plebiscite, but asks for opinions as to the legal qualifications, integrity and capacity for work of the various candidates. In connection with the mailing of the plebiscite the Governor said:

"In appointing judges to the new Municipal Court in Los Angeles it is my desire to appoint the best men I can secure for those important positions. As the positions pay $6000 a year it should be possible to get able men who will consent to appointment, particularly in view of the fact that the average attorney makes less than half that amount. There are eight vacancies to fill and when I have the returns on the plebiscite I will make a special trip to Los Angeles to look over all the candidates."

The Governor said his present trip will be devoted to other matters.

SUM UP RHINELANDER CASE

Defense Counsel Appeals to Jury to Lay Aside Race Prejudice in Judging Testimony

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WHITE PLAINS (N. Y.) Dec. 1.—Lee Parsons Davis, counsel for Mrs. Alice Beatrice Jones Rhinelander, whose wealthy husband is suing for annulment of marriage, completed his summing up to the jury today. Court adjourned until tomorrow when Isaac N. Mills, chief counsel for Leonard Kip Rhinelander, the plaintiff, will begin summing up.

Davis today attacked plaintiff counsel for reading Alice's letters into the record. He appealed to the white men who make up the jury to lay aside race prejudice and judge the testimony on its merits. He challenged plaintiff counsel to justify the conduct of the case.

After stating that the plaintiff had "stripped Alice of every scrap of respectability a woman loves most," Davis said the defendant would leave the courtroom, "shunned alike by the white race and the black."

He said the defense would not try to compel Rhinelander to live with his bride after what had passed in the courtroom. He said he had defended Alice solely that she might retain her honor.

Alice and young Rhinelander sat unmoved by the oratory. Mrs. George Jones, mother of Alice, wept for a time when Davis referred to the action of the plaintiff counsel in uncovering an indiscretion in her early life.

When Davis rested, Mr. Mills congratulated him and the two shook hands. Davis had just stated that the two things he feared most in the trial were race prejudice and Mills's oratory.

Ambassador in Tokio After Storm at Sea

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TOKIO, Dec. 1.—The new American Ambassador, Charles MacVeagh, arrived here this morning after a stormy finish to his voyage across the Pacific. His steamer, the President Taft, rode in a hurricane and arrived twelve hours late.

In an interview Mr. MacVeagh said he looked forward to great pleasure and interest in his new post. He believes that he has come at one of the most interesting periods in the history of Japan. Politically and commercially he will find a number of old friends.

Yesterday the Embassy was moved from the Imperial Hotel, where it has been housed since the earthquake of 1923. It occupies a floor of a new building pending erection of the new Embassy, plans for which are being made.

Arguments on Indictment of Wheeler Ended

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Concluding arguments were heard in District of Columbia Supreme Court today over the validity of the indictment here of Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana.

Neither the government nor defense counsel expects an immediate ruling from Justice Bailey. Jesse B. Root of Montana, representing E. S. Booth, former Interior Department solicitor, made the final argument for dismissal. Booth and Gordon Campbell, Montana oil operator, were indicted with Senator Wheeler on charges connected with the obtaining of oil and gas permits.

SOVIET HIGH CHIEFS SHOT FOR THEFTS

Port Officials Convicted of Misappropriations Die Before Firing Squad

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LENINGRAD, Dec. 1.—Sentences of death have been carried into effect against six former port officials and six private traders for misappropriation of 1500 tons of state merchandise valued at more than $1,000,000. They were shot to death Saturday after the Central Executive Committee of the soviets had dismissed their appeal for clemency.

Among those executed were M. Zhisvitov assistant commandant of the port of Leningrad; M. Linberg, chief of the transport department; M. Rshetkov, head of the supply department; M. Rippa, in charge of the mechanical equipment; M. Cherkasev, chief of fuel stores, and M. Putinstev, head of the building department. All were formerly officers in the imperial army.

The trial involved 123 persons, all of whom, according to Chairman Ulrich of the Supreme Military Tribune, had been engaged in stealing state property for several years.

Death Toll of Three Daily by Cars Expected

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 1.—During the next eight months 924 men, women and children will be killed in automobile accidents in California, according to estimates based on figures made public today by L. E. Ross, director of the State Bureau of Vital Statistics.

The estimates indicate the death of three persons will be the average daily toll paid to smash-ups and accidents involving motor cars.

Total deaths from all causes during the next eight months probably will exceed 40,000, according to the figures which are taken from past records of the bureau.

Poggetto, manager of the California Canning Peach Growers' Association, told the annual meeting of the association today that the State's canning peach crop this year will total approximately 9,000,000 cases or approximately 200,000 tons, a record. The next highest output was in 1922, when 7,844,000 cases were disposed of.

All of the present officers of the association were re-elected at the meeting. S. C. Day of Loomis is president, E. R. Williams, Modesto, vice-president, and G. C. Galbraith, Yuba City, secretary.

COTTON SETS RECORD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YUMA (Ariz.) Dec. 1.—More than 20,000 bales of cotton have been cleaned and baled in the thirteen gins of Yuma Valley this season establishing a new high record for baled production up to the end of November in any year. The rest of the crop, yet to be ginned and baled, is variously estimated from 6000 to 9000 bales.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 1.—Seventy-six thousand bags of coffee, representing one-eighth of the supply of the United States at the time, and valued, before the fire, at $3,000,000, lies under the ruins of the river docks destroyed in the recent blaze. For five days the coffee smoldered, despite the steady streams of water played upon it, with the result that the gutters ran with New Orleans' favorite brew, "cafe noir." Prices of coffee in the United States advanced a cent a pound as a result of the loss.

Cuban Robbed by Motorist Offering Ride

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Dec. 1.—Frank Lamari, a Cuban mining engineer, has advised the Sheriff's office of a new method of highway robbery. On his way to Los Angeles from New Orleans, Lamari says he met an individual whom he knows only as "Earl," by whom he was invited to drive from Tucson to the Coast, providing that the Cuban should pay for gas and oil. Earl came to the hotel with an automobile, but, on the outskirts of Tucson, is said to have produced a pistol and to have robbed the Cuban of $500 in money, his watch and his suitcase. Lamari was brought to Phoenix by a passing motorist, but nothing can be found of the robber.

Johnson, wanted in Santa Rosa for desertion of his family, stated that he would be found walking along the Lincoln Highway between Stockton and San Francisco the next morning. Johnson was also wanted on a charge of pilfering United tates mail while in the Army. In his letter he stated that he had written a complete confession to the United States District Attorney's office in San Francisco.

Saunders, according to an affidavit presented to Coast League officials at yesterday's meeting at Whittier, engaged in the professional bout with Herbert Miller. He admitted that he had received $40 for his services. The vote taken by Coast League officials was unanimous that if Saunders took part in a fight in which his opponent received money, he would be ruled a professional, whether or not it is proved that Saunders received money. So it will be up to the San Diego High officials to prove that Saunders did not take part in the bout if the Hilltops are to remain in the running for the Southern California title.

According to Harry Moore, who heads the play-off committee, the charges against Saunders were not brought up by Santa Ana High School officials, but by a group of Santa Ana rooters, who recognized Saunders as having participated in the Coachella bout. To further back up their claims that Saunders is a professional, this same group journeyed to Coachella, where they produced tickets which announced that the main event was furnished by Miller and Saunders, and also testimony of Miller's manager that his fighter had received $40.

According to advices from San Diego, it is said that Saunders admitted that he fought Miller, but that the bout was put on by an

Englishman Defeated After Hectic Ten-Round Go

Ted Almost Out in Second, But Finishes Strong

Osner Wins Over Folmer in Semi-Wind-up

Leo Lomski, the lion-hearted, stiff-punching Pole from Aberdeen, Wash., won a decision over Ted Moore, the sparkling English middleweight, in the Vernon main event last night, but not until after ten rounds of the hardest kind of fighting. Moore, after almost being stopped in the second round, came back stronger than father's socks and won the hearts of the 6000 fans who braved the inclement weather by his gameness.

Leo Lomski

Not until the last round did Lomski insure himself of victory, such a battle did Moore put up after he had recuperated from the effects of the punishment doled out by Leo in the second stanza.

Moore was the more clever scrapper of the two, and landed more blows, but when Lomski did connect, his punches meant something. Leo's main wallop was a right uppercut, which ne landed on numerous occasions. Lomski also connected with a couple of vicious right crosses during the evening and both blows shook Moore to his heels.

Moore earned most of his points by exhibiting a clever left hand that almost invariably wound up on some portion of Lomski's facial anatomy. Moore, despite all of his cleverness, the bought with a right eye that was all but closed. but closed.

Each battler won four rounds, while two, the third and fourth, were even. Lomski earned shades in the first, second, eighth and tenth, while Moore had the better of the fifth, sixth, seventh and ninth rounds.

In the semi-wind-up, Frankie Osner captured a verdict from Cyclone Folmer, who also hails from the great Northwest. Folmer took the first and fourth rounds, but Osner won the other four stanzas by wide margins. Osner had the better of the infighting, playing a tattoo on Folmer's midsection and

"RED" GRANGE AND GRID MATES START BARNSTORMING TOUR

From Chicago "Red" Grange, the most talked of gridiron athlete of all times, yesterday led a team of former college stars on a tour that will take them clear across the country to Los Angeles, where they are scheduled to play in Wrigley Ball Park in January. At the top, left to right, are McMillan, Mullen, Red Grange, Halas, Walquist, Ed Sternaman and Joe Sternaman. All, including Grange, are former Illinois stars and include the backfield of the Chicago Bears, Red's new team. [P. & A. Photo.]

Famous Redhead Leads His Professional Warriors to St. Louis for First Game

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—The greatest football barnstorming tour in history began today with Harold "Red" Grange, leading a professional team to St. Louis. Thence they invade the East at Philadelphia, New York and Washington. There may be a hasty trip back to Chicago just before the holidays and then the troupe goes to Florida for three games. Next comes Birmingham, Ala., and so across the South and Southwest to a California series, starting at the huge Coast League stadium in Los Angeles and lasting probably until March 1.

Horemans is Still Ahead of Schaefer

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Dec. 1. — Edouard Horemans, the youthful Belgian, continues to lead Champion Jake Schaefer in their world's championship 18.2 billiard match at Orchestra Hall. Horemans ran his string to 1000 tonight, while Schaefer's total now reads 913, and the final 500-point block will be played tomorrow night.

Starting tonight's block, Schaefer was 199 points in back of Horemans. The champion scored 612 points, while the Belgian was gathering his 500 markers, and this scoring cut down Horemans's advantage to 87 points, but that advantage may be hard for Jake to overcome when the rivals clash in the final block.

AMOS STAGG WILL NOT PICK ELEVEN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Amos Alonzo Stagg, 63-year-old dean of America's football coaches, does not believe in the practice of selecting an all-American team. The veteran coach of the University of Chicago says there is no chance of its being fairly done.

Stagg tells those requesting his views that he does not feel competent to lend any assistance in making selections.

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER
BILL HENRY

ANDY SMITH certainly seems to be creating a terrific lot of excitement these days. First, he was going to buy the Oakland ball club and now, while he is in New York, it is freely rumored that he's going to quit California and coach at one of a number of schools, among them U.S.C. We can't think of anything more unlikely to happen than that the Trojans should toss Howard Jones overboard, and the tone of the Trojan denials indicates that the story is as silly as it sounds. We would take no stock whatsoever in the yarn personally, and yet, at the same time it doesn't sound a bit more improbable than the yarn that popped out of a clear sky last January to the effect that Knute Rockne had been asked to coach U.S.C. in place of Gus Henderson. The Rockne story was true, but there isn't any reason to believe that the one about Andy Smith is.

Speaking of excitement, we might mention the Mike Ballerino versus Tod Morgan match at the Olympic Auditorium tonight. It is the first indoor championship match in many years, and finds a genuine world champion risking his title against a Californian. Ballerino is a game and experienced young man, who won his title after battling through a bunch of very tough individuals in the East. Morgan is one of the very classiest featherweights that the Coast has produced since the days of Abe Attell, and stands a good

HAIL, THE CONQUERING HERO COMES! IT'S GUS HENDERSON

"Gloomy Gus" Henderson, who for six years held the position of head football coach at the University of Southern California and acted in a similar capacity at Tulsa University in Oklahoma this season, returned yesterday from the scene of his latest triumphs.

"GLOOMY GUS" HENDERSON

He enjoyed an unusually successful season at Tulsa, his team winning the Oklahoma Conference title. On the team were eight veterans from the 1924 eleven which lost every game of the year. The year before Tulsa dropped every game but two, both of which were tied.

As a result Henderson is rated as a big hero at Tulsa. The day after his team won the championship the authorities closed the classrooms and devoted the time to celebration.

"We want 'Gloomy Gus' back," was the war cry, all of the undergraduates wearing buttons on their coats with that inscription. Henderson signed a contract for only one year, but announced on his return yesterday that he had given the authorities his word he would return next fall.

Henderson's 1925 machine, which early became noted for its forward - passing achievements, won all of its four conference games, defeating the Tennessee

OCCIDENTAL NOVICES IN TRACKFEST

First Cinder Competition of Season for Tiger Men Scheduled Today

Coach Joe Pipal's Occidental College track candidates come out from behind the football smoke screen this afternoon when the annual college novice and interfraternity track and field meet gets under way. The field events will be held today and track events on Friday, which will allow football men a few more days training before going into the competition.

The rules of the first early-season meet of the year prohibit varsity track men from entering events in which they have taken points in intercollegiate meets. Sophomore athletes are at a distinct advantage, being able to run in their pet events and from the advance dope should pile up a commanding score.

The fraternities have their eyes set on the Spalding trophy which goes to the house placing the greatest number of men in the meet. Once a man places he has done all he can for his organization, the result being that fraternities have made it compulsory for their men to enter the meet regardless of whether or not they have ever had a track suit on before.

The 440-yard run has the earmarks of being one of the best races of the meet, with such men as Capt. Kenneth Montgomery, star middle-distance man; Campbell, 440 man from Hollywood high school, Milton Nash, star 440 man from last season's freshman team and a star in his prep school days, Ward Schwizer, a capable freshman athlete from Franklin High School, and Irving Eckhoff, a strong junior 440 man, all entering this event.

Goodheart from the peagreen eleven of last season should have little trouble in the distance events while Vic Kline, holder of the Southern California 220-yard dash record at 217-10 seconds, is favored to cop the dashes with Milton Nash a close second.

CASEY LEAGUE STARTS

The Knights of Columbus winter baseball league will open Sunday with two games on the schedule. Alhambra plays Long Beach on the former team's grounds and Los Angeles Council mingles with Stephen M. White Council at Eighth avenue and Slauson. Glendale and Henry T. Gage Councils draw byes this week.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 1.—An announcement from Los Angeles that Jack Dempsey is willing to meet Luis Firpo, Argentine heavyweight champion, if a bout can be arranged before Dempsey fights Wills, drew a statement from Firpo today that he was ready for a battle with Dempsey July 4 at Tia Juana, Mex., or Los Angeles.

HESTON HAILED AS GREATEST FOOTBALL STAR BY COACHES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—A dinner given by Christy Walsh in honor of Tad Jones of Yale, Glenn Warner of Stanford, Fielding Yost of Michigan, and Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, at the Commodore tonight developed one of the most interesting football discussions yet held in this city. The coaches answered a rapid-fire attack of questions hurled at them by some twenty-five football writers.

Rockne, Yost and Warner seemed to agree that the greatest player of all time was Willie Heston of Michigan. Warner, who coached Jim Thorpe of Carlisle, created a sensation when he said that the Sac and Fox Indian fell short of being the greatest because he lacked fire and the determination to play hard all the way through.

"Ernie Nevers, the Stanford back this season, was about as great a football player as there ever was," said Warner. "He is a 200-pounder, strong as a bull, fast as a streak, courageous to the limit, hard to stop. He can do everything. I never have seen a better man, and I coached Thorpe."

NEWTON STARK TRIED AT HALF

Sub End Works Out With Backfield Quartet

Schulmerich is Big Star of Farmer Outfit

Dixon Named Coast Tackle by Grid Critics

Coach Howard Jones, the well-known mesmerist, made a few passes over Newt Stark the other evening and attempted to convert that young man into a halfback. Newton galloped hither and yon about Bovard Field, along with the regular backfield material, but whether or not he uncovered anything to warrant further development was not disclosed. Just why the eminent Mr. Jones should labor to convert a seemingly respectable substitute end of value into a halfback—a position at which even now material in more or less abundance flourishes—is somewhat obscure up to this late hour. However, Mr. Jones has negotiated several shifts in his squad to date, and happily all have

NEWT STARKE

With Limping Hank LeFebvre believing his name by scorching up and down the field as of yore, a faint rosy hue is again to be seen about the Trojan institution. The resulted with no small degree of success.

The shifting, even though temporary, perhaps, of the versatile and tender Newton, was the first step in the preparation for the forthcoming Oregon Aggies, who are to disport gayly about the Coliseum Saturday afternoon. The Washington State defeat of still painful memory is being held up as a shining example of what can happen to a stale and overconfident football machine. That the approaching Aggies are undoubtedly several degrees tougher than the Cougars is freely admitted on all sides, and as a consequence no small amount of work will be necessary in order to cope successfully with the enemy.

return of the able Long Beachite will add a valuable threat to the Trojan band. Henry has been decorating the side lines with considerable consistency of late, due to various and sundry injuries, but has been finally released from the infirmary and will perform in the manner to which he has been accustomed.

The only injury of note occurred to Capt. Hobbs Adams, who thrust a careless jaw in the way of a Cougar hoof last Saturday, and is minus a tooth as a result. Aside from a slight lisp, however, the Trojan leader is in shape.

While E. Wesley Schulmerich is the really outstanding star of the Oregon Farmers, Coach Paul Schissler does not lack for a flock of minor twinklers, who have been known to register important gains at opportune times. Quinn, a halfback, has tossed numerous left-handed passes in games to date that have accounted for more than one touchdown. The U.S.C. defense against the Cougar passes last week might be reasonably classed as not particularly brilliant, which is a point decidedly in favor of the visiting Mr. Quinn.

Jimmy Dixon of the Aggies, rather than California, is a tackle par excellence, and has been placed on numerous of our all-Coast selections which have appeared in the public prints to date. Dickerson, his running mate, is reputed to be far from a slouch, and lacks top honors only because of the brilliant ability of his team-mate. Snider, the fullback, does the punting, and so far has managed to outboot every rival to date, with the exception of the Stanford tilt, in which he was forced to bow to the superior ability of Ernie Nevers.

As for E. Wesley Schulmerich, himself, some one has arisen to remark that one might take Ernie Nevers, Red Grange and Morley Drury, roll them neatly but firmly into a single bein, and the result would be E. Wesley Schulmerich. The general idea seems to be that he plunges like Nevers, runs like Grange, and possesses the versatility of Drury. At any rate, the record proves that E. Wesley Schulmerich has yet to miss his first place kick or conversion of the 1925 season.

The Aggies are due to leave this morning and will arrive Friday. The game here will be the final one of the season for the orange-shirted outfit.

amateur boxing association, and that he did not receive any pay. Inasmuch as the bout was held three years ago, when professional boxing was not allowed by the State law, San Diego can also use this fact to bolster up its defense that Saunders did not receive money for his bout against Miller.

TITLE TO SANTA ANA

If Saunders is ruled a professional at today's meet, which will be held at 12 o'clock at Whittier High, Santa Ana, instead of San Diego, will meet Fullerton High in a semifinal play-off game Saturday. According to Harry Moore, the game will be played on the Santa Ana gridiron.

In order that the Santa Ana eleven might be in good condition should it meet Fullerton, Coach Charles Winterburn put his gridders through two hours of signal practice yesterday.

The other semifinal play-off game on for Saturday brings together "Chief" Newman's Covina eleven and Venice on the Gondoliers' field. Covina won the San Gabriel Valley title and won its way to the semifinals by drubbing San Fernando and Santa Maria in play-off tilts. Venice captured the Bay League championship and last week defeated San Bernardino, 13 to 6, in a play-off game.

Wilshire's golfing women defeated California's representatives 5 1-2 to 3 1-2 yesterday, and are now leading in the Class B division of the Women's Auxiliary Team League.

Mrs. Curt Rosenthal and her fast-golfing Hillcrest team mates, defeated Rancho, 5 to 4, in the only other league clash.

By winning three points from Hillcrest's first team, Mrs. Madelyn Baer, captain, and Mrs. Dan Jones, of Rancho, remain tied with 11 1-2 points in the individual-point contest sponsored by the auxiliary in connection with the feminine team play. Mrs. Gregg Lifur and Mrs. C. W. Fellows, of California, are tied for second, with 9 points.

Doctors—the "big game"—by a score of 28 to 7, whereas the year previous the Doctors won, 56 to 0. Tulsa lost two outside games—one to the Haskell Indians and one to Arkansas.

Henderson gives all the credit for his winning team to the men on the eleven. He said they had a world of spirit, and were fighters from the word go.

With his return to the land of sunshine and flowers, "Gloomy Gus" announced he would spend considerable time on preparations for the summer season at Catalina Island, where he is half proprietor of a boys' camp with Bill Hunter.

Auto Club and Casa Del Mar in Title Tilt

HOCKEY LEAGUE STANDINGS

Team	Won	Lost	Pts.
Auto Club	3	0	6
Casa Del Mar	2	0	4
Hollywood A. C.	1	2	2
Los Angeles A. C.	1	3	2

Whether the Auto Club team of the California Amateur Hockey League will win the first section of the championship race will be practically determined Thursday night at the Palais De Glace when the motorists meet the fast-coming Casa Del Mar sextet in another of the season's "crucial" games.

Victory for the Casa del Mar team will give it a tie for first place with Tom Murray's autoists and will leave the race an open issue again. But if Murray's men can get past the beach club it will become a practical impossibility to stop them, during the first half of the schedule, at least.

The Casa del Mar sextet, doped before the season began to be the tail-enders, have been the surprise of the league. They lost their first engagement to the Auto Club in the last two minutes of play by a single goal, and since then have defeated both the Los Angeles and Hollywood clubs, largely by a fighting spirit that never ceased in its drive until victory was won.

STATISTICS RATE TROJANS HIGH; HAVE CHANCE TO LEAD

With but two more games remaining on the schedule, the Thundering Herd of Coach Howard Jones faces the task of scoring some forty-seven points in order to lead the country in points scored for the season. And this against the Oregon Aggies and St. Mary's. A fair task in anybody's league.

The Herd must average twenty-four points fh each game, for Washington leads the works, according to the latest figures, with 461 points while the Trojans have amassed 415. Second place is reasonably assured, for the locals lead Dartmouth, their nearest rivals, by a matter of seventy-five points, and the Big Green schedule is long since closed.

WILL PLACE HIGH

Kaer, Drury and Elliott have a chance for third and fourth place in the ten leading individual scorers of all conferences, now occupied by Lane of Dartmouth and Carr, the brilliant captain and star of Syracuse. In the event this happens only "Peggy" Flournoy of Tulane and Tryon of Colgate would lead them in first honors for all conferences.

Data corrected to date give U.S.C. third position in number of points scored per game; second in total points scored all conferences. Kaer, Drury and Elliott are still in the first ten leading scorers all conferences and U.S.C. in seventh place defensively by virtue of that blond Washington tornado that swept the Coliseum Saturday.

Of the first ten leading teams of all conferences, in defensive ability the eastern conference places four: Dartmouth, Columbia, Fordham and Cornell. Alabama upholds honors for the southern conference, Michigan for the Big Ten and U. S. C., Washington, Oregon Aggies and Stanford for the Pacific Coast.

GOOD FOOTBALL

This standing, in connection with unquestioned offensive ability, points unerringly to a superior class of football in the Far West. In offense the Pacific Coast rates as follows: Washington, first place; U.S.C., second; Oregon Aggies, seventh, and Stanford, ninth. On defense, Washington, fourth place; Oregon Aggies, sixth; U.S.C., seventh, and Stanford, eighth.

TROJAN HARRIERS WILL GALLOP SOON

Long-winded athletes at U.S.C. will get their first chance to test their ability this season Friday afternoon when Coach Dean Cromwell will lead his prospects in a preliminary cross-country gallop. The dash is to be an interclass affair, with the first five men from each class being eligible for the finals which will be held in January.

Letter men are not barred from this meet, which means that Cromwell's best harriers will compete against the novices. Les Heilman and Brown of the junior class and Mike Elwood of the senior organization are the leading choices for the mile-and-a-half grind.

DEMPSEY AND FIRPO WILLING

Los Angeles bout was received in Dempsey's camp here last night with the comment that it was "very gratifying and cheering news." Formal proposals to Firpo will be made immediately, Dempsey said.

Spokesmen for Dempsey declared that promoters were ready to stage a Los Angeles bout between the South American heavyweight and the world's champion, and that plans for the affair would be placed under way tomorrow.

One hitch, however, faced the proposed proceedings. Firpo must consent to do battle before July 4, Dempsey said. The world's champion said he was in good condition now, and would be prepared for a bout with Firpo in April or May, not later.

As to the location of the bout, Tia Juana, Mex. "is out of the question." The promoters are ready to stage the bout in Los Angeles, Dempsey's spokesmen declared.

ALLEGRINI WINS

Ad Allegrini, former L.A.A.C. middleweight, defeated Paul Duarte without much trouble in the six-round special event. Allegrini finished in front in every round except the fourth, which was fairly even. Duarte suffered visible harm from the effects of a body attack which Allegrini dealt out, which Ad occasionally varied by slapping across rights to the chin. Duarte was almost out on several occasions but managed to stick it out until the finish.

Bernard Wolf took a decision from Sailor Carter after four exciting rounds in the second spot. Wolf won by a four-round rally, the going having been nip-and-tuck up until the final stanza.

Both the title holder and Lynch, a San Francisco boy, were reported in top condition. Rosenberg's crown will not be in jeopardy as his opponent will come in considerably over weight.

PREP CAGE DATES ARE ANNOUNCED

Los Angeles to Play Six Games; Season Will Open on 31st Inst.

Interest in the fast-approaching prep school basketball season was increased, when Irven Hague, vice-principal of the Jefferson High School announced the 1925-1926 schedule. This year's season will open on the 31st inst., and will close on January 29. According to the schedule, the Los Angeles High School quintet will play six games with the five other City League teams playing five games.

In the opening games Los Angeles will clash with Polytechnic and Jefferson will get into action at Lincoln. Three games a week are scheduled for the following three weeks. At the present time the title is a toss-up between three or four teams. Hollywood, Lincoln, Manual Arts and Los Angeles have shown up well in practice tilts. Polytechnic also looms as a title contender. Franklin and Jefferson both have weak teams, although Franklin may surprise.

The various schools have had teams under way for the past few weeks. Lincoln so far has looked like the class of the City League, but the competition should be remarkably close. Numerous practice tilts are on tap and the squads will be rushed at a fast pace for the next month.

December 31—Polytechnic at Los Angeles, Jefferson at Lincoln.

January 5—Franklin at Los Angeles, Polytechnic at Hollywood, Manual Arts at Jefferson.

January 12—Franklin at Polytechnic, Los Angeles at Hollywood, Lincoln at Manual Arts.

January 19—Franklin at Hollywood, Los Angeles at Jefferson, Polytechnic at Lincoln.

January 22—Franklin at Manual Arts, Lincoln at Los Angeles, Jefferson at Polytechnic.

January 26—Hollywood at Manual Arts.

ST. MARY'S SQUAD WORKS OUT INDOORS FOR FRESNO BATTLE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

OAKLAND, Dec. 1.—Rubber-soled shoes replaced football cleats today as St. Mary's varsity football team went through a snappy signal practice in the gymnasium preparatory to their gridiron tilt with Fresno State Teachers' College at San Francisco Saturday.

Rainy weather which blanketed the Bay region checked the Saints in their training, but Coach Ed Madigan was not to be denied and drill shifted from an outdoor sector.

Coach Madigan said today that the cripples on his squad were rounding into shape with indications that a well-balanced team would be on the field Saturday. Three star players, however, are confined to the hospital, O'Rourke, end; Contas, quarterback and Strader, fullback.

The game with Fresno is of great importance to St. Mary's and the outcome can determine the 1925 champions of the far-western conference. Should the Saints win they will have clinched the title while a defeat will give the University of Nevada a greater percentage.

SOCCERITES CLASH SUNDAY

Vikings Battle Scots; Sons of St. George Meet Thistle in Double-header at Loyola Field

Another attractive soccer program is billed for Loyola Field Sunday, with the Vikings and the Scots principals in the feature event timed for 3 p.m. The other half of the bill brings together the Sons of St. George and the Thistles starting at 1 p.m.

Greater interest, however, will center on the Viking-Scots encounter because of the fact that the contestants are more evenly matched and also because both elevens have been playing in great form recently.

Last Sunday, the Scots held the Mercurians to a tie. In their first meeting they defeated the club, 1 to 0, which is sufficient proof that Archie Murdoch has a powerful team. Their lowly standing in the league table is accounted for by misfortunes which seemed to trail the team at the start of the season. They have now evidently hit their stride.

The same is true of the Vikings. On their last two appearances they showed excellent form. So marked was the improvement that many impartial fans have picked them to win the league cup, provided they can maintain or even approximate their present form.

The meeting of these teams will provide the vehicle for a bitter battle of superiority. The Norsemen are anxious to close the gap on the leaders who are resting, so that they will be in position to display Hollywood when these teams meet the following week.

Fashionable people from all over the world made New York their Mecca last week to attend the National Horse Show at the Squadron A Armory.

The famous Mount Vernon Tea Room at the Horse Show, shown in the picture, is the scene of many a smart affair where many a toast to the horse is drunk in Clicquot Club Pale Dry Ginger Ale—the only ginger ale served at the Horse Show.

The Pale Dry Clicquot has a subtle delicacy that makes an intriguing appeal to the sophisticated taste. Like caviar or terrapin, it is for people of discrimination. It is so "dry" that it merits the French word sec.

GOODRICH SIGNS FOR TITLE GO

Will Defend Crown on Christmas Fund Card Against Vinez

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Negotiations that have been going on spasmodically for the last three weeks culminated today in something of an anticlimax when Jess McMahon, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, succeeded in signing Jimmy Goodrich, lightweight champion of the world, and Lucien Vinez, lightweight champion of Europe, to meet in the main bout on the Christmas fund card to be staged at the garden on the evening of the 23rd inst.

Goodrich is recognized in the State of New York, at least, as the lightweight champion of the world, having won the boxing commission's elimination tournament, which was organized for the purpose of finding a successor to the retired Benny Leonard. It is this somewhat synthetic title that will be at stake when Goodrich faces the Frenchman. They are to box fifteen rounds to a decision.

McMahon and the Christmas fund promoters regard their contract with Vinez as quite a bargain, and they feel they have completed a stroke of smart business for the charity show. According to the contract which the French boxer and his manager, A. Ulrich, signed this afternoon, Vinez is to receive $1000 if he loses and nothing at all if he wins. While the figures contained in the champion's contract were not made public, it is understood he is to receive $10,000 if he wins, and $12,000 if he loses.

PAOLINO WINS BY KNOCKOUT

Spanish Heavy Floors German in Ninth Round; to Invade America

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—Paolino, Spanish heavyweight boxer, who recently announced plans for an invasion of the United States in the hope of meeting Jack Dampsey, tonight knocked out the German heavyweight, Hans Breitenstraeter in the ninth round.

Battling with terrific pace, Paolino had the better of the German champion from the start. In the first round he opened a gash over Breitenstraeter's right eye. The second was even, and after losing the third, the German waged a plucky comeback, sending the crowd into a frenzy by winning the fourth, fifth and sixth. The bell saved him in the seventh, however, and in the ninth the Spanish woodchopper sent the German down for the count with a left. Paolino weighed 201 pounds, Breitenstraeter weighed 184.

ROUNDING THIRD

by Hugh A. Jennings

THE TEAM THAT DRANK POP

Chapter III.

The players all dressed in a large banquet room. When I entered I called them together and told them:

Hugh Jennings

"My father saw me play for the first time today and he's tickled about our winning. He wants to buy you all a drink. Now, my father is a temperance worker. He doesn't suspect that any of you ever took a drink in your life. I have been telling him what a lot of fine fellows you are, so when you step to the bar order something soft."

They all promised they would, and in due time they arrived in the barroom. My father was standing at one end of the bar. I stood beside him, and all the players lined up. The bartender went down the line asking each man what he would have to drink. The bartender's look was one of puzzled wonderment as each player ordered lemonade or pop or sarsaparilla or milk, but he never cracked a smile.

STRICKEN DUMB

My father was as awestricken as the bartender. He looked down the bar at the array of soft drinks, gazed at the silent line of men sipping them, and finally leaned over to me and asked:

"Don't any of these ball players ever take a drink?"

"No, certainly not," I answered.

"Saints an 'ages, an' what a foine lot o' young men!" commented my father.

I continued working in the mines through the week and playing at Lehighton on Saturday afternoons. When the baseball season ended I went along with my mining, driving mules and picking up coal in the black tunnels. The next spring Webb Clauss came to Moosic and told me he wanted me to be his regular catcher and live in Lehighton. He also wanted O'Hara, another miner, who pitched for the Moosic team, to come with me. O'Hara and I were to be the battery of Lehighton. We both accepted.

BIG SALARY

Clauss had promised us each $75 a month. Clauss could not pay all of this. He had an agreement with the merchants of the town that they were to pay part of his players' salaries, and the players were to earn the other part by working when they were not playing ball. Clauss explained to us that he would pay us $35 a month out of the merchants' fund, and that he would get us jobs where we could earn the other $40 to make our total $75. This arrangement suited us.

When O'Hara and I got settled in Lehighton, the jobs were ready for us. I was a painter's helper and O'Hara became a plumber's apprentice. When not playing ball the Lehighton battery was painting and plumbing.

Having my father's full approval, I went right ahead with my mind free. He was satisfied that I was engaged in an occupation that earned more for me than mining ever could and that I was associated with sober and industrious men who spurned liquor and behaved themselves.

CATCHER O'HARA

I stayed in Lehighton through the season of 1890. I did the catching and O'Hara did the pitching. O'Hara never advanced but that was not his fault. He hurt his arm and the injury ended his career. O'Hara might now be listed with the pitching stars of all time had he escaped injury, for he had much speed and an excellent curve ball. He was also unusually intelligent.

The O'Hara case impressed me with the gamble that base ball is. A player never knows when his career will be stopped. An injury seemingly slight and the kind that the layman would pay little attention to, can halt a base ball career. It is a precarious business, no matter how carefully the player may look after himself.

In 1891 I received an offer from Louisville, then in the American Association. I jumped at the chance to play big league ball. Who wouldn't?

My position with Louisville was not certain. I was signed to play shortstop and first base. I had never played either position. In Moosic and Lehighton I was always a catcher. I wanted to play big league ball and it made no difference to me where I played as long as I got a chance to play.

As a member of the Louisville Club I was not a howling success. I was a weak batter. My fielding was not exceptional. When I say that I did not go big with Louisville, I am placing myself rather low, for Louisville at that time was a weak team. If a man had a chance anywhere in the big league, he had it at Louisville. But while I did not burn up the league at Louisville, I never lost hope and I kept on trying. While not good I was just about good enough to hold on and that, in the end, proved good enough, for I did not stay with Louisville many seasons.

Entry List is Big for H.A.C. Grappling Meet

The Pacific Coast amateur wrestling championships are to be decided at the Hollywood Athletic Club when something like 250 grapplers from all sections of the Coast meet. The event will continue through three days. The Navy has entered the leading mat performers and title-holders and these men are expected to give the club entrants a rare race for the laurels. Archambeau, the all-navy welterweight king, is ranked as a top-heavy favorite in his division.

Harold Pitcher, flyweight champion of the Pacific Coast, a member of the H.A.C., is conceded as having the best chance to retain his laurels. He is in excellent trim, having kept in good condition with frequent matches, and is generally favored to win.

Officials of the event are preparing to handle the three-day meet in record style and a good crowd of spectators is expected. The Navy is looked to for a special rooting section for its champions and a special block of tickets has been set aside.

LONDOS AND STECHER IN MAT BOUTS

Two Grapplers in Final Mat Tilts Before Title Match Here

Joe Stecher and Jim Londos are making their last public appearances tonight before entering the ring at the Olympic Auditorium December 14 to grapple for the heavyweight wrestling title now held by the former. Stecher is booked in Oklahoma City while Londos is appearing in Chicago. Neither is expected to have any difficulty in winning tonight and both will leave for the West immediately after the contests.

Londos will come directly to Los Angeles and establish his training quarters in Long Beach, where he prepared for his last combat with the champion four weeks ago. Stecher will go to Dodge, Nebraska, first for one day where he is booked to preside at an important meeting of the local American Legion Post, of which he is commander. As soon as that business has been attended to he will come to the Coast.

Amateur Mitt Entry List to Set New Mark

Entries close today in the Pacific Coast amateur boxing tournament to be staged at the Olympic Auditorium under the auspices of the L.A.A.C. on the nights of the 11th and 12th insts., according to the announcement made yesterday by Charley Keppen.

This tourney, always staged in a private gymnasium previously, is being held in the downtown fight club for the two-fold reason that there is a record entry list expected of seventy-five simon-pure boxers and because of the fact that in the club gymnasium the public cannot take in the bouts.

Last night there were fifty-three entries and an additional twenty names will be added to the list today, it was expected. This will mean that there will be in the neighborhood of seventy-five contenders for the eight titles at the time the fighters weigh in the first afternoon of the bouts. Figuring that some few o fthese will not be able to make weight, being allowed only one-half pound leeway, there should be thirty bouts lasting from one to four rounds, the night of the 11th inst.

QUEEN CATHERINE SURPRISES

Wins Dash for High-Class Platers at Tia Juana, Beating Knighthood and Jack Fairman

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TIA JUANA RACE TRACK, Dec. 1.—Queen Catherine, in the silks of R. E. Neal, western turfman, proved the big surprise here today, winning the feature event of the afternoon, the sixth race, a dash of five and one-half furlongs for high-class platers.

Jack Fairman, from Irwin barn, was favored, but could never get to the front, Knighthood setting a killing pace. Then Queen Catherine moved up to take them both. As a result of Knighthood's defeat there will be no new silk shirts for the colored populace.

Pepper Tea, one-time winner of the juvenile stakes at Tia Juana, came back to the track today to win at the first asking, taking the third race. It was Pepper Tea's first race at Tia Juana for several years.

Results:

First race, five and one-half furlongs—Leonard Thomas (Roach,) won; Miss Edna (Buck,) second; Old Blue (Corbett,) third. Time, 1:09 1-5.

Second race, mile and one-sixteenth—Brian Kent (White,) won; Rapid Traveler (Nathan,) second; Marion North (Wallis,) third. Time, 1:50 1-5.

Third race, five furlongs—Pepper Tea (Owen,) won; Anna Regina (Bazilio,) second; Vibrator (Cress,) third. Time, 1:03.

Fourth race, six furlongs—The Gaff (Wallis,) won; Lake Chapala (Zarelli,) second; Cleon Rochester (Neal,) third. Time, 1:14 3-5.

Fifth race, mile and one-sixteenth: Crystal Boer (Costello,) won; Nebraska Lad (Wallis,) second; Spires (Buck,) third. Time, 1:48 2-5.

Sixth race, five and one-half furlongs—Queen Catherine (Neal;) won; Knighthood (Wallis,) second; Jack Fairman (Martinez,) third. Time, 1:07.

Seventh race, five furlongs—Jack Alexander (Vessell,) won; Golden Sweep (Roberts,) second; Sunny Maid (Wallis,) third. Time, 1:01 4-5.

Eighth race, mile and 70 yards—Herby Coles (Hesham,) won; Extra Edition (Hoy,) second; Bryndar (Neal,) third. Time, 1:44 3-5.

OBSERVATIONS BY BILL HENRY

chance, according to advance dope, of giving our fair State another world's title-holder to accompany Mons. Jacques Dempsey and Sig. Fidel La Barba. There ought to be a bulging house.

M. B. Rice, who supplies us regularly with interesting statistics on football teams all over the country, blames U.S.C.'s troubles on a schedule that, as he says, "was drawn up for plough horses and not for finely-tuned racing animals. Saturday's failure was due entirely to the team being stale. U.S.C. has a heart—and a strong one—don't let anybody forget that. Lack of confidence never gained anything, and roasting from the outside never did anybody any good. I believe in U.S.C. and its ultimate standing. Coach Howard Jones is worth his weight in gold to U.S.C. and to Los Angeles, and I don't mind telling the world about it." That's the old pepper.

We continue to be swamped under the mail from the football fans. A. L. H., who confesses to being a fair co-ed from Stanford, writes rather indignantly in reply to a letter we published from one Mr. Wallace of Washington, in which he objected to Prexy Wilbur's protests against rough play in the Washington-Stanford game. Miss A. L. H. replies that Mr. Wilbur's letter was a statement couched in very excellent English, to the effect that he understood from authentic sources that there had been a violation of rule 29 on the part of the Washington players, and that if so, he didn't think it ought to be encouraged. She says, "Might it not be inferred that Washington, forced by the weight of public opinion, played clean fotoball against Oregon, and as a result darn near got a good licking from the worst team in the conference?" That's a hot one.

Another correspondent, D. D., who seems to be writing rather regularly, points out an interesting development in football in the case where a team is offside on the fourth down, but fails to make yards, and the opposing team is unable to refuse the penalty, so the offensive team gets another chance from five yards farther back and does make it. He points out the case in the U.S.C.-Iowa game, where the Trojans were penalized on the fourth down as Bob Lee made a touchdown, but were called back five yards and then they made it on a pass to Laranetta. The case in the U.S.C.-Washington State game was even more interesting. In that case U.S.C. actually lost the ball on downs, but both teams were offside, and on the fifth down U.S.C. managed to make it.

NEW ALL-AMERICAN CANDIDATE APPEARS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SANTA CLARA, Dec. 1.—Adam Walsh, head coach at the University of Santa Clara, received word today that he was a father. A son was born to Mrs. Walsh at Hollywood. Walsh was a member of the famous University of Notre Dame football team of 1924, and was named as center on the all-American eleven of that year.

ALGER IS CONFIDENT

Bay City Scrapper Not Afraid of Tommy O'Brien's Knockout Punch; Pair Meet at Hollywood

There will be little cause for fight fans to protest the decision in the Hollywood American Legion Stadium main event this week if the claims of the fighters are lived up to. Tommy O'Brien makes no bones of the fact that he expects to stop Billy Alger like he did Joe Schlocker and Teddy O'Hara. Alger comes to Los Angeles knowing what has happened to Ace Hudkins, Schlocker and O'Hara, and still he says he will take all the punches O'Brien can hand out and deliver enough himself to cop the win.

It is very seldom that two boys get together who can hit like O'Brien and Alger. Dode Bercot has fought all the best welterweights on this Coast. He beat Bobby Barrett twice and not one of the fighters he has faced has come as close to stopping him as did Alger. If Alger can all but knock out Bercot he is a worthy foe for such a fighter as Tommy O'Brien.

Ace Hudkins and Mushy Callahan don't want a fight with Tommy. They have been tendered contracts calling for an engagement with O'Brien, but no matchmaker has been able to get their signature to said contract.

Billy Alger is willing to fight any boy in the world for the junior welterweight title. He has as good a claim to this title as anyone now fighting. Jimmy Duffy, recognized on the Pacific Coast as a very capable fighter and in many places as the Coast welterweight champion, has not fought Alger. San Francisco promoters have tried to arrange this bout, but Duffy balks.

RUMANIA TAKES OFFER ON DEBT

Commission Accepts Plan Proposed by America

Funding Over Sixty-two-Year Period Satisfies

Liberal Terms Granted for Early Payments

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The Rumanian debt commission has accepted the American offer for funding its government's debt to the United States, and the terms have been submitted to President Coolidge for his approval.

The debt aggregates $46,508,000 in principal and accrued interest.

The arrangement, it was indicated, is along the general line of the British settlement, except that slightly easier payments are set for the early years of the sixty-two-year contract. The provisions for the first ten years were described in some quarters as being comparable to the concessions given in several settlements where it was held beyond the capacity of the debtor to make full returns until further economic stabilization had been accomplished. Interest rates were understood to be 3 per cent in the early years, with 3½ per cent during the remainder.

The Rumanian debt was one of the few obligations held by this government that did not represent some cash advance for prosecution of the war. It became the subject of concern for the State Department early in the year because of the action of the Rumanian government in concluding arrangements with some of its other debtors without consideration of the United States. Several curt notes were dispatched on the subject and Minister Jay and Minister Culbertson, in turn, made strong representations to the Bucharest government.

FRENCH MINISTRY HOPES FOR DEBT BASIS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, Dec. 1.—Louis Loucheur, Minister of Finance, told newspaper men this afternoon that "the new ministry is unanimous in wishing to resume negotiations for the settlement of France's war debt as soon as possible."

"The ministry hopes for a reasonable solution between ourselves and our Allies," he asserted.

Commission Majority for Public Operation

Minority Report Favors Leasing of Plants

Divergent Views Given Out After Investigation

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Majority and minority reports of the President's Muscle Shoals Commission, made public today, disclosed that the majority favors government operation of the properties if a satisfactory lease is not forthcoming, while the minority holds out for private operation.

The majority, Chairman McKenzie, former Senator Dial of South Carolina, and R. F. Bower, urged the importance of continued maintenance of Muscle Shoals as a part of the national defense, "the crying need of agriculture for more and cheaper fertilizer and the favorable opportunity for meeting that need."

The minority report, signed by Prof. Harry A. Curtis of Yale and William McClellan of New York, declared private leases were indispensable and that separate power and fertilizer leases should be made.

It recommends creation by Congress of a Muscle Shoals board of five members to be appointed by the President for a five years' term to arrange for leasing.

It favors the leasing of Wilson dam, the hydroelectric power generated there and the steam electric power generating plant at nitrate plant No. 2 for a period of not to exceed fifty years.

PROSPERITY OF ISLANDS ENHANCED

Report Shows Past Year to Have Been Bountiful for Insular Possessions

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. — The annual report of the chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, made public today, cited detailed figures in support of its statement that in the Philippines, Porto Rico and Santo Domingo, the year ending June 30, 1925, was one of prosperity and general advancement. Maj. Gen. Frank McIntyre, who signed the report, said the external trade of the Philippines was in quantity "greater than in any previous year in the history of the islands. Measured in value, however, the total was less than in 1920, due to the higher prices of that year. The total of imports and exports amounted to $248,000,000, which, as stated, was only exceeded in 1920, when the total was $300,500,000. Of the imports approximately 60 per cent came from the United States and of the exports approximately 70 per cent came to the United States. This varies but slightly from the normal.

"The most striking feature," the report continued, "is the great development in the production of centrifugal sugar, due to the comparatively recent construction of a number of modern sugar mills in the islands. The estimated production of centrifugal sugar for the sugar year 1924-25 was 483,000 metric tons. It is interesting to note that of this production this year, the centrals financed and practically owned by the Philippine National Bank produced 172,000 tons; American-owned centrals, 184,000; Spanish, 103,000, and Filipino, 81,000."

PROTECTON OF TIMBER URGED

Secretary Work in Report Sees Forest Famine

Revision of Reclamation Policy Held Needed

Proposal to Charge Off Huge Loss Forecast

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Protection of the government's timber lands, a revision of its reclamation policy and a prompt and sympathetic study by Congress of the Alaskan problem, are the chief recommendations contained in the annual report of the Interior Department submitted to Congress today by Secretary Work.

Administration of the department during the past fiscal year was shown to have cost $40,173,468 less than the previous one and savings of $82,635,930 were effected in the last two years.

Recommendations for measures to protect the timber reserves were based on the Secretary's prediction that at the present rate of consumption the country will soon be faced with a timber famine, and as a means of rehabilitating the government's reserves he urged Congress to revise the Timber and Stone Act so that the present government acreage would remain intact for ten years.

CALLS ACT OBSOLETE

The section of the Timber and Stone Act relating to timber was said to be obsolete, and should, the report asserted, be repealed, the leasing or sale of stone deposits to be continued.

Calling attention to the fact that the reclamation fund originally intended to revolve or be funded in ten years had not been funded in twenty years, and that there are large tracts of productive lands on irrigation projects for which there are no settlers, the Secretary declared that "until measures have been put into effect to solve these problems of settlement and development and the old projects have been made self-sustaining, the advisability of undertaking new projects would seem to be conjectural."

The Secretary said a report will be made to the present Congress embracing recommendations under the new reclamation law covering the proposed charging off of approximately $26,000,000 in losses to be levied against unproductive lands, which was suggested by the department's fact-finding committee.

"If this relief is approved by Congress," the report declared, "it will relieve farmers from indebtedness they cannot meet because of obstacles such as land of little or no value. Whether the loss to the government is $26,000,000 or double that is not of material concern when balanced against the continuance of a mistaken policy."

DEPARTMENT CAUTIOUS

The Secretary said that the department had been cautious in beginning application of the $4,230,000 for projects and extensions appropriated by the last Congress because of experiences with old projects, and held up entirely the $3,600,000 Baker project in Oregon.

In the interest of proper reclamation development, the Secretary said, the government should have the active co-operation of the States to the extent that the States should take over the projects on their completion and assume responsibility for their settlement. This, the Secretary added, the States have declined to do, and under the proposed revised policy, such a refusal by a State would be taken as evidence against the feasibility of a proposed project.

Alaska was described as a Territory which is rapidly becoming a "lost province" and where opportunity for expansion had been curtailed by bureau officials "made hesitant by limited authority." The maximum population of 75,000 whites had shrunken to 30,000 (estimated) and production from its natural resources wavered and receded.

The Secretary recommended a change in Federal policy to secure permanent preservation of grazing lands on the public domain. The gratuitous use of the public domain as an unrestricted range for live stock, he said, had resulted in overgrazing and large areas were almost denuded of native grass.

Attention also was called to the present homestead laws limiting stock-raising on tracts of 640 acres. This was said to be impracticable.

Co-operation of the States with the government in administering the affairs of the Indians was urged.

SLUGGERS OF UNION AT CEMETERIES

Grave-Diggers' Strike in Chicago Denied, and Aid Asked of Authorities

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Officials of Calvary, Mount Olivet, Mount Carmel, Holy Sepulchre and All Saints cemeteries said today that the newly organized cemetery employees' union has put sluggers at their gates in an effort to compel grave diggers to join the union. The cemeteries have appealed to the county authorities for protection. They deny that their employees are on strike, as asserted by the union.

"Our grave diggers receive a wage of $5.40 for a working day of eight and one-half hours, irrespective of the number of burials," said the officials' joint statement. "They are good and industrious people and well satisfied with the conditions under which they work."

"Union officials, in saying that the cemetery employees have struck for $6 and eight hours, are deliberately misrepresenting the facts," the statement said.

"County authorities will find that there is no strike if they will drive armed ruffians away from the cemetery gates," said the statement in conclusion.

WOMAN PHYSICIAN TO TAKE POSITION HERE

DR. VAN ALSTINE FOR MANY YEARS EXAMINER FOR FRATERNAL ORDER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 1.—Dr. E. E. Van Alstine, who recently gave up the office of Secretary of Oregon Assembly No. 1 of the United Artisans, which she has held continuously for the last twenty-seven years, expects to leave Portland within the next month for Los Angeles, where she has accepted a position of the supreme medical board of the United Artisans fraternal organization.

Dr. Van Alstine was elected treasurer of Oregon Assembly No. 1 of Portland in 1897, and was elected secretary one year later. In addition to filling the office of secretary, she has been examining physician of the United Artisans in Portland for the past twenty-two years.

At the "wedding party" held recently in celebration of the merger of Commerce and Oregon assemblies, members of Oregon assembly, through a committee composed of Mrs. A. Lockridge, Judge William N. Gatens and Mrs. M. Hobkirk, presented Dr. Van Alstine with a handsome gift in recognition of her faithful service.

Oregon assembly, which had a membership of about 200 when Dr. Van Alstine first assumed the duties of secretary, now numbers almost 1000 members.

NEGRESS OBSERVES HER 116th BIRTHDAY

SEEKS PENSION BUT DOESN'T KNOW ON WHICH SIDE HUSBAND FOUGHT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Dec. 1.—Clara Stanley, negress, who believes she is San Antonio's oldest resident, quietly observed her one hundred and sixteenth birthday in her home. She is trying to get a pension on the strength of her husband's Civil War service. She isn't sure on which side he fought, but she knows he was in the war, and is trying to have the pension bureau in Washington trace his record.

The aged negress has been a Methodist for more than 100 years. She is a charter member of St. Paul's Methodist Church, and the senior member of its congregation, both in age and length of membership.

Born in slavery on the plantation of Col. Gabe Smith near Frankfort, Ky., Clara was transferred from owner to owner until she finally found herself in Galveston, Tex. She was at this place in 1865 when the slaves were given their freedom. She was born in 1809.

Coming to this city thirty-five years ago, then a very old woman, Clara worked as a domestic servant until ten years ago, at which time she retired from active life at the age of 106 years. She is now making her home with her daughter.

SYRIAN REVOLT SHIFTS GROUND

Rebellion Centers Around Homs and Hama

Danger of Renewed Battle at Damascus Seen

Present Situation Well in Hands of French

BY GEORGE SELDES
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1925, by the Chicago Tribune]

BEIRUT (Syria) Nov. 27. (Via Cairo on account of the censorship.) Numerous minor events indicate a third big shift on the battle front of Syria. The first phase ended with Gen. Gamelin's brave march into Suedia, and the second with the march into the Djebel Druse, or Druse Mountains. The second phase brought the eruption of the Druse tribesmen into Christian Lebanon, culminating in the heroic defense of Hashaya and its relief by Col. Lobez. Today it seems as if the rebellion is centering around Homs and Hama with the additional danger of renewed fighting around Damascus.

Between Damascus and Baalbek the Hama Railway has been cut, twice being cut by rebels under Aramanan Shallash, the leader of one of the four main columns, the others being Bakry of Damascus, Sultan Atrasch of the Druses and Zeid Atrasch, his brother. Shallash is an educated politician and not a wild Arab. Recently Shallash gave Gen. Sarrail, the French military governor who was recalled to Paris, an ultimatum that he would either have a Cabinet post or he would turn bandit. He turned bandit.

PLANS BROKEN UP

The significance of the outbreak of the rebellion around Homs and Hama is that it breaks up the French plans for the suppression of the Druses, disperses the French concentration, creates chaos for the French and gives the rebels the upper hand. Whenever the rebels have made a stand, as at Suedia and Hashaya, the French have smashed them completely, but within a week they appear suddenly elsewhere, forcing the French to move unwieldly columns to attack them. As soon as the French artillery opens the rebels move elsewhere.

It is the American Indian wars or the British Boer war over again, and the only solution seems for a French Army of 50,000 or more which would actually form a front across the nation and sweep the rebels out.

It is the mobility of the enemy and their refusal to accept a pitched battle which makes the French ineffective.

One solution for this, according to British officers with whom I have talked in Mesopotamia, is an air fleet. The French are hardly using any planes here. One hundred airplanes could accomplish more than the present 80,000 troops.

BITTER OVER REPORTS

However, the situation has never been entirely out of hand despite the reports from Cairo, Jerusalem and Constantinople. As long as the Mohammedan masses do not join Bakry, Shallash or the Druses, the French will be able to check the enemy attacks. In the meantime the French command is bitter over reports, especially from Cairo and Jerusalem, which high officials brand as lies and which ten London and Chicago correspondents here verify.

Pan-Islamic propaganda first reported that 25,000 had been killed at Damascus. Later it was reported that there had been a second bombardment of Damascus. The London Post reported the rebels as capturing Deraa and the London Daily Mail reported Gen. Gamelin as defeated at Deraa. The London Daily News recognized that Sidon and Tyre were menaced. These reports, emanating from Cairo and Jerusalem, were collected by French headquarters as samples of lies circulated for the purpose of hindering the French operations and destroying French prestige.

MINOR EVENTS CENSORED

This censorship deals mainly with minor items. An instance of the censorship was the refusal to pass a report that the Syrian native gendarmes were a total failure, that 100 gendarmes who should have protected the towns when the Druses attacked feigned death or ran when two Druses fired two shots. The French also censored the fact that several Foreign Legion soldiers, after the heroic battle of Hashaya, where half the strength were casualties, got drunk and looted Christian shops. Likewise they censored the fact that the French burned eight Druse villages for retaliation. These are minor incidents which anyone with any military knowledge understands are a regular part of war.

The situation sums up as follows:

The French are defeating the rebels everywhere, but the rebels reorganize and attack new towns, massacring Christians and making it extremely difficult for the relief columns to rush in every direction. The greatest danger lies in a Moslem uprising which thus far has been confined to the Bakry and Shallash bands totaling from 5000 to 10,000 men.

ORPHANS' KIN MUST BE POOR

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 1.—Orphans whose relatives own automobiles shall not receive State aid. Mrs. Amy Steinhart Braden, chief of the children's bureau of the State Board of Control, so decided today. Her decision was reached when she discovered that several orphans receiving help from the State have relatives owning cars, her contention being that if the relatives have enough money to buy and operate automobiles they can afford to support the orphans without help from the State. The same construction was placed on ownership of radio sets with the exception of home-made outfits.

"MA" FERGUSON GOES ON VISIT

Quits Ship of State to Tend Her Posies

Husband Steers Craft as Storm Rages On

Courts Grind Out Awards in Highway Suits

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

AUSTIN (Tex.) Dec. 1.—The center of the Texas political highway-liquor controversy today gravitated slightly toward Temple, Tex., where the personality of chief interest, Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, went on a visit, leaving her husband to face a turbulent situation in the capital, while courts ground out highway judgments and received the financial fruits of Atty.-Gen. Moody's first highway victory.

The high spots in the situation were these:

Mrs. Ferguson suddenly left the Capitol for her former home in Temple, where she planted some rose bushes and did some Christmas shopping.

James E. Ferguson, the Governor's husband, stated that the Governor had made no formal announcement of her stand on the demand for a special session made by fifty members of the Legislature.

JUDGMENT PAID

The Travis county District Court entered judgment against the American Road Company which the Attorney-General sued for excess profits on highway contracts. The court, in entering the judgment, said that 20 cents a square yard for topping highway was an unreasonable price. This was the contract price awarded by the Highway Commission.

The American Road Company, presented a check for $286,025 to the clerk of the court as partial satisfaction of the judgment. Canceled claims will constitute the remainder of the judgment.

Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star Telegram, declined to accede to the Governor's demand for his resignation from the board of regents of West Texas Technological College, charging that the demand was "a smoke screen to divert attention from the highway revelations."

Employees of the highway department, including 1800 road laborers, were left without a payday because the Highway Commission could not function with only one member. Mrs. Edith E. Wilmans of Dallas, candidate for Governor, sent Gov. Ferguson a message of greeting in which she said, "Don't let them bluff you." She said "Mooney hasn't fooled the public."

WORKS IN FLOWERS

While the swirling cross currents rocked the ship of State, the captain was working among her flowers in the quiet town of Temple. Mrs. Ferguson was accompanied to Temple by her daughter, Miss Dorrace Ferguson, and had been in her old home town but a few hours when she invited reporters to meet her "to get things right about this report that I slipped away from Austin to avoid reporters and the stress of business."

In the absence of his wife, Ferguson here carried on as usual, issuing statements, granting interviews and conducting the business of the office, a major portion of which he has always shouldered in his avowed capacity of "hired man" to the Governor.

While reiterating that Mrs. Ferguson has made no definite statement on whether she will call a special session, Ferguson tonight declared to the Associated Press that "of course she reserved the right to act whenever a decision is reached."

"POET-BURGLAR" DRAWS TERM

William J. West Has Penned His Lays in Many Jails

DENVER, Dec. 1.—William J. West, 65 years of age, "poet-burglar of the Rockies," who has penned his lays in jails, prisons and penitentiaries throughout the West for forty-five years, heard the familiar word "guilty" for perhaps the hundredth time in Judge Henry Bray's division of the West Side Court.

The veteran burglar was found guilty of burglary and larceny by force, an outgrowth of his arrest November 3, last, when R. W. Coyler, switchman, caught him in his home at 4100 Bryant street with his arms loaded with plunder, consisting of clothing, drawing instruments and jewelry.

DOLLAR BID ON SHIPS OPPOSED

Fleet Corporation Head Wants New Offers

Prices Called Inadequate for Admiral Vessels

Control of Two Services to Orient Factor

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Rejection of the bid of R. Stanley Dollar, vice-president of the Dollar Lines, for charter and purchase of the five combination passenger and cargo vessels of the Admiral-Oriental line, was recommended to the Shipping Board today by President Crowley of the Fleet Corporation.

It was recommended that new bids on a competitive basis be invited for the sale of the line and that if none of these proved satisfactory, that the line be taken away from the Dollar interests, who are at present operating it for the Fleet Corporation.

Mr. Crowley held that the prices offered by Mr. Dollar were inadequate. The line operates from Seattle to the Far East.

If the board adopts Mr. Crowley's views, Mr. Dollar, who is here, will consult by wire with his associates at Seattle.

The Dollar offer is for a charter hire at the rate of $1000 a month for each vessel for five years and purchase at the end of that time for $600,000 a ship. Capt. Crowley holds that the line is as profitable as the Pan-American line operating out of New York to the East Coast of South Africa, which was recently sold to the Munson Steamship Company, and that an equal price should be received for the Admiral-Oriental ships. The Pan-American ships sold for $1,024,000 each.

Concern was felt on the part of some of the commissioners of the board because of the views that perhaps it was inadvisable for the Dollar interests to operate the Admiral-Oriental line for the Fleet Corporation while the same interests were owners of the California-Oriental Line, a parallel competitive service running out of San Francisco to the Far East. The two lines in one hand under present conditions, it was held, raised the question of freight movement policies that might prove objectionable.

Reallocation of the northern line to another operator was suggested as a solution.

DRUG PEDDLER SENTENCED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—Joseph Clancy, reputed leader of a drug-peddling ring, which was broken up by the government in 1923, was sentenced today to five years in McNeil's Island penitentiary, after having been found guilty of violation of the Harrison Drug Act.

CHRISTMAS NECKWEAR EXPOSITION OF FOREIGN SILKS

Every wife, mother, friend of the men of this community—every connoisseur of fine silks and neckwear—will want to see it.

You are invited to the NECKWEAR EXPOSITION OF EUROPEAN SILKS now being held in the windows of our store at Sixth and Broadway. This is the most comprehensive collection of fine neckwear in America assembled for your inspection just prior to Christmas.

The silks are imported—the best qualities that can be made in all of Europe—designed by the foremost artists of Europe—examples of the centuries-old knowledge of European silk makers—with rare touches of individuality influenced, probably, by the very old surroundings in which they are loomed.

The weaves are unusual — the colorings fresh from London and Paris—the combinations in some instances are very unusual, but still very beautiful.

Among them you will find French Ombres, famous Dupree prints, hand-loomed Austrian mogadores, English repps of a bold type, Irish poplins, Silverwood's French poplins, French Jacquards, Raye mogadores, Ski moires and Jacquard figured knit scarfs, sometimes called the Rolls-Royce of knitted neckwear.

In addition to having all of these lines represented in our Neckwear Section for Christmas gifts, the most unusual window display ever attempted in Los Angeles will be staged in our Broadway Street windows. No other store can possibly reproduce a neckwear display to compare with the magnitude or beauty of this one.

WAGER LIVES ON OLD ADAGE

Devil Explorers Take Uke to Soothe Savages

Three Men Face Cannibals in Relic Quest

Face Death in Uncharted Fastnesses

BY COL. P. H. FAWCETT, F.R.G.S.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FORT BAKAIRI (Matto Grosso, Brazil) May 22. (By courier to Rio Janeiro, Nov. 30.)—In our final preparations for the coming months of exploration and archeological research, which we hope will reveal the cradle of the oldest of all American civilizations, we have been making some important studies and inquiries regarding the savage tribes which will surround us in the jungle.

The Brazilian Indian has an unsavory reputation. He has never responded to advances from the Brazilian government. He has receded reluctantly before the invader, until the vast state of Matto Grosso is his "last stand," and here the white man has left him alone and defiant.

There are dozens of Indian tribes in this unknown land. Some of them are cannibals; others have habits and customs almost equally unpleasant—such as the stick throwers, who first break your leg and then inquire your business. Practically all the tribes regard hostility as an honorable profession and the white man as their natural enemy.

Yet I believe our little party of three white men will make friends with them all, using such primitive mediums as the ukulele and the flashlight to express our friendship. During our few days in Fort Bakairi, we have had an opportunity to try the ukulele as a "weapon of friendship" and it succeeded mightily.

Tomorrow we plunge into the wilds.

FAST-GROWING TOWN

Fort Bakairi is a growing frontier settlement. It has grown from one hut in 1920 to twenty now in 1925.

The main motive of the government in establishing the post was to seek the lost gold mines of Bakiri, which a prominent government official believes are located somewhere nearby. No progress has been made in this quest, but it is conceivable that real initiative might find valuable gold deposits in many parts of Matto Grosso. In ancient times the placers of this area yielded enormous riches.

As a secondary motive, Bakairi is expected to prove commercially profitable through the exploitation of rice, beans and tapioca, which could be marketed in Cuyaba. The local population, in fact, lives from the cultivation of these articles, for which they receive an infinitesimal return.

These local citizens are low-caste Brazilians of degenerate type. There are no schools and no religion. The people are ignorant, listless, and obsessed by fetishism, borrowed from the Indians. The witch doctor and the soothsayer have full rein in these backward communities.

If any place ever cried out for the services of a good British or American medical missionary, it is Bakairi. There are a number of such missionaries in towns further down the river, where I think their work is not so necessary as here.

OUR INDIAN NEIGHBORS

To the east of Bakairi are the Caiapo Indians, an aggressive but primitive lot of stick-throwers who cut off and kill wandering individuals and rob the plantations. Their only weapon is a short club like a policeman's billy, but they are so skilful with it that they can break the leg of a victim at more than 100 yards. This is their ordinary method of attack. Having broken a stranger's leg, they crawl up on their crippled victim and dispatch him at their leisure.

Northwest of Bakairi are the Gamblo, a tribe of Indians with a peculiar light-reddish complexion. They are mentally of a superior type, and possess an advanced idea of art. Numerous enough to command the respect of their neighbors, they are jealous of their liberties and have no use for such civilization as they have met among outlying posts of the Brazilian government. A trading station was recently established in their territory with a staff of inspectors from the government's Indian Bureau, but it was promptly burned by the Gazabis, and no attempt has been made to replace it.

Of the other Indian tribes which dwell in the regions beyond the Gazabis and Caiapos, very little is known, even by the government officials. In fact, the latter seem rather eager not to know much.

During my few days here, I have succeeded in meeting representatives of both the neighboring tribes, together with a group of the Minaco Indians, who live far north. They told me, too, of the cannibal tribes of Makiri and Toya, who are also north-dwellers. The Toya are troglodytes, living in subterranean caves. But the various tribes are not well informed about each other, and their languages have apparently little in common.

MUSIC HATH POWERS

You can picture us giving my Minaco friends a concert, to their great delight. My son Jack with the flute; myself with a ukulele banjo. The scene was a bare mud hut, lit by three flares on the floor; our listeners were naked Indians, two of them women, some on the floor, others in string hammocks. At the close of the concert, they were so pleased, especially with the ukulele, that they gave us an enthusiastic invitation to visit other villages.

There are few real explorers in Brazil today, and the old-time exploring spirit which characterized the early Portuguese in Brazil has volatized under the softening tropical influence.

We shall be in touch with our objective in about a month; and shall probably have reached it by the time this dispatch is printed. Before that time, we shall be able to send out only one article, about ten days hence, when we shall write our final message of preliminary character, from the interior point where our two Brazilian "guides" will leave us to the mercy of the cannibals and savages.

I take this opportunity, therefore, to bid farewell to thousands of Americans who have followed the preparatory stages of our expedition and to express to them my confidence that in the fullness of time we shall return with news of those lost civilizations which we have come so far to seek.

This is the second of a series of three articles relayed by Indian runners from the Brazilian jungles.

Pauline Blair

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—More and more, Germany is discarding the staidness for which it was noted in prewar days. Berlin is seeking the crown of Paris for feminine styles and novelties of apparel are coming from Berlin quite as frequently as they arrive from Paris. The latest fad in Berlin is the lace-top rolled stocking. Pauline Blair, noted American beauty, just returned from a European tour, brought back an assortment of hosiery featuring the new Berlin style.

SENATOR TO FIGHT RATE IMPARITY

Gooding Will Introduce Bill to Equalize Long and Short-Haul Charge

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BOISE (Idaho) Dec. 1.—Before leaving for Washington, Senator Gooding of Idaho made definite announcement that he would continue his aggressive fight for passage of a bill by Congress to bring about a permanent settlement of the long and short-haul freight-rate controversy that has waged in in the Interior West and South for more than twenty-five years.

Senator Gooding sponsored a bill at the last session of Congress to accomplish this purpose, but it was smothered in the flood of bills in the lower house after it had passed the Senate, 54 to 23.

The Gooding bill would strengthen the fourth section of the Transportation Act to prohibit railroads from attempting to stifle water transportation by making abnormally low rates at water terminals and recouping their losses by charging unduly high rates at interior points.

During the final debate on the bill in the Senate last session, Senator Gooding served notice that he would demand "justice and fair play" for the interior before giving consideration to appropriations for rivers and harbors.

"We have spent $1,250,000,000 to improve rivers and harbors to build up water transportation," the Senator said, "but there are very few boats on the rivers today because the present long and short haul law permits the railroads to keep the ships out of business by a vicious system of rate-making which discriminates against consumers of the interior and forces them to pay the bill for the fight against the ships."

Senator Gooding illustrated the manner in which railroads carry on their fight against the boats by citing an application of western transcontinental railroads pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The rate on dry goods from Chicago to the Pacific Coast is $1.58 per 100. The same rate is charged from Chicago to all points west of a line passing midway through the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas and on to the Gulf. The railroads are asking for permission to cut the rate from Chicago to Pacific Coast terminals to $1.10 without changing the rate to intermediate points.

If the application is granted, Ogallala, Neb., 320 miles from Chicago, would continue to pay $1.58, while the rate to San Francisco, 2261 miles from Chicago, would be cut to $1.10. Scranton, Iowa, 376 miles from Chicago, would pay $1.10, the same as San Francisco for its haul of 2261 miles.

"This is just one sample of the many discriminations the railroads are attempting to force on the interior today," Senator Gooding said. "My bill will not prevent the railroads from meeting water competition, but it will compel them to give the interior country the same treatment they give to the coast.

"Our fight must go on. There can be no compromise on an issue that is so fundamentally right. All that we folks in the Intermountain West want is the same right and the same opportunities that are given elsewhere."

OPERA SINGER DIES AS AUDIENCE WAITS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—The curtain was held and the audience waited between the first and second acts of "Herodiade," at the auditorium last night while call boys went to summon Wilhelm Beck, baritone, to go on as Vitellius. He was found dead in his hotel room. Beck, a native of Hungary, but a naturalized American citizen, acquired a fortune after he joined the Chicago Civic Opera Company when it was founded in 1910. He planned to retire from the stage but the World War came on and he lost everything he owned in Hungary. Before coming to Chicago he had sung in New York, Paris, Vienna and Budapest. He was 55 years of age.

ARICA PROBLEM INVADES GENEVA

Pershing's Plebiscite Delay Protested to League

General Misinformed, Says Chilean Minister

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

GENEVA, Dec. 1.—The Tacna-Arica affair between Chile and Peru, regarded here as the Alsace-Lorraine problem of South America, suddenly entered the portal of the League of Nations today when Senor Valdes Mendeville, Chilean Minister at Berne, presented a memorandum to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general, which is considered a protest against Gen. Pershing for retarding the holding of a plebiscite in the two South American provinces.

The memorandum declares that Gen. Pershing has perhaps been placed in an erroneous position by reports furnished by his experts, or American observers, who "speaking little Spanish and being insufficiently acquainted with the internal conditions of South American life or the diplomatic proceedings of Peru are incapable of judging the situation."

The object of Senor Valdes Mendeville in presenting the memorandum is not clear as Chile has apparently made no formal appeal to the League of Nations on this controversy. It came up in the League several years ago at the instance of Peru and Bolivia, but the League never acted, as it was believed that the South American counties preferred to handle the problem by themselves.

COOLIDGE MAY ACT AS ARBITRATOR

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

ARICA (Chile) Dec. 1.—The possibility that the Tacna-Arica plebescitary commission's deadlock will have to be referred to President Coolidge as the arbitrator, was seen today as a result of the Chileans' abstention from the commission's work.

The Chileans again stayed away from yesterday's meeting, sending a communication in which they said they must refuse to participate in any activities not directly connected with the plebiscite to determine whether Chile or Peru shall have sovereignty over the disputed territory.

Their absence caused a lack of a quorum and should they continue to remain away observers believe that only President Coolidge as the arbitrator will be able to solve the deadlock.

JAIL IF YOU ESCAPE TRAIN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—It will be not only dangerous but illegal for any motorist to attempt to beat a train to the crossing in Contra Costa county, northeast of San Francisco, on and after Wednesday, the 16th inst. An alarming disregard of railroad signals has prompted the county Board of Supervisors to pass an ordinance making such carelessness punishable by a fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment in the County Jail for not more than six months, or both.

SON OF STEEL CHIEF MUST PAY DAMAGES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—Miss Eunice Lawlor, a stenographer, was awarded $21,600 in the Superior Court here today as damages against J. J. Tynan, Jr., son of the head of the Bethlehem Steel and Ship Building Company here, as the result of injuries received in an automobile mishap two years ago. According to the testimony, Miss Lawlor, who was riding with Tynan, was severely injured when he crashed into another automobile. He was held guilty of reckless driving.

MARRIED TEACHERS BARRED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—The Board of Education today reaffirmed its policy of not employing married teachers in San Francisco's public schools.

When Superintendent of Schools Gwinn presented the requests of two former teachers for reinstatement, the women members of the board went on record as emphatically opposed to the requests. The teachers resigned recently to get married.

"If I had my way about it, there would be no married teachers in the schools," declared Mrs. Mary Prag.

"They ought to stay home and take care of their husbands," said Alice Rose Power.

"Well, if that's the opinion of the board we'll let the matter drop," replied Gwinn.

FROMENT PAINTING IN LOUVRE MUSEUM

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Dec. 1.—Nicholas Froment's "The Resurrection of Lazarus" was hung in the Louvre Museum of Paris today for the first time. The painting was purchased for 1,750,000 francs at Amsterdam recently, when the collection of the bankrupt Italian-Austrian financier, Camille Castiglion, was sold to pay part of his debts. The painting was shown temporarily in Paris in 1904, during the exposition of French primitifs, to which the banker lent his masterpiece.

CALIFORNIAN KILLED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PEORIA (Ill.), Dec. 1. — Earl Williams of Sacramento, Cal., died here last night, the result of injuries received in an automobile accident in East Peoria Saturday. He is the second man to die in the wreck, a third man seriously injured.

German Potash Loan Overtures Receive Setback

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Efforts of the German potash monopoly to place part of a $50,000,000 international loan in the United States have failed to obtain the approval of the State Department, it was reported in financial circles today. As a result, the bond issue probably will be sold entirely in European markets.

Objections raised to the flotation of the loan in the United States, it is understood, were based on the theory that American financial assistance should not be given to foreign industries which have a virtual monopoly of production and which might utilize the funds to maintain high prices.

NEW WARSHIPS SENT TO CHINA

Three American Destroyers Start from Manila

Threatening Conditions in Orient Cause Step.

Chang Tso-Lin Again Looms as Martial Figure

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MANILA, Dec. 1.—Three more American destroyers left here today for Shanghai owing to the threatening conditions in China.

The destroyer McCormick left Manila on Saturday, last, for Shanghai. At the time it was said three more destroyers were being held in readiness should it be decided to send reinforcements.

CHANG TSO-LIN MAY MAKE COMEBACK

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 1.—Marshal Chang Tso-Lin still is a factor to be reckoned with even south of the Great Wall, where elements which deserted him recently in the apparent collapse of his hold on China outside his own provinces of Manchuria, now are reconsidering their defection.

Gen. Li Ching-Lin, civil Governor of Chihli and a former henchman of the Manchurian war lord has reopened negotiations with his old chief at Mukden, although he was one of the leaders in the recent anti-Chang revolt.

Since Gen. Sun Chuan-Fang, the Chekiang Governor, withdrew his troops from Shantung after they had followed the Manchurian forces retreating from the Yangtze River, there have been several conflicts between the Honan troops who entered Shantung from the west and Chang's men. The latter have at least held their own and this factor seems to have decided Gen. Li to seek a new understanding with Chang.

Japanese reports reaching Shanghai say that Gen. Li is in communication with Chang, who is urging Li, Marshal Wu Pei Fu, Sun Chuan-Fang and Gen. Chang Tsung-Chang, Governor of Shangtung, to co-operate with him in subduing his enemies, "the radical" Feng Yu-Hsiang, the Christian general. Gen. Kuo Sung-Ling, who revolted against Chang, and Yueh Wei-Chun, Governor of Honan.

All reports tell of dissension among followers of Kuo Sung-Ling who expected Chang to flee to Japan. Instead, the Manchurian leader is showing a bold front and making desperate attempts to win over the leaders of the central province alliance.

PAPERS ANGRY AT RIOT-REPORT DELAY

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PEKING, Dec. 1.—Indignation is expressed here in the Chinese and American newspapers over the delay in making public the reports of the judges' inquiry into the Shanghai riots of May 30, last. The reports have been in the hands of the diplomats since October 24. The Chinese Foreign Office has sent a new note to the Diplomatic Corps demanding publication.

It is learned on the best authority that Justice Stanley Johnson of Manila, the American member of the commission, rendered a minority finding, which was censored by the Shanghai authorities. His report suggests the dismissal of Police Commissioner McKuen of Shanghai. The British and Japanese judges' report exonerate the Shanghai authorities.

It is known that the American Legation wishes to issue the reports at once, but diplomatic formality is empowering the dean of the Diplomatic Corps, Moudendijk, the Netherlands Minister, to hold them up.

The Peking Leader today prints a letter from Justice Johnson, written during the session of the inquiry, for release on the 1st inst., which says:

"The Chinese situation cannot find a solution in secret and difficulties cannot be hid behind prison walls. No solution can be made at the point of the bayonet nor by the use of powder or lead."

The letter also says that the commission findings are to be given full publicity, while the Leader, in an editorial, demands that the Diplomatic Corps do this at once.

C. J. Fox, owner of the North China Star of Tien-tsin, says in an editorial today:

"It is quite generally known in Peking that the three judges have submitted separate findings and that the American judge was so severe that the diplomats hesitate making his public. Justice Johnson has requested that it be published and unless the document soon makes its appearance in Peking it will be given out elsewhere. The public is entitled to know the verdict and there is no reason why the Diplomatic Corps should further delay in giving it out verbatim."

Some quarters fear a recrudescence of the anti-British outbursts. The Post says that Mr. Johnson's decision covers the same ground and makes the same report as the diplomatic committee of early in June, which was suppressed through pressure on Downing street.

Chief of Paris Trade Chamber Hits Monopoly

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Dec. 1.—M. Kempf, president of the Paris Chamber of Commerce, has stated that French Chambers of Commerce decidedly favor abandonment of all government monopolies to private companies.

"We can't go into details," Kempf said "but we can make statements of principle which the government should take into account. We can not figure exact expenditures or revenues which a country should expect from new management of such a monopoly because we have not the necessary documents to judge by. Therefore, we do not know under what conditions tobacco and match monopolies or various public services should be farmed out. But if we handled our private affairs as the government handles the country's we would be in a sorry fix."

M. Kempf said French business men are perfectly willing to make the necessary sacrifices to restore credit and improve finances but that the entire population without exception should bear a share of the burden.

"There are top many exemptions at the base of each tax and the only one we admit is the exemptions for large families."

M. Kempf believes the head tax should be paid by every one.

COURT WINDS UP AFFAIRS ON EVE OF TENTH ANNIVERSARY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—On the eve of the tenth anniversary of the closing of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition the financial affairs of the corporation were finally closed today and the three surviving trustees were discharged by Superior Judge Ward. The trustees are C. C. Moore, H. T. Scott and R. B. Hale. Rudolph Taussig and John Britton, the other trustees, are dead.

All the assets of the exposition company have been liquidated and distributed among the stockholders except $10,000 in bonds, $6500 in cash, some objects of art and the official records of the great enterprise.

At the request of the trustees, Judge Ward authorized the creation of a University of California scholarship with the income from the money and bonds. The art treasures and records will be placed in the war memorial that is to be built in the civic center. It will be the duty of the student who is given the scholarship to acquaint himself with the voluminous records of the exposition and provide information to other cities that plan expositions and write to San Francisco to learn how to do it.

A banquet to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the closing of the exposition will be held at the Palace Hotel, Thursday evening.

NATIONAL GUARD DIVORCE SOUGHT

Former Militia Bureau Head Makes Annual Report

Seeks Separation of State Units from War Body

Assistant Secretary's Rule Asked by Rickards

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Divorce of the Militia Bureau of the War Department from General Staff control through appointment of an assistant secretary to handle all National Guard affairs under appropriations seperate from those for the Regular Army, is recommended by Maj.-Gen. George C. Richards, head of the Pennsylvania National Guard, in his annual report made public today as chief of the bureau.

Progress of the National Guard has been hindered as a whole, Gen. Richards declared by "the tendency of the War Department general staff to take over certain administrative functions of the chief of the Militia Bureau."

"It should be apparent to the general staff," the report continued, "that the Militia Bureau has a competent staff of Regular Army officers who are familiar with the National Guards of all the States, and know their problems through more intimate contact with them than it is possible for any other War Department agency to have."

SEPARATE FUNDS

"I am convinced," the general declared, "that sound business principles and best interests of national defense will be served when the chief, Militia Bureau, shall have his duties fully defined by regulations, if not by law, and be permitted to exercise them. My experience leads me to the conclusion that it (National Guard) should have a separate appropriation. This would eliminate the feeling which now appears to be prevalent in the Regular Army to the effect that money used for the maintenance of the National Guard is being taken from funds necessary for the support of the Regular Army.

"It is my firm conviction, based on long experience and close study, that had the chief, Militia Bureau, been permitted to administer the affairs of the Militia Bureau, as I believe was contemplated by the Congress, and to have handled the appropriations in his own way instead of being bound by the actions of the Secretary of War, which actions were based on recommendations of the General Staff, a strength of 190,000 could have been reached and maintained throughout the years 1925 and 1926.

"Due to the restrictions placed upon it by higher authority, the Militia Bureau was forced to stop Federal recognition of new units, restrict recruitment and reduce the number of armory drills, thus leaving a considerable unused balance of funds which was appropriated by the Congress for these specific purposes."

"HINDRANCES" HIT

Gen. Rickards complained that present War Department policy of conducting examinations for general officers in the guard only annually was "a real injustice" because it kept vacancies open for months and was not in harmony with the prompt promotion for regular officers. He also deplored other "hindrances" to guard development, and added.

"I do not wish to be understood as condemning the whole War Department policy as it relates to the National Guard, for I trust I am too liberal-minded to do that. As a result of my experience during one year as a member of the War Department general staff, four years as chief, Militia Bureau, and forty-three years of continuous active National Guard service, I feel qualified to speak of this subject.

"There is much to praise and comparatively little to condemn. Jealousy, animosity and personal advancement must have no place in this great undertaking, which has won such hearty approval.

"I still urge strongly as ever the amendment of the law so as to provide that there shall be issued to Federally recognized National Guard officers commissions in the Federal service, to become effective upon call or draft into the service of the United States without reference to appointment or commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

CHANGE SOUGHT

"I respectfully recommend the advisability of abolishing the title of chief, Militia Bureau, and instead to amend the law so as to make this officer an Assistant Secretary of War, with his duties specifically defined by law."

Gen. Rickards served as chief of the bureau for all but two days of the fiscal year covered by the report and signed the body of the document, which included his recommendations, at the request of his successor, the present chief, Maj.-Gen. Creed C. Hammond, of the Oregon National Guard.

Gen. Hammond made no reference to his predecessor's conclusions in the brief word he added to the report, although he commented on "the wonderful work" done by Gen. Rickards as militia chief. The new chief's recommendations were confined to requests for modification of the nonrecognition policy of the department as to new guard units, particularly in the case of air units for the four guard divisions still lacking in this respect, the Thirty-second (Michigan and Wisconsin,) the Thirty-third (Illinois,) the Twenty-seventh (Ohio,) and the Forty-fourth (New York, New Jersey and Delaware.)

In connection with the need of the guard for increased appropriations, Gen. Hammond pointed out that many articles issued to the State troops formerly by the War Department from surplus war stocks, now must be charged against guard appropriations and that the "most gratifying" increase in attendance at armory drills merited an increase in appropriations for pay purposes.

AIR LACK SHOWN

Lack of funds has prevented National Guard air service units from obtaining suitable equipment during the last fiscal year, Gen. Rickards said.

"The equipment in use at present is obsolete and unsuitable for the work the National Guard Air Service is called upon to perform," the report said. "It is deteriorating rapidly and in a very short time will be unsafe for flying purposes.

"Under these conditions it is considered essential that funds be provided for suitable airplanes and equipment."

Gen. Rickards said three years of guard air service work had "proven its value" as a peace-time element of the State forces.

"The stage of efficiency which has been reached in training indicates," he added, "the position that it has taken as a reserve air force available for use in case of an emergency."

A survey of the guard air camps last summer disclosed "the efficiency and high morale of the personnel participating," the report said, singling out the air units of the Twenty-ninth Division (Maryland) as particularly praiseworthy among the fourteen divisional organizations now Federally recognized. Difficulties met last year in getting pilot replacements for the guard had been overcome, it was added.

CRABTREE WILL PLEA TAKEN UP

Supreme Court Considers Appeal of San Gabriel Woman for Jury Trial

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BOSTON, Dec. 1. — The Supreme Court today heard the appeal of Mrs. Carlotta Cockburn of San Gabriel, Cal., from a decision of the Probate Court denying her motion to have a jury decide whether she is sole, heir-at-law or next of kin of the late Lotta Crabtree, actress, and entitled to contest the Crabtree will.

Mrs. Cockburn said six weeks of investigation in the West had brought forth forty-five depositions bearing on the relationship. She claimed that her father, John A. Crabtree, said to be a brother of the actress, was married in San Francisco and later moved to Tombstone, Ariz., where the petitioner was born. Records of the marriage of John A. Crabtree, who later deserted his wife and child, were destroyed by fire in 1906, counsel said.

The will of Lotta Crabtree left her estate of several million dollars to charitable and philanthropic movements.

Pure Research Termed Weak Spot of America

Training of Basic Law Held Primary Object

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, came to New York today and lectured to one of the most practical groups of men who use scientific knowledge, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, on the abuse of research in pure science.

"It is all very well, he said, this glorifying America in its progress in industrial science and the accompanying general industrial development "unparalleled in history," but the backbone of this development research in pure science, is weak.

"Instead of leading all other countries in the advancement of fundamental scientific knowledge," he declared, "the United States occupies a position far in the rear of the majority of European nations. A list of the awards of the Nobel prizes to men of various nationalities reveals the small proportion of first minds that we support."

Secretary Hoover's address was the Henry Robinson Towne lecture delivered this afternoon during the second day of the forty-sixth annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

"The day is gone by," he said, "when we can depend very much upon consequential discovery or invention being made by the genius in the garret. A host of men, great equipment, long patient scientific experiment to build up the structure of knowledge, not stone by stone, but grain by grain, is today the fundamental source of invention and discovery."

There are today in the United States more than 500 laboratories engaged in search for application of known scientific fact and law, he said. Industrial science, consuming an expenditure of $200,000,000 annually is using up the raw material of pure science much more rapidly than it is being produced in this country. Even when the Carnegie-Rockefeller and the Smithsonian institutions are considered, the whole income available for pure research is less than $10,000,000 a year, he declared.

"Absurdly small," he termed this sum. "It is less than one-tenth what we spend on cosmetics."

"But a triviality," he declared, "compared to the vast resources that a single discovery places in our hands. Men of science know from their own experience how seriously scientific work has been impeded by lack of resources and they will appreciate how great is the aggregate must be the resulting loss to the nation and the world.

AMENDMENT IN CHARTERS HELD LEGAL

Court Finds Current Session of Legislature Correct in Giving Approval

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—The State Supreme Court today upheld the legality of city charter amendments passed during the time a Legislature was in session and submitted to the same Legislature for approval. The decision clears up a situation which has been in doubt for nearly ten years and involves the collection of taxes in various cities where charter amendments calling for a tax increase have been approved under such circumstances.

The opinion stated that regardless of the constitutional provision that such acts must be submitted at the "regular session next following such election," the intent of the Constitution was to insure confirmation by the Legislature at its earliest opportunity.

The decision was made in connection with a suit brought by Charles D. Wallace, judge of the Long Beach Municipal Court, against Los Angeles County Auditor H. A. Payne, who refused to pay Wallace his salary owing to the legality of an amendment being in doubt.

FRENCH MAY LAUNCH RIFF PEACE MOVE

Semiofficial Statement in Paris Points to Start of Negotiations

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, North American Newspaper Alliance.]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Express states today: "It is semiofficially announced that the new French government, in complete accord with Spain, will endeavor to restore peace in Morocco as soon as possible, on the basis of its international treaties and agreements, while leaving to the Riffs their administrative autonomy."

This semiofficial announcement corresponds with the predictions made by Vincent Sheean, The Times' special correspondent, in his exclusive dispatches of last month. Abd-el-Krim, Mr. Sheean pointed out, is ready to make peace on terms which are near to the Franco-Spanish terms. The principal obstacle to an immediate settlement is the loss of prestige any of the three belligerents might suffer from inaugurating negotiations.

If the French government has decided to take the initial step, this difficulty has been surmounted, and there is obviously a good chance that peace will come this winter by arrangement.

RAIL FUSION IS FIRST AIM OF COOLIDGE

Action on Consolidation at Early Moment in Congress Desired by President

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—President Coolidge informed Chairman Watson of the Senate Interstate Commerce Commission today that he desired amendments to facilitate consolidation before the Transportation Act is amended in other particulars.

The President believes grouping of the nation's railroads into a few large systems would be beneficial to the public, as well as the carriers and that changes in the labor provision of the law could wait until later in the session. It is expected amendments affecting the Railroad Labor Board law will be offered later with administration support.

Mr. Watson said that Senator Cummins of Iowa, co-author of the Transportation Act, will offer an administration bill for consolidation. The Iowa Senator conferred with the President today.

DOMESTIC SUPPLY OF WATER DISCUSSED

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

MONROVIA, Dec. 1.—That Monrovia should be vitally interested in Pasadena's battle to secure additional water supply from the San Gabriel Canyon was the contention before the Monrovia Rotary Club today by S. B. Forest, chief engineer of the Pasadena water department. He pointed out that Pasadena is now limited to the underground basin, known as the Raymond Dike, which, at the present rate of recession, will not supply Pasadena for more than four or five years. Several other cities draw from this basin, he said, including Monrovia through her Chapman wells. Monrovia, however, has two other sources of supply, from Monrovia Canyon and several wells, south of the city, in the Valley basin.

COOLIDGE LAUDS PEACE EFFORTS

President Praises Aims of Church Conference

Campaign to Abolish War to be Inaugurated

Belief Held Findings Will be of Great Value

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—President Coolidge conveyed today expressions of his gratification on the convening of the National Study Conference on Churches and World Peace that the churches "are giving themselves to this sober study of these vital themes."

The President's belief that its findings will be of deep interest and "cannot fail to be of large value," was conveyed to the conference in a letter to Bishop William McDowell of Washington, chairman of the conference, which is being attended by representatives of thirty communions. Formulation of plans for an educational campaign through the churches in behalf of world peace is described as the purpose of the meeting.

"Of course, no one group can alone solve the whole problem of world peace," the President said, in his letter. "It cannot be solved without the active participation of the churches. But it cannot be solved by them alone. All lovers and believers in the better order must work each in his own field and way to secure the desired end. All these forces must work harmoniously and earnestly together.

"The churches are among the most potent agencies upon which we must depend. They have a place all their own in the making of that mental and spiritual attitude within the nations and between the nations in which governments can go forward to a world of law and order, peace and reason. We shall not find this an easy task and it will require the co-operation of schools and courts, press and homes, governments and churches to bring about the great result."

The President further defined his views on the question by citing his declarations in a recent address that "we cannot place our main reliance upon material forces" and that "we must mobilize the conscience of mankind." He expressed regret that the pressure of public business prevented his acceptance of an invitation to address the conference.

FARM BODIES OPPOSE FREIGHT RATE BOOST

REPRESENTATIVES ON RECORD AT HEARING AS "NOT AGAINST RAILROADS"

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Dec. 1.—Representatives of various farm organizations went on record today as "not being against railroads," but against any increase in freight rates which would further jeopardise the financial standing of the agricultural industry. This stand was taken at a hearing before an Interstate Commerce Commission examiner on the application of seventy-four western railroads for increased freight rates.

W. L. Stockton of Clarkston, Mont., said that a higher rate on freight would be an additional load on the farmers and that even though the farmers of his State are not against railroads, they should at least share in the benefits of the industrial prosperity.

O. B. Shay, representing western fruit growers, including organizations in Washington and Oregon, and Miles Clarke, assistant chief engineer of the Washington Department of Public Works, also testified.

These two pointed out that, although the freight rate increase applied for does not affect the transcontinental transportation of fruit, they are seeking a reduced freight rate on these commodities.

Like the representatives of the various farm groups, these witnesses pointed out that the fruit growers of the western States are in financial difficulty and cannot stand the burdens of high freight rates.

AWAIT JAPAN'S ROYAL BABY

Aged Women Who Will Be Great-Grandmothers of Newcomer Eager for Arrival

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE]

TOKIO, Nov. 9.—Two ancient dames, in seclusion, are eagerly awaiting an event toward which all Japan is anxiously looking, this being the birth of a child to the Prince Regent and the Princess Nagako. The Princess is being attended to by all the skill of Japan's medical world at the Akasaka Palace, where the Prince Regent and the Crown Princess have been living ever since their wedding early this year. The accouchment is to take place here and not in the Imperial Palace, as some correspondents have erroneously written to the press.

These two old ladies will both be the great-grandmothers of the child about to be born. One is the Lady Yanagiwara, mother of the Emperor; the other is the Lady Kujo, mother of the Empress. Both take an active interest in the doings of their children and occasionally come to Tokio to inquire into the health of the Emperor and Empress and other members of Japan's royal family.

If the child is a boy he will be heir presumptive to the Phoenix Throne of Japan; if a girl, the babe will merely be another Imperial link.

NEWS OF BIRTH

The news of the birth will be flashed by radio all over Japan and by cable and wireless to the uttermost parts of the world. Arrangements have already been made with foreign telegraph companies to send the glad news around the globe, and a personage close to the Imperial Household Department has said that an Imperial honor awaits him or her who will establish a world's record in flashing this piece of news.

The Akasaka Palace, where the possible heir presumptive will first see the light of day, is an elegant modern structure totally different from the Imperial Palace, which is shut off from vulgar gaze by means of forests of cedar and pines, frowning stone walls and deep-ditched moats. It is just like a royal residence in Europe. It can be seen from the roadside and the only marks of royalty residing within are the sentries who firmly, yet politely, request people to "pass along please."

It is interesting to note that the Prince of Wales was the first person to live in this palace. Other heirs to European thrones, for instance Prince Carol of Rumania, were accommodated in the Kasumigaseki Detached Palace, just behind the Japanese Foreign Office. When Britain's Ambassador of Empire was to come here, special preparations were made to make the Akasaka Palace the last word in royal comfort. So successfully was the work done that the Prince Regent chose it for his future residence and he will continue to live here until duty calls him to make his abode in the purely Japanese-style edifice whose roofs can be discerned behind the cedar-and-pine-clad old-world battlements.

AKASAKA PALACE

The royal couple of Japan live on the ground floor of the Akasaka Palace, the floor above being used for official entertainments. The marble that is discernible elsewhere in the palace gives way here to woodwork and cream-colored plaster; the gold, symbolic of royalty, is, however, present; the curtains are of a soft, soothing green tone. It is in this wing of the palace that the royal child will first see the light of day.

The Empress' mother, 78 years of age, lives in a simplicity that is in strong contrast with the scarlet and splendour of many of her children. She is in Kyoto, in an unpretentious Japanese house. Her living-room is about fifteen feet by fifteen, with soft tatami (rice-stalk-mats) on the floor. The only ornaments visible are a doll in a glass case, a gift from her daughter the Empress; a vase containing flowers of the season; a beautifully wrought iron kettle on a brass hibachi (fire-box;) books and soft silk cushions on the floor.

Firmase al Fin el Pacto de Locarno

LONDRES, Diciembre 1.—Hoy firmaron Alemania y sus principales antagonistas en la guerra mundial el Tratado de Locarno, así como los pactos a él anexos, que garantizan la paz en Europa y estipulan se someta a arbitraje cualesquiera disputas que surgieren entre las naciones firmantes relativas a fronteras. Fué marcado el contraste entre la firma de este pacto trascendental y la del tratado de paz de Versalles, hace seis años.

Hoy estuvieron ausentes la magnificencia y el boato que se desplegaron en la solemnidad de Versalles. La ceremonia de hoy duró una hora solamente y se distinguió por su extremada sencillez.

Y en esta vez, los alemanes vinieron de motu proprio, y firmaron con rostros alegres y sonrientes. Su actitud contrastaba, pues, fuertemente con la de seis años ha, en que los delegados del Reich pusieron sus firmas mediante coacción, y en que se retrataban en sus pálidas facciones el temor y la cólera.

La ceremonia de ahora se verificó dentro de un ambiente de optimismo, que se toma como de buen agüero para el porvenir de Europa, donde se espera reine una larga era de paz.

'Petticoat Cafe' Proves Success in Swiss Town

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The women of the little village of Piona in Switzerland have opened a cafe to provide their men folk with good food and drink at cost prices. This feminine venture was the result of a quarrel between the men and women of the village. As there was no cafe in Piona the men petitioned the local authorities to open one but the wives and daughters objected and the petition was refused.

The women thereupon organized a syndicate and opened a comfortable cafe of their own where refreshments, especially beer and light wines, are sold slightly above cost prices. The women take turns in acting as waitresses and cooks in order to avoid expenses, they say, but the men declare it is to keep an eye on them. Anyhow the "petticoat cafe," as the men call it, is both a financial and a moral success. Drunkenness has disappeared and the men of the village are healthier and their purses heavier.

BOTH SIDES HIT LOUCHEUR PLAN

Further Currency Inflation Bitterly Protested

Parliament Says Nation Now Taxed to Limit

Halt to Evasions of Income Levies Demanded

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Dec. 1.—Both wings of Parliament bitterly attacked Louis Loucheur today for his proposal to inflate the currency another 3,000,000,000 francs ($320,000,000) making the total circulation 59,000,000,000 francs ($2,360,000,000.)

M. Loucheur explained that he needs 1,500,000,000 francs ($60,000,000) to make up the additional sum voted to be advanced to the treasury by the Bank of France and 5,000,000 francs ($200,000) in short-term bonds maturing the 8th inst. and at the end of the month and also additional funds to provide credits for the extraordinary expenses incurred by the Moroccan and Syrian wars.

M. Louchsur stated he will place a supertax on certain categories next year to raise an additional 5,000,000,000 francs ($200,000,000) for the budget. He does not state exactly where the new revenue will be derived.

The opposition states that everybody already is taxed to the limit and the government would do better to devise means for insuring the collection of taxes instead of saddling the country with additional theoretic increases, which nobody pays anyhow.

Critics say M. Loucheur should enforce the proper collections of income taxes which would more than produce enough to save the country from a financial crash, as more than 90 per cent of that tax is evaded.

MUST PAY TAX ON INCOMES

Mexicans Living in United States Subject to Levy by Home Government

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Dec. 1.—Mexican citizens residing in the United States will have to pay taxes on their incomes to the Mexican government. And so will American citizens working in Mexico or drawing revenues from that country, but residing in the United States. These are the provisions of Article 94 of the new Mexican law on income tax, recently passed by the Congress and received by A. P. Carrillo, Mexican Consul in San Antonio.

Mexican legations and consulates throughout the United States and foreign countries have been authorized by the office of the Mexican Secretary of Foreign Affairs to collect the taxes due, and see that Mexican citizens and foreigners within the provisions of the new law, abide by it.

The text of Article 94 of the Mexican income tax law, is that: "Mexican citizens living either in or outside of Mexico must pay taxes on their income, whatever the nature of this may be. Foreigners living either in or outside of Mexico must pay taxes on their income, whether obtained from Mexican soil or from dealings made outside of Mexico."

According to the law, those earning 2500 pesos or less are exempt from taxation. Two per cent is the maximum tax on incomes from 2500 to 5000 pesos and 5 per cent is the maximum for incomes exceeding 500,000 pesos.

Fines and penalties will be imposed on those who do not comply with this law. The date when the income tax will go into effect and the details upon the way which to summon Mexican citizens to come to their consulates and pay their income tax, are not known at the Mexican Consulate, it was learned.

With the new Mexican law in effect the thousands of Mexican citizens living in the United States and earning more than $1500 a year will have to pay income taxes to the American and Mexican governments.

Barge Office Dependent on Foreign Trade

LONG BEACH, Dec. 1.—A barge office of the United States customs, with a deputy inspector in charge, will be established in Long Beach just as soon as foreign commerce entering the port will warrant. It is up to the business interests of Long Beach to start that foreign trade into the local port, he advised.

By order of President Coolidge, the customs district limits of the port of Los Angeles were extended to include Long Beach on November 15. The executive order will mean much to Long Beach in a maritime way, Schwaebe pointed out in his communication.

OKLAHOMA OIL PIONEER DEAD

Lyman J. Neeley Drilled First Well in State

Also Laid Gas Pipe Line for Domestic Use

Succumbs to Injuries From Auto Accident

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) Dec. 1.—Lyman G. Neeley of St. Mary's, O., president of the Iron Mountain Oil Company, whose death recently followed injury sustained in a motor-car accident, was the first man to obtain an oil lease in the Chickasaw Nation, the first man to drill an oil well on an Indian allotment in Indian Territory and the first man to lay a gas pipe line and distribute gas for domestic consumption.

These statements come from Senator U. T. Rexroat of Ardmore, who was in the employ of Neeley for three years in Southern Oklahoma and who materially assisted in obtaining lease options on Indian lands.

"Mr. Neeley drilled the first oil well in Oklahoma three miles north of the present Hewitt field and in what is now known as the Oil City district," says Senator Rexroat. "It produced originally twenty barrels a day and is yet a producer of four or five barrels a day. It was drilled in 1901 on a tract of land which had not been allotted and under an option agreement with the Indian that had made application to secure it as an allotment.

"The same year the Santa Fe Oil Company drilled a gas well in the Hewitt area, and Mr. Neeley and his associates, Frank and Edward Maire of Lima, O., contracted to purchase the gas and laid a pipe line to Ardmore. I think I am correct in saying that Ardmore was the first town in Oklahoma to use natural gas.

"The geological work on which the Neeley operations were based was done in 1898 by Arthur D. Hyde, a geologist of Boston, who located several of the structures now producing in Carter county. At that time the Indian Territory had not been sectionized and allotting had not been done. The oil prospector could get lease promises and written agreements but he could not actually enter into leases such as we have today. But Mr. Neeley was a far-sighted man and probably had no trouble later in holding all the land he needed."

The pyramids of Egypt contain plaster work executed at least 4,000 years ago, and this, where wilful violence has not disturbed it, still exists in perfection, outvying in durability the rock itself, where this is not protected by its shield of plaster.

IT HAS required forty centuries to develop the modern plasterer. There is a reason for everything he does; a justification for everything he asks.

In fairness to yourself and the home you are about to build (perhaps your last home), think carefully before you ask your plasterer to undo the work of centuries by cheapening your plastering.

Let him make good use in your behalf of the knowledge that has come down to him from the pyramids; coöperate with him, encourage him, and in place of "cheap" plastering, which always is expensive, he will give you good plastering, which is the most economical thing you can build into your home.

["You Get What You Pay for in Plastering"]

There are many good plasterers; there are many good plasters; there is a wide variety of good lath which make an excellent base for good plastering.

With all this material and skill at your disposal, you need have no difficulty in securing a good job of plastering.

Good plastering looks and remains "good" throughout the years.

In the beginning it may cost a few cents more per yard than "cheap" plastering, but when you divide these pennies into years, and subtract what a cheap job would cost you in repairs, you find that your good plastering has cost you nothing.

This is one of a series of advertisements on the importance of Good Plastering, published by The Blue Diamond Company, solely in the interests of the building public. The entire story of Plastering—just what materials you should buy or whom you should hire—but "WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT PLASTERING"—has been made into an interesting illustrated booklet which will gladly be sent on request. CITY BONDS TO BE SOLD TODAY

Two Syndicates Submit Bids for Local Securities

Eleven Issues of Obligation Liens Included

Expect Public Offering to be Made Tomorrow

One of the largest blocks of municipal bonds ever sold in the State of California, consisting of $14,825,000 city of Los Angeles general obligation bonds, will probably be awarded today by the City Council to a banking syndicate headed by Anglo and London-Paris Company, First National Bank of New York, and Blair & Co., Inc.

Forces of City Controller Myers and City Treasurer Powell were busy yesterday checking and analyzing three bids received by the Council for the largest single offering in the history of the city. The report will be presented to the Council today.

Two bids were offered by the syndicate headed by the Anglo and London-Paris Company, offering a premium of $87,468 on proposition No. 1, and a premium of $1631 on proposition No. 2. Proposition No. 1 established an interest rate of 4 3-4 per cent on eight of the eleven issues, and 4½ per cent on the other three, while proposition No. 2 stipulated an interest rate of 4 3-4 per cent on four issues and 4½ per cent on the balance. The syndicate believes the Council will find proposition No. 2 the more attractive, after a thorough analysis.

OTHER BIDDERS

The other bid was submitted by a syndicate headed by the National City Company offering a premium of $24,135 on the combination of 4½ and 4 3-4 per cent bonds.

The block of bonds comprises the following eleven separate issues: $500,000 bridge bonds, $500,000 branch library bonds, $350,000 pedestrian-tunnel bonds; $1,000,000 street construction bonds, $1,000,000 City Hall bonds, $3,000,000 electric plant bonds, $5,000,000 waterworks bonds, $500,000 Colorado River supply waterworks bonds, $975,000 electric plant bonds, $1,000,000 electric plant bonds, and $1,000,000 waterworks bonds.

OFFER BONDS SOON

According to a report made late yesterday by Anglo and London-Paris Company, if the syndicate of which it heads is awarded the bonds, public offering will be made tomorrow. Others included in this syndicate are: First National Bank of New York; Blair & Co., Inc.; Hallgarten & Co., Eldredge & Co., Halsey, Stuart & Co., Bank of Italy, Dean Witter & Co., Hunter, Dulin & Co., William Cavalier & Co., Schwabacher & Co., and Freeman, Smith & Camp Co.

The members of the National City syndicate are as follows: Bankers' Trust Company of New York; Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago; William R. Compton & Co., E. H. Rollins & Sons, R. H. Moulton & Co., Continental and Commercial Bank of Chicago; First Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago; E. F. Rothschild & Co., of New York; the Security Company, California Securities Company, Citizens' National Company, Mercantile Securities Company, First Securities Company, William R. Staats Company; Heller, Bruce & Co., and Drake, Riley & Thomas.

BIG JIM OPENS SOON

Dwight Farnum to Have Charge of Mine at Harshaw, Ariz.

Dwight Farnum, local metallurgical engineer, left Los Angeles yesterday for Harshaw, Ariz., where he will take charge of the Big Jim silver-lead mine. A 100-ton concentrating mill is in the last stages of construction at the mine and Farnum will direct the final adj final adjustments of the machinery before the mine enters the production field. He is a graduate of the Boston Institute of Technology and well known in mining circles of the Southwest.

Coincident with Mr. Farnum's departure for the mine, A. G. Keating, president, has returned to Los Angeles after placing the final stamp of approval on actual operating plans which call for the running of ore from the Big Jim within the next thirty days. It is stated that the newest type of metallurgical machinery successfully tested out in northern mines has been installed. The mill will start off at seventy-five tons, increasing to capacity gradually.

OLINDA OIL WILL DISBURSE EXTRA

Company Votes to Issue First Christmas Mellon; Has Ten Producing Wells

Olinda Land Company announced yesterday an extra dividend of 1-2 per cent on the 2,000,000 shares of stock outstanding, payable on the 23rd inst. to stockholders of record on the 18th inst. This is the first Christmas dividend announced in Los Angeles.

The Olinda Land Company, incorporated under the laws of California August 30, 1900, owns in fee 2800 acres in Orange county and has ten producing wells. On March, 26, last, the company leased to the Union Oil Company of California all of its property except existing wells.

DIVIDEND PLANS STUDIED

Los Angeles Investment Directors Consider Stock Dividend and Increase of Regular Rate

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Certain developments of considerable interest to the stockholders in Los Angeles Investment are under way, or at least, under consideration, it is understood by specialists in the company's stock. One conjecture is that the directors will declare a sizable stock dividend around the first of the year, while another report is that the regular dividend will be increased from 24 to 36 per cent a year.

At the office of the company there is no attempt to either affirm or deny the reports. Left without an official expression one way or another, the spring-street colony is compelled to satisfy itself with the rumors in circulation, although unofficial stories have drifted into the market that carry some semblance of reliability.

PROPOSALS MADE

Probably the most authentic story is that the directors have discussed both possibilities, but have failed to agree on a course of action. Certain members of the board favor the stock dividend, possibly around 50 per cent, while others believe that the special oil dividends should be discontinued, and the stock placed on a regular basis at a figure higher than the present 24 per cent payment. Final action on these proposals may be taken at the next meeting of the directors on the 8th inst.

Dissatisfaction over the special dividend policy seems to be general among the directors but they disagree over the question of a substitute policy. The proponents of the stock dividend suggest that the surplus should be capitalized by the issuance of the remainder of the authorized stock, and the present dividend rate maintained. An 80 per cent disbursement has been suggested, which would include the 2,191,195 unissued shares, and the stock purchased in the open market by the Los Angeles Investment Securities Corporation, a subsidiary company. At the end of 1924, the surplus account totaled nearly $10,000,000.

Objections to the stock dividend, as advanced by some of the officers and directors, are that it would only help the speculators in the stock, and would not benefit the company particularly. It also is reasoned that an 80 per cent payment would involve fractional certificates which would unnecessarily complicate affairs in the market and in the office of the company. Another objection is that the transfer of assets from the securities company to the parent company would have to have the approval of the State corporation department.

HIGHER RATE FAVORED

In favor of raising the cash dividend to 36 per cent annually, some of the directors assert that such an action would stabilize the stock. The company now is paying a regular annual dividend of 24 per cent, and in addition has paid two extra oil dividends of 6 per cent each. The special dividends, it is pointed out, have no appreciable effect on the market and are not greatly appreciated by the stockholders, who would prefer to have them come as regular dividends if the company is able to maintain the payments.

Supporting the higher regular dividend policy is the fact that the company's oil production is running around a steady figure of 16,000 barrels daily, and there is no indication of diminution. Rather, the probabilities are that production will increase, since the Standard Oil Company has started four new wells, all in producing territory.

The October royalty check from the Standard Oil Company amounted to $111,000, which compares with $143,000 for September. The September royalties were the highest yet received and reflected oil prices before the last reduction, and production of around 18,000 barrels daily. If the four new wells are completed successfully, it is expected that output will again ascend to a level near the record amount and royalties should also reflect the improvement. The company receives a royalty of one-sixth on all production.

PLANS OUT FOR COTTON CONFERENCE

Final Regional Parley in State-wide Campaign to Convene Friday

Program for the State-wide conference on the cotton industry of California, to open Friday morning in the assembly room of the Pacific-Southwest Bank, as announced by the California Development Association, sponsor of the movement, will include addresses by an imposing list of speakers.

J. Dabney Day, president of the Citizens' National Bank, will discuss, from the bankers' standpoint, the financing of the newest of California's industries; William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific company, will speak on "Transportation and the Cotton Industry;" J. R. Millar, president of the California Cotton Mills, Oakland, "Development of Cotton Manufacturing on the Pacific Coast;" H. H. Clark, general manager of the Colorado River Land Company of Calexico, "The Cotton Industry of California."

This conference follows three regional meetings at Riverside, Bakersfield and Sacramento, at which all problems incident to local development were discussed.

The five major problems which will be presented to the conference are:

Limitation of districts to one variety to obtain standard quality and pure seed; obtaining uniform Federal and State action in establishing a separate classification for California cotton and its proper classing; protection of the quality and market reputation of California cotton by education, standardization laws and other means of controlling improper ginning practices; securing funds and facilities in the State Department of Agriculture for study and control of harmful cotton pests; thorough investigation of the possibilities of cotton textile mill development in California and active support of any economically feasible projects of that character.

Offer Liens to Finance White Realty Company

Plans for segregating the White Motor Company's real estate holdings occupied by branch sales and service stations throughout the country through the formation of the White Motor Realty Company, an Ohio corporation, capitalized with 15,000 shares of no par common stock, of which 5000 shares are to be issued presently, were announced recently by the company.

To finance this company an offering of $3,000,000 6 per cent secured serial gold debentures is announced by Charles D. Barney & Co., Hayden, Miller & Co., and the Union Trust Company. The debentures are secured by property appraised at $4,300,000 in addition to the leasehold, the rental of which will be $430,000 a year. This rental is in excess of the maximum annual interest and retirement requirements of the debentures.

This form of financing, which means transferring certain items from property account to the investment account, is rather similar to the financing announced by the White Motor Company some time ago when the White Motor Securities Company was formed to handle the company's time sales.

RECOVERY OF STOCKS FORECAST

Moody Believes Slump Nears End and Turn for Better is Due

Moody's weekly review of financial conditions in its current issue says in part:

"High-priced industrial stocks have sold off an average of 18 points, and the active market as a whole more than 8 points. This is about as much autumn reaction as could be reasonably expected; and with no major depressing influences in sight one may now hope for a better market.

"The advances in some rediscount rates have brought about a return of funds here employed in the call money market to the interior. This practically eliminates the possibility of any calling of demand loans in New York, and thus strengthens the situation.

"As for the oft-repeated story that the New York rediscount rate is being managed for the benefit of sterling exchange, one may fairly regard this as a little piece of totally unenlightened nonsense. The Federal Reserve Board is not an agency for the Bank of England.

"During the last few days bearish sentiment has been growing, while sound reasons for it have been disappearing. Instead of a sagging market between now and Christmas, perhaps this time we may have a firm or rising market."

FLOUR ADVANCES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—An advance of 25 to 35 cents a barrel in the price of flour today, accompanied the sharp rise in wheat prices. Quotations for spring wheat patent flour reached $9 to $9.25 a barrel, 75 cents above that of a month ago. Having resisted the rising trend in the market for several weeks, jobbers found their stocks at low ebbs, and bought on a fairly large scale.

EXCHANGE SALES SET NEW MARK

Eleven Months' Business Expands 88 Per Cent Over Previous Period

When the final reports are in for December, the twelve months of 1925 will go down as the record year in the history of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. On the basis of business for the first eleven months, it is likely that the valuation of transactions for the full year will approximate $125,000,000, which compares with $695,000 in 1906, the first year of any importance on the exchange.

Sales of stocks and bonds for November, according to the compilation made yesterday by the exchange, totaled $12,055,348, an increase of 74 per cent over the corresponding month of 1924. This is the third largest total reported in the history of the exchange. The peak was scored in October, last, when sales amounted to $15,275,483.26, while the second largest amount was reported in September of $12,284,362.

For the eleven months of 1925, total transactions were valued at $111,784,564.26, or a gain of 88 per cent over the same period of 1924.

Bank stocks were particularly active in November. Sales totaling $2,869,448 represented the largest single month ever reported by the exchange, and a gain of $1,218,061 over the sales for the entire year of 1924. The valuation of bank transactions in 1924 was $1,651,387.

Most of the business in the bank list is traced to the activity in Bancitaly Corporation, Americommercial Corporation and the Bank of Italy. Other shares were in demand, however, especially Citizens' National, Security Trust and Savings and Farmers' and Merchants' National, all as a result of the wave of popularity in the ownership of bank stocks.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Financial markets were quiet, but a cheerful tone prevailed in reflecting confidence over the signing of the Locarno pact.

Rubber shares were again buoyant and attracted most attention, the confident feeling spreading to other speculative groups. Foreign issues were steady to firm in response to the Locarno peace move.

Dealings were checked to some extent by uncertainty over the bank rate. French francs were steady, however, while sterling was dullish.

ROBERTS SCANS TRADE HORIZON

Bulletin of National City Bank Optimistic

Says Business in 1926 May Pass That of 1925

Thinks Building Boom Going at Too Fast a Clip

[Copyright, 1925, New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—As they lift the curtain in an effort to see what is promised during 1926 for business, some prophets are beginning to anticipate trouble from a certain quarter. Of the different booms that must be recorded in the annals of the current year, none is arousing more apprehension at the moment, perhaps than that in real estate. On the lips of these prophets is the question: What would happen if the Florida boom should crash?

It so happens that George S. Roberts, vice-president of the National City Bank, devotes some space to the real estate question in the December issue of the bank's estimable bulletin.

CREDITS SOUND

Unmistakable dangers are recognized in the real estate boom, but apparently this authority at least does not expect that anything like a collapse in general business is threatened. Indeed, after commenting upon the situation the bank has the following to say:

"The principal cause of our business reactions, and that which is responsible for their greatest severity, is the over-extension of credits. When credit expansion has gone to the limit reaction is inevitable.

"The business situation is generally sound. Our prosperity is on a solid basis. Business credits are not over-expanded, and if the spirit of caution which has prevailed in the legitimate business circles is maintained, there is no reason why 1926 shall not be a better business year than 1925."

Even in the building industry the prospect is for more winter work than ever before, it is pointed out, and the projects in hand seem to assure continued activity into the coming year. The building boom is going too strong to last, in the opinion of this authority, however, and "when it lets up the declining demand for construction materials will be noticed."

ON FLORIDA BOOM

Says the bulletin: "The activity in Florida real estate undoubtedly has had a substantial basis in the fact that nearly every family in the United States has become the owner of an automobile, and the construction of good highways, which enable a family to take a good vacation trip to Florida in its own conveyance. Nevertheless, people who remember the real estate booms of the Twin Cities, Omaha, Kansas City, Sioux City, Wichita, Denver, Seattle and other cities of the West twenty-five to forty years ago know that booms in city real estate are likely to involve the sinking of much capital in ill-advised improvements and premature construction work.

"It is well to bear in mind that if expenditures for development anywhere are above a normal average for a time, they are certain later on to fall below the normal average by about the same amount, and that these fluctuations make our alternating periods of expansion and depression."

The fact that bankers have their eyes on the real estate boom, is reason for hope that the speculation will be checked in time to avoid a crash, but we make a mistake when we assume that Florida is the haven of all such activity. In several sections of the South and even as far north as Wisconsin we may find smaller booms.

Growth of Georgia Railroad and Power Company, Organized in 1911, for Development of Power Resources in Northern Part of State, Seen As Remarkable.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1925, New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Formed in 1911 to undertake the development of the water powers of the Tallulah and Tugalo Rivers in Northern Georgia, with an aggregate potential capacity of about 540,000 horsepower, the Georgia Railway and Power Company has made remarkable progress in the subsequent fifteen years.

To date the company has built reservoirs on these rivers with a storage capacity of more than 7,000,000,000 cubic feet and has erected power plants with a capacity of 263,500 horsepower. Its properties today are capable of producing upward of 500,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy annually.

Development of these immense powers has been a big factor behind the industrial growth of Northern Georgia, which territory the company and its subsidiaries serve. Investment in factories and other productive enterprises in the fifteen-year period have aggregated some $450,000,000, and these, together with the 600,000 people dependent directly and indirectly upon them, have taken the entire output of the present plants.

In all there are six developments on these two rivers, four of which have been completed with the aforementioned combined capacity. These include the Tallulah Falls development of 108,000 horsepower, the Tugalo development of 88,000 horsepower, the Terrora development with 30,000 horsepower and the Yonah development with 37,500 horsepower.

The others are in process of construction, including the Nacoochee development, and the power plant at Burton, which will be the final step in the program. When these have been completed the waters of the two rivers will be used six times successively in the generation of power. Storage facilities will then be available for some 7,912,000,000 cubic feet of water, and the new power plant will increase generating capacity to 280,000 horsepower. The system is interconnected and is hooked up with Atlanta and other markets by modern transmission lines extended for 1150 miles.

CAPITAL, EARNINGS

A short time ago the company sold an issue of $4,000,000 7 per cent first preferred stock. The proceeds of that issue will be used to defray the cost of additions and improvements made and to be made to the properties, and for acquiring additional properties.

Plant and equipment of the company were carried in the balance sheet on August 31, last, at $103,530,798. Capitalization consists of a funded debt of $47,432,000 and $50,214,600 in stocks, including $10,914,600 in preferred and common shares of the Georgia Railway and Electric Company, $24,400,000 in preferred stocks of the company itself, including the foregoing issues, and $15,000,000 preferred stock.

Earnings of the properties, exclusive of the Yonah plant, which began operation last month, and the Terrora station for only six months, showed gross income for the twelve months to August 31, last, of $14,769,496, compared with $13,907,821 the year previous. The balance available for dividends, depreciation and surplus was $2,888,452, compared with $2,595,392 in the previous twelve months. Full benefit of the Terrora and Yonah plants, it is estimated, will increase net earnings sufficiently to show present dividend requirements on the first preferred stock covered 3.75 times or more in the next year.

Wheat Futures Soar on Wider Buying Demand

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Wheat prices moved up in a sensational manner today, with an immense volume of trade. May at the high point touched 1.87, or 10c over the low on Monday, and while there was extremely heavy profit-taking on the swells, the finish was about the top, with net gains of 3¾@5¼c.

It was a market in which news counted for little, and with public interest the largest in many months, each minor break was followed by a bulge to a new high on the present movement for the old crop deliveries, while July sold at the best figures on the crop. December finished at 1.74¾@1.71, or 8¾c over May, while July was 1.47¾@1.48¼. Corn finished ¾c higher to ¼c lower, the former on December, which closed at 73¾c, while May was 72¾@73½c. Oats were ¾@1¼c and rye 2¾@2¾c higher.

Extremely bullish news from Argentina, with rust reported as spreading in the pampas, with the forecast for rain, had considerable influence on the wheat market, and there were reports of cables telling of unfavorable conditions that were not given out. Winnipeg showed materially more strength than Chicago, advancing 7¼@8c over the previous close, and the finish 6¼@7¼c higher. Liverpool closed 6¾@6d higher. Shorts in Winnipeg had a hard time in covering, owing to the fact offers sold materially above the closing figures on Monday.

The trade had the impression that part of the buying of wheat was for a local operator, who was credited with having taken the bull side. Enthusiasm on the buying side on the part of the outside public, increased as prices advanced, and while the local element were disposed to play for a setback, they were quickly forced to cover. Minneapolis December wheat, which closed even with May on Monday, was 1¾c premium at the last, with deliveries of only 75,000 bushels. There were no deliveries here.

Domestic situation, as well as the world's, was regarded as rapidly getting stronger, and was the dominating influence in shaping the trend of values and sentiment. Export sales in all positions were 500,000 bushels, partly durums. A record movement on grain from Fort William and Port Arthur to eastern lake ports is under way, with around 9,000,000 bushels cleared on Monday.

An absence of deliveries of corn on December contracts and strength in wheat, led to renewed short covering in futures, and while prices held within a range of ¾@1¼c, the undertone was relatively firm. May was sold by local traders, who found the market lacking in aggressive support. Little attention was paid to the conference on here between government and financial interests regarding ways and means to help farmers secure a better price for corn. Spot basis was ¼c higher to 1¼c lower. A better class of buying was in evidence in oats, and the December-May spread narrowed to 4¼c, against 4¾c at the close on Monday. Deliveries were 238,000 bushels. Rye advanced largely in sympathy with wheat.

Selling of December last by cash interests and houses with foreign connections, carried prices off sharply, and with a lack of aggressive support, a decline was easily attained, the finish being 7½@8c lower. Bids were unchanged to ½c lower and bellies unchanged.

SHADE GAIN FOR COTTON IN TRADING

Late Rally Attributed to News of Heavy Jump in Export Figures

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—After the decline of yesterday under scattered liquidation and hedge selling, the cotton market was steadier today. Prices made a maximum decline at one time of about 19 points, but pressure was lessened and demand was better, with spot houses again appearing as fairly good buyers. December sold at 20.08 cents; January, 20.43 cents; March, 19.45 cents; May, 19.10 cents, and July, 19.75 cents in the forenoon.

In the early afternoon a rally resulted mostly from covering of shorts, with the market gradually working up to yesterday's closing prices, and the day's big exports the principal factor. They totaled 232,000 bales, including 78,000 to Great Britain, 43,000 to France, 86,000 to continental points and about 24,000 to Japan and China. These represented the clearance of yesterday in fulfilling shipments at the end of November.

Liverpool spot demand was a little better than the last few days, with sales 7000 bales and the price off 1 point from yesterday's 10.46d for middling. Futures closed with a net decline of 2 to 4 points.

Total sales of spot cotton on the southern markets yesterday went up to 47,000 bales against 35,000 Saturday, showing the willingness of most domestic spinners and exporters to take cotton more freely when pressed for sale in declines. Middling cotton is now averaging 19¼ cents at New Orleans, Savannah, Norfolk, Augusta, Dallas and Ft. Worth against 20¼ cents on the New York market. These prices compare with 23 to 23½ cents at this time last year and 34 to 36 cents two years ago.

The markets are now largely in a waiting position pending the publication next Tuesday of the government's annual estimate on the size of the crop. The uncertainty whether it will put the crop above or below the last crop reporting board's figures of 18,298,000 bales is the problem.

EX-ST. PAUL HEAD HEARD AT HEARING

Former President Lays Line's Failure to Loss of Freight to Canal

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—H. E. Byram, former president and now a receiver of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, today gave his account of the road's financial disaster to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

A major cause of the railroad's failure early this year to meet its obligations, he said, lay in Panama Canal competition with transcontinental railroads, with a cessation of business expansion in the Northwest which affected all railroads in the territory a contributory factor.

He defended the railroad's business policies prior to the receivership on every point raised during critical questioning by J. J. Hickey, chief of the commission's bureau of investigation. Telling of efforts made to avoid the receivership, Mr. Byram said that the only way out of the situation brought about by reduced earnings was the receivership and the consequent writing down of bonded obligations.

By some calculations as to Panama Canal traffic, the witness estimated that the St. Paul's loss of gross revenue from that competition could be placed as high as $15,000,000 a year. Replying to a remark by Mr. Hickey that all the traffic the canal carries in a year would not equal three days' traffic on the transcontinental railroads, he explained that his figures did not touch that aspect of the situation but insisted they are correct as to its competitive effect.

Taking up the policy of the road during the last few years, in purchasing the Chicago, Terre Haute and Southeastern and the Chicago, Milwaukee and Gary lines, Mr. Hickey suggested that this had worked to "impair the already weakened St. Paul credit."

"But that wasn't a burden," Mr. Byram protested, referring to the Terre Haute purchase. "That transaction has showed a profit to the St. Paul system from the first year. It was a considerable benefit."

BOND QUOTATIONS

Trading Dull

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Bond trading was dull today and general prices remained motionless. The firmness of money rates retarded buying, although accumulation for institutional accounts continued in some divisions of the list. Foreign obligations were virtually neglected. French francs and bonds of the French government drifted lower. Polish obligations afforded another example of a sympathetic reaction to the weakness of exchange.

Activity in domestic bonds centered largely in the rails, where convertible and other semispeculative issues advanced. Some of the strong spots were Denver and Rio Grande Western 4 1-2's New Haven 3 1-2's and Southern Pacific collateral 4's.

Oil company liens also attracted public following. Skelly, Sinclair and Pan American issues all scored substantial gains as buying was stimulated by recent crude oil and gasoline price advances.

Considerable new financing was reported, but little of it has yet reached the offering stage. A $50,000,000 German potash loan, part of which was scheduled for American flotation is understood to have been frowned upon by the State Department, and will not be brought into the market.

Following are yesterday's high, low and closing prices of bonds on the New York Stock Exchange and the total sales of each bond.

NEW YORK CURB

Oil Group Rallies

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Revival of strength in the oil shares, based on increasing crude and gasoline prices, featured the resumption of the upward movement in today's curb market. Magnolia Petroleum, which is to be absorbed by Standard of New York, advanced over 4 points to within a point of the year's high, and International Petroleum crossed 34 to a new top for a gain of 3 points. Among the independents, ethe outstanding strong spot was Reiter Foster, which moved up over 2 points on reports of important development work in the Lucien field in Oklahoma.

Electrical refrigeration issues were firm. Glen Alden Coal dropped 2 1-2 points in reflection of the anthracite operators rejection of Gov. Pinchot's peace plan. Radio issues held relatively steady, with the exception of Ware, which dropped to a new low record at 6 1-4. Goodyear Rubber advanced over two points to 87 3-4.

Fluctuations in the public utilities were narrow. Mining shares held relatively firm.

TONE OF STOCK MARKET BETTER

Sharp Increase Registered in Day's Sales

Rails, Oils and Specialty List Advance

Stiffer Money Rate Fails to Check Upturn

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Stock prices displayed a distinctly better tone today in a resumption of bullish operations in many rails, oils and selected specialties. Call money held firm at 5 per cent, a relatively stiff rate regarded as temporary, and failed to dampen bullish enthusiasm. Trading ran close to the 2,000,000 share mark.

Wheat prices advanced the world over in reflection of Russia's crop estimates and report of unfavorable weather in Argentina. Cotton fluctuation was narrow and irregular.

Belief that constructive legislation bearing on railroad consolidation be enacted by Congress stimulated demand for the carriers.

NEW HIGH MARKS

New peak prices for a year were attained by Atlantic Coast Line, Chesapeake and Ohio preferred, Louisville and Nashville, New Haven, Western Pacific and Wheeling and Lake Erie common and preferred.

Oils made a belated response to stiffening crude oil and gasoline prices. Marland touched the highest price in two years.

Steels appeared to be discounting reports of steadily increasing orders. Sloss Sheffield jumped 7 points, a high record for all time at 140½, and then slipped to 134. United States Steel common touched 130, and Gulf States advanced to 89. Strength of Pennsylvania Seaboard was based on reports that the last quarter would show a profit for the first time this year.

Buoyancy of high-priced industrial specialties revived rumors of capital split-ups. American Can jumped to 259, within 4 points of its recorded high, but eased to 258. Commercial Solvents A and B, General Electric, McCrory Stores B, Nash Motors and Woolworth closed about 4 to 8 points higher.

MOTORS WEAK

Weakness cropped out in the motors. Chrysler showed a net loss of 2% at 196¾, and Mack Truck, Willys-Overland preferred, Stromberg Carburetor and Hudson closed 1 to 2¼ points lower. Chandler showed independent strength.

Time money ruled unchanged at 4½ to 5 per cent. Prime commercial paper continued firm at 4¼ per cent.

Foreign exchange was reactionary. French francs broke 10 points to 3.90 cents on the announcement of the new fiscal program of the Briand Cabinet. Polish slotys broke 3 cents to a new low record at 10 cents. Other European rates showed nominal recessions.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE: The bulk of yesterday's supply, estimated at 900, about 300 of which were consigned in the fresh arrivals, were reported over and half-fats from Arizona and New Mexico points. They were mostly plain kinds, lacking the proper degree of finish. This fact also was true for the small supply of northern stuff. Steers were scarce, the few on hand selling at about steady values, while most she stock sales were made on a steady to 15c higher basis. A load of northern steers averaging 1004 pounds topped at $.35, while two loads of her medium 1117-pound California steers realized 7.60. A few lots of common kinds sold down to 6.50, while northern steers for feeding purposes, averaging 1000 pounds, brought 6.85.

No strictly good cows were offered, a few loads of northerns selling from 5.00@5.50, a load of 1188-pound weights making the latter price. Another demand cleaned up the supply of southwestern steers readily, the bulk of cows and heifers clearing from 4.00@4.75, with a few higher. A good portion of the southwestern supply was in canner and cutter kids, with the bulk clearing from 3.50 @4.50. Several lots of southwestern cows for feeding purposes cleared from 3.00@3.50, with heifers at 4.00. Bulls were scarce and firm, a few bologuas selling from 4.00@4.50, with most beef kinds around 5.00, although odd head of choice beef bulls sold higher.

CALVES: Demand was not overly active for today's rather liberal supply, and several lots remained unsold at a late hour. Prices today were generally steady to 25c lower; however, no good range calves were offered, and these kinds are quotable up to 8.50, while yesterday's supply, consisting mostly of common and medium 215 to 325-pound southwesterns, cleared from 7.00@7.75, while very thin kinds and weighty offerings sold down to 6.00. A few milk vealers cleared around 9.00.

HOGS: This division encountered erratic demand, with a very uneven trade, values being about steady with Monday's close, although some spots showed 10@15c losses. Yesterday's practical top was 12.75, although one load of light butchers averaging 194 pounds scored 12.85. The bulk of 180 to 200-pound weights cleared from 12.50@ 12.65, with mixed offerings down to 12.40, while a short load of weighty butchers averaging 278 pounds made 11.90. A few packing sows cleared for 10.50. About three loads remained unsold.

SHEEP: Yesterday's supply consisted of the four fourth of shorn lambs held over from Monday. Up to a late hour these had not found a buyer, and indications were that they would be held over. Good and choice wooled lambs are quotable from 14.00@15.00, with choice lightweight ewes around 6.00.

Oil Offset Wells
The Standard Oil Company started some real drilling activity in the Inglewood field when it began preparations to put down three new wells on the northeastern part of its Los Angeles Investment lease. As a direct result of this activity, the Pacific Oil Company is building to start its Baldwin No. 13, No. 14, and No. 15, offsetting Los Angeles Investment No. 35, No. 36, and No. 37.
The Pacific Oil Company expects to have its Baldwin No. 36 on production within a few days. This well is located in the northeastern part of the field, which is now the center of drilling activity at Inglewood.

Still Many Wildcats
Wildcatting is the principal industry in the northern fields of the state at present, most of the large companies confining their present development operations to unproven territory, except in those instances where lease requirements necessitate drilling in proven areas.
The Standard Oil Company is drilling four wildcat wells in the Kern county fields, and the General Petroleum Corporation also has four wildcats drilling in those fields. The Union Oil Company is drilling one wildcat wells, and the United Oil Company is drilling three. The Associated Oil Company is drilling two wildcat wells, and in addition to these, test projects of the large companies, probably a dozen other wells are being drilled in unproven territory by smaller companies.

The United Oil Company's Caledon No. 4 well, recently purchased from the Mainard company, and located in Section 20, 31-22 is doing over 600 barrels a day, according to reports, which state that the well is one of the best in the Fellows district. The Caledon property is located a short distance northeast of Fellows.

Wildcat Fishing
The Olinda No. 1 wildcat well of the Union Oil Company in the Olinda district is fishing at about 2650 feet, according to field reports. The well is located on the property purchased by the Union Oil Company from the Olinda Land Company about a year ago, which included a small area of proven territory, and a considerable tract of wildcat land.

New Surface Pipe
The Associated Oil Company has put in 10-inch surface casing in its Hellman Prospect well No. 1 on the Hellman property at Seal Beach. The casing is being set at 510 feet.

The Associated Oil Company yesterday resumed production in its Baldwin No. 3 well in the Maxwell area of the Rosecrans field, getting about 350 barrels a day. The well originally was finished at 4580 feet, but was killed a few weeks ago to deepen, and is now producing at 4750 feet.
The Baldwin No. 3 is one of the historic wells of the Rosecrans field. It was the first completed last summer in what was the discovery well in the field, which is now known as the Maxwell sand. Its initial production at that time was about 3000 barrels a day of the 42 deg. gravity oil that is characteristic of the Maxwell area. It settled down to about 1200 barrels a day about a week after it came in, and from that point declined slowly until it was decided to deepen to increase the output.
The Associated has taken its Baldwin No. 3 off production, and will try to bring it in again from the Higgins zone.
The Higgins lease has proved one of the most productive properties in the Rosecrans field. It is a direct offset to the Maxwell area of the Superior Oil Company. The drilled the discovery well of the area, and Higgins No. 1 is an offset to Maxwell No. 1, the discovery well. Practically all the oil produced in the Maxwell area has been taken from the zones found by the Superior Maxwell, the Associated Higgins, and the Associated Olinda wells.
The single exception is the Maxwell No. 10, well of E. J. Miley, which was finished in a horsetopper unknown zone a few weeks ago, and is now making about 1200 barrels a day.

BUSINESS PHILOSOPHY

BY WILLIAM FEATHER

THE doctrine of personal liberty as applied to individual acts does not adjust itself to modern civilization.
Not only are individuals becoming more dependent on each other for their well-being; but this dependency exists between cities, between States and between nations.
We are finding that the progress of any single unit of population of the world is limited by the degree of progress which obtains in other units.
Most of the hate and jealousy of the world are due to the failure to understand this simple principle: That he who helps others helps himself and that he who injures himself injures all.

OLD LANDMARK LIGHT TO FADE

Beacon at Point Fermin to be Discontinued

Famous Marine Sentinel on Duty Since 1874

Gives Way to Newer Station at Point Vicente

In the passing of the old Point Fermin light, destined for the end of the year, one of the most famous of the landmarks in Southern California will fall before the march of progress and scientific advance. The light is deemed unnecessary, with the coming of the enormous new lighthouse at Point Vicente, eight miles farther north. The latter will be commissioned early next year.
With the passing of the light also passes the old lighthouse keeper, William Austin, who died grieving for his wife, who passed beyond two months ago. The keeper will be laid to rest tomorrow in sight of the old tower to which he dedicated so much of his life.
It was back in 1874, according to Z. W. Craig, dean of waterfront reporters, that the lighthouse on Point Fermin was built. Lumber was brought by water from the Northwest as now, but brick was hauled by mule team all the way from San Bernardino under direction of Ramon Sepulveda, now the richest land-owner in the harbor district. The two-foot lens for the light was shipped out from Washington, D. C., around the Horn. Finally a wick, two inches thick was obtained, and the beacon shown forth, proclaimed the greatest safeguard to mariners of that day.
Capt. Shaw was the first keeper of the light, retiring to the Soldiers' Home years ago and later dying. Irby H. Engels served in similar capacity many additional years, and finally Mr. Austin.
Years passed and the stationary light was changed to a revolving one, but the beacon was never a strong one, as modern candle-power is measured. Now safety devices are everywhere—the new 800,000 candle-power light at Point Vicente; a light at the breakwater; a radio compass adjoining the old lighthouse; a fog signal station on the breakwater; new lighthouses at Ventura, Point Sur, various signal stations on all the islands near by, and small beacons in the water at every rocky point.
The grounds at Point Fermin light will be made into a park under special arrangements between the Federal government and the city of Los Angeles.

BEVY OF ILLINOIS BEAUTIES DUE ON LINER

A bevy of Illinois beauties will arrive the 14th inst. when the Dollar globe-girdler President Polk puts in from New York on her sixth trip around the globe. Two of the girls, Miss Geraldine Dyson of Springfield, as "Miss Illinois," and Miss Irene Mitchell as "Miss Chicago," are continuing around the world on the ship, following a popularity contest, while many more of the State's beauties won places on the Guard of Honor, and are accompanying the winners as far as San Francisco.
The Illinois State Society is making arrangements to hold an Illinois Day upon arrival of the ship, and hundreds are expected to greet the fair party at the dock.
Other travelers on the ship include Benjamin Harwood, vice-president of the Llewellyn Iron Works, and Mrs. Harwood and Mrs. Laura Beyris, wife of the president of the California Fireproof Door Company, all of Los Angeles, and Mrs. C. A. Stone of Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. Buddy De Sylva, song writer; Mrs. Marion Talley and Mrs. Humble, executive secretary of the National Association of Book Publishers, New York; Edward Bok, editor of the Saturday Evening Post, Philadelphia; Mrs. Bok; Dr. Homer Gage, Worcester, Mass., surgeon, and F. B. Findley, west broker of Boston.
The Polk inaugurates the forty-first consecutive around-the-world cruise of Dollar liners since the service started from San Francisco, February 7, 1926. During the twenty-one months the vessels constituting have steamed 1,066,000 miles, each making twenty-three ports a month and operating on a schedule of fortnightly sailings from this port.
Announcement of plans for adding another combination passenger and freight steamer to the run between Los Angeles and San Francisco, to be placed within two weeks upon the arrival here of C. L. Dimon from the east coast, Dimon is the principal owner of the Los Angeles Dispatch Line, established a few days ago with the liner Newport. The liner is said to have been chartered for the business, both in the passenger and freight trade between Los Angeles California cities, and visibly impressed Mr. Dimon when she visited this port a few weeks ago. Dimon also operates ships on the Atlantic Coast and is a stockholder in the Clyde Line.
Lumber shipments from the Northwest to Florida, on ships most of which stop here for bunkers en route, have developed almost entirely within the past month and given much attractive business to carriers heretofore operating only coastwise. Yesterday the W. M. Tupper, recently sold by the Shipping Board to Puget Sound interests, stopped here for bunkers, bound for Florida ports. The Santa Ynez sailed last night for Florida, and for the Puget Sound to load for Florida, and will tow the schooner Rose Mahony, headed also. The H. W. Baxter is discharging here preparatory to loading for a cargo for Florida; El Capitan is now on the Sound planning a similar trip, and several sailing schooners have been pressed into the trade.
The lumber steamer Samoa, en route from here to Eureka, has just been equipped with radio, the first the Hammond Lumber Company has had to be so equipped. She is to go under charter for a trip to Florida. Hammond's Oregon is operated next to the Hammond fleet, and is believed all the fleet will shortly have such means of communicating with shore.
On her second trip on this run, the Polish steamer Norderdyk arrived here from Rotterdam and Antwerp yesterday to discharge 450 passengers and 1200 tons of freight. Six thousand men on Mesopotamian dates are among the items being dropped here. The ship returns presently via Panama, and the South American run and added with several other ships to the joint service operated by Royal Mail from Pacific coast and Holland-American Line between Northern Europe and the Pacific Coast.
The Shipping Board motorship William Penn, operated by the American Pioneer Line, is due this morning from New York for her first voyage here, to take on 700 tons of trans-shipment cargo for the Orient. The Dollar Steamship Company is her local agent.
The drop in fuel oil from $1.40 to $1 a barrel is a factor as the reason for the horizontal freight rate cut of 2% cents a ton, by the Matson and Los Angeles Steamship companies, effective January 1, next. Matson ships, it is estimated, will save $300,000 a year by the cheaper fuel. The reductions between California and Hawaii, for pineapples are from $6 to present rate, to $5.75; sugar from $5 to $4.75 per weight and canned pineapples from $5 to $4.75 measurement.
Shipping papers are carrying unverified reports that Meyer Lissner, Los Angeles member of the United States Shipping Board Commission, is about to resign because of lack of co-operation by his colleagues. This would leave the West without a representative on the commission, the place made vacant recently by the resignation of Bert E. Haney of Oregon not having been filled.

Eight Canadian government merchant marine steamers, formerly in the Great Lakes trade, have been sold to private organizations which plan to place at least six vessels in service between Canada and Cuba.

DEATH TALE HEARD OVER TELEPHONE

Canadian Officer Learns of Asserted Slaying in Remote Forest

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Dec. 1.—Over the telephone Provincial Police Chief Gallagher at Williams Lake, B. C., listened to a dramatic story of an asserted murder in one of the wildest spots of Western Central British Columbia. At the other end of the wire Constable Ian McRae reported that Fred Cyr had appeared at police headquarters and confessed that he killed Alex Ducharme, a pioneer British Columbia trapper, as the result of a quarrel over a trap line near Chilko Lake.

According to the asserted confession, Cyr, after shooting Ducharme, had buried the body in canvas in a grave he had dug three and a half feet in the frozen earth near where the tragedy occurred. At Hanceville, according to McRae, Cyr made the confession after he had been warned by the constable, and told the details of the fatal shooting in the silence of the forest at Chilko Lake on November 5, last.

It will take the police fourteen days to make the trip in and out to where the body is said to be buried and it will be necessary to take Cyr along as a guide to the place. An inquest will be conducted as soon as possible.

TURKEYS TAKEN WHEN DOGS ARE BROUGHT IN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WEYMOUTH (Mass.) Dec. 1.—Kindness to their watchdogs in bringing them into the house during a heavy storm the other morning cost John Moore of Wood Rock farm, East Weymouth, sixty-one turkeys he had raised, valued at $350. The turkeys were carried off in an automobile. The police have found no clew to the thieves. Mr. and Mrs. Moore had succeeded in raising 150 fine turkeys. At night they were guarded by a pair of Airedale dogs. The other night the weather became so bad that the dogs were brought into the house. The next morning when Moore went to feed his flock sixty-one birds were missing.

WALL STREET PARAGRAPHS

Prices Move Forward on Larger Volume of Trading

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1925, New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Wall street today came back into larger volume and maintained a general forward trend in prices. Once more the oils and rails were given freer movement, but they did not occupy the center of the speculative stage to the exclusion of others, as specialties also were prominent on occasion. Prospects of higher dividends played an important hand in the day's developments and clique operations, while including the subjects of such favorable discussion, also gathered in issues on which little or nothing of extraordinary nature could be or was divulged. The street was regaled with tales of large profits taken from motor speculation, with Detroit made to appear as the center of this phase of the industry, as well as the manufacturing end. Commission houses, while conceding the right of a rally at this time, were somewhat inclined to caution and, where advice was sought, they pointed to the rails as offering the best choice in their judgment. From Lower Broadway went a wire voicing the opinion that the current rally should endure until midmonth at least, and as it represented a sentiment daily sought, the financial community was generous enough to attribute no small part of the current season's tendency as a direct result.

Delay Possible

In the financial envelope American Can there was created a growing feeling that capital changes were soon to be effected. Should the street's expectations be fulfilled, this would involve a split-up of shares and a dividend rate on the new securities, equivalent to a substantial increase on the present certificates.

Now that December had appeared discussion on the matter became more common as the board was expected to meet for some sort of action before New Year's. That disappointment was likely to come forth from any board meeting of the month, today found currency in banking places, where it was intimated that a policy of conservatism was to be maintained, thereby precluding changes for some time to come. It was pictured that it had taken the company more than twenty years to attain its present status and at intervals new financing had been necessary for purchase of raw materials.

Borne on Warm Winds

Dividend possibilities within the week were suggested for Atlantic Gulf and West Indies preferred. Five years soon will have elapsed since a payment was made on this security; similarly the common shares have been out of the dividend ranks. The Florida boom brought quick results to the Gulf treasury through the Clyde Line operations and estimates of the current year's results today placed the probable showing for the junior securities, after allowing $5 on the preferred, at close to $10 a share.

Reviving Dividend Talk

Marland led the oils into higher ground and its own accomplishment was to closely approximate its record top of two years ago. Right along, the street had listened to dividend talk which chiefly had indicated an advance to a $4 rate, but differing opinion today was noted in the belief that the $3 basis would be maintained in addition to which an extra of $1 or $2 a share was considered likely. Pan American issues moved along in lively manner, as did some of the Standard issues. International Petroleum on the curb found favor, as sentiment toward the entire group improved with bettering trade conditions. Higher prices for gasoline and stiffening up of the crude market position, were underlying factors which enabled the believers in this group dormant for some time, to hurry forth in new market efforts.

Sloss for a Leader

Sloss Sheffield once more resumed its position in the steel shares notwithstanding the rather broad statement emanating from official quarters tending to offset some of the optimism lately heard about the company. In the renewed activity, the stock got up to a new high spot. Crucible, Youngstown and others of the independent grouping were inclined to firm up and United States Steel also bettered its price position.

Finding Reflection

United Cigar Stores preferred responded to the plan for increasing the capital stock with an advance into the record territory and, as it approached 140, at which the senior shares may be retired, the street professed to see such a step looming in the background. From the proceeds of the proposed sale of common shares at $25, the company will have raised approximately $8,000,000, an amount great enough to care for the preferred with a tidy balance for surplus account.

In New Low Ground

As it dropped to another new low record price efforts were redoubled to find a cause for Murray Body's slump. Compared with its high for the year, the stock had lost 75 per cent of its one-time market value, much of which was attributed in brokerage circles to liquidation of long stock. To the initiated this action was fraught with meaning, with future dividends brought into a position of doubt. To account for the weakness in the shares, a wire house stated that third-quarter earnings would reveal a deficit after all taxes and charges. Quite apart from this phase of its operations the street also heard varied suggestions of shifting contracts by automobile concerns to other makers of bodies.

Steaming Rails

For a time interest largely was in the rails, with such widely diversified issues as Atlantic Coast Line, New Haven and Katy securities prominently in the lead. Norfolk and Western hit a fast speed and rallied toward its late top. It was significant that once more the rails had joined with the oils in fostering higher market prices, as they had been jointly considered leaders before the market should have had its final spurt.

The present normal increase of our national population is 15,000,000 each decade.

PLAN OF PLAZA STATION GIVEN

Commission Engineer Offers Practical Solution

Proposal Bitterly Attacked by Railway Counsel

Total Cash Cost Placed at Sum of $3,269,380

Plans for the construction of a modern and fitting Plaza union passenger station, asserted by its proponents to be thoroughly practical and attacked by opponents as but little more than a preliminary estimate, were submitted to the State Railroad Commission, sitting en banc here yesterday, in the second day of its new hearing in the Los Angeles union station case.

George S. Hill submitted the plan and it immediately became the subject of attacks consuming the greater part of the day and led by C. W. Durbrow, counsel for the Southern Pacific Railroad and spokesman also for the Union Pacific and Santa Fe railroads.

CASH COST LOW

Hill, commission engineer who testified he has worked at intervals on the union-station project since 1917, was put on the witness stand by Carl I. Wheat, commission counsel, "to show that a practical union station can be built in the Plaza area for less money than could be required for separate stations at other sites" that is, the area now used by the railroads.

Hill testified that $7,219,380 of cash money would be required to build a union station on the Plaza site, but that if there were to be taken into account the salvage value of the present southern Pacific-Union Pacific station property and present Santa Fe station property and other property released by use of a union station, the new-money cost for the Plaza station would be reduced to $3,269,380. This figure was decidedly in contrast to figures emanating from various sources that the cost of a Plaza station would run from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000. Considerable property in the Plaza area already is owned by rail interests and is now in use there, it was brought out.

MERELY AS SAMPLE

Hill's plan, which he introduced "mainly as a sample to show what could be done," the Plaza union station would extend from Los Angeles River at Alameda street to Alameda street, facing the Plaza. The land included extends from Los Angeles street to Main street and includes also the Southern Pacific trackyard, a strip between Howard and Lyon streets and other parcels south of Alameda street. Alameda street would be slightly deflected in order to pass in front of the station. Some slight changes would be necessary in Los Angeles street.

The main portion of the station building, Hill testified, would be 600 feet long, 120 feet high and sixty feet wide. The concourse would be 400 feet long, fifty feet wide and twenty feet high. The floor of the station would be at the level of Alameda street.

Durbrow immediately attacked Hill's plan through cross-examination. He questioned Hill concerning the wisdom of track entrance to the station, whether there would be adequate and whether they would block rail traffic dangerously and inconveniently. He attacked Hill's provision for a slight decline of station tracks and the provision for crossing Alameda street and otherwise sought to show that Hill had not taken into consideration expert information necessary for laying out a union station.

PLANS DEFENDED

Hill defended his plan by explaining how it could be changed to meet conditions deemed objectionable by Durbrow or by other engineering and finally said:

"This is a practical method for getting a Plaza union station. It was drawn as an example merely to show what can be done. A still more intensive study could develop a still more practical plan but this plan is entirely practical, thoroughly so."

When defended Hill's lack of knowledge of the answer to a narrow question about interlocking by saying that another witness would report on that matter would be employed and that Hill is not the man to query about those matters.

"Why, this man here has attempted to lay out a station for three transcontinental railroads and he you mean to say that he

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC WORRIES

Police and Business Men's Bodies to Confer on Handling Christmas Congestion

A special meeting of the Police Commission will be held Friday morning jointly with representatives of several business associations to formulate plans for the control of Christmas traffic in the downtown area, it was decided at the regular meeting of the commission yesterday.

Representatives of the Downtown Business Men's Association, the Traffic Commission, two street railway companies, Retail Dry Goods Association, Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, the Automobile Club of Southern California and the Chamber of Commerce will be invited to attend and participate in making regulations for handling the holiday traffic.

Because Christmas shopping has started early, Commissioner Thorpe told the other members of the board, police now almost are unable to handle the late afternoon crowds at two or three of the towntown areas.

The commission refused to grant Max P. Horwitz a permit to conduct a public dance hall at the intersection of Van Nuys Boulevard and Sherman Way on the grounds that there is not sufficient police supervision at that point, and because it has been on record for some time as being opposed to dance halls along the outlying boulevards in the city. Several business men sent letters indorsing Horwitz's plans, and a delegation of church members appeared and opposed the project.

A resolution commending Officer H. H. Young for saving the life of an elderly lady in a recent downtown traffic jam was voted by the commission and ordered published in the Police Bulletin.

RESOLUTION DIES UNDER COUNCIL WIT

Authority to Move Venice Office Furniture Swamped in Flow of Humor

Councilmen indulged in a bit of extempore humor yesterday when Councilman Moore introduced a resolution asking that power be conferred upon Controller Myers to enable him to proceed to Venice and acquire two tables, a flat top desk and some chairs, the property of the former Venice Auditor's office.

Said President Workman: "Why, City Clerk Domingues went to Venice with a van and by the size of the pile he brought back he carted away everything not tied down. He went at night, too."

"We moved all of Eagle Rock in here once without any Council resolutions," said Councilman Allan.

"We moved Sawtelle in twice and moved it back again another time without resolutions," said Councilman Criswell. "If Bob Domingues overlooked anything let him go back and get it."

"And in the daytime," suggested Councilman Randall.

In the face of all this wit Councilman Mpore withdrew his resolution.

OIL BLAZE IMPERILS COTTAGES

Flame Roars High Into Air Through Torrential Rain as Pipe Breaks

A broken oil pipe line which became ignited shot tongues of flame high into the air and threatened to destroy several cottages at San Fernando and Verdugo roads shortly after 9 o'clock last night.

The mass of flames leaping apparently from out of the ground high into the air attracted a great crowd of people who braved the torrential rain to watch the blaze.

Firemen under Battalion Chief Roades of District No. 2, put up a heroic fight to save a row of cottages on San Fernando Road just across the street from the blaze. The tongues of flame roared high into the air, licking the fronts of the cottages. The little band of firemen, shielded somewhat from the intense heat behind a barricade of boxes and doors, stood their ground and poured streams of water on the houses. Above, each threatened from high tension power lines, with their insulation burned off and with the poles carrying them burning fast.

The cause of the fire was undetermined. Eye witnesses said the pipe line spouted oil for some moments before it became ignited.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Marcy of 6800 Eleventh avenue were passing the spot just as the oil became ignited. They reported seeing a man running from the point where the explosion occurred. Marcy was painfully burned about the face by the burst of flames and Mrs. Marcy was scorched. Both were treated by Police Surgeon Renfrew.

Passerby Hurt as Broken Hoist Dumps Timbers

The sudden breaking of a hoist carrying lumber to the sixth floor of the new Telephone Building at 433 South Olive street resulted in serious injuries yesterday afternoon to Fred M. Smith, 38 years of age. Smith, whose home is at 1656 Girard street. He was passing the building when the hoist broke.

He was struck down by several of the falling timbers and suffered concussion of the brain and severe lacerations and bruises about the head and shoulders. Police are investigating the accident.

RED CARIENS, RACER, DIES OF INJURIES

Driver Hurt in Culver City Speedway Crash Sunday Is Victim After Two Days

R. L. "Red" Cariens, racing pilot injured in a crash at the Culver City speedway, Sunday, died late last night at the Angelus Hospital. He never regained consciousness. Dr. Earl W. O'Donnell announced that his patient had died suddenly after having shown signs of improvement. The injury was entirely to his head, no other portions of his body being seriously hurt. He sustained a brain laceration.

The accident occurred on the back stretch of the Culver speed bowl when the cars of Cariens and Jerry Wonderlich came together. Wonderlich was hurt but slightly.

MOTORTERIAS TAX BALKED

Immediate adoption of an ordinance placing a tax of $150 a quarter on rolling grocery stores, termed motorterias, was defeated yesterday in the City Council when Councilman Randall voted no. The matter will come up again in a week.

STREET PROTESTS DENIED

The Council yesterday denied protests against the improvement of Third street, a part of the Major Traffic Plan. It is contemplated to eliminate the jog at Third and Main streets and to extend Third street easterly to connect with Fourth street and cross the river on the Fourth-street viaduct.

FILM COMBINE FALLS THROUGH

Release Merger of M-G-M and Big Four Off

Exhibitors' "Trust" Fear Ends Negotiations

Gloria Swanson Going Over to United Artists

The proposed releasing merger of United Artists and Metro-Goldwyn, which was to have effected a saving of millions of dollars annually to the two parties, was abandoned definitely yesterday, according to announcement made by Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of directors of United Artists. Objections raised earlier by Charlie Chaplin had no influence on the decision, Schenck said, the plans having been wrecked by a storm of protest from exhibitors who feared the proposed combination might become a gigantic motion-picture trust.

Schenck further declared that the decision will mean that United Artists, in order to keep out of the financial "red" from now on will have to expand its production schedule to at least twenty pictures yearly. In the same breath he contributed the information that Gloria Swanson probably will be releasing through United Artists by next September.

"In explanation of the decision to abandon the huge combine, which has been the major topic of conversation in motion-picture circles for many days, Schenck issued the following statement:

"The United Artists and the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation have definitely decided by mutual consent to abandon permanently their proposed affiliation. It is with considerable regret that we make this announcement. United Artists have felt for some time that an affiliation with some other company having an international distributing organization would be beneficial financially and would effect a considerable saving. We settled on M-G-M as a suitable distribution partner because we considered the quality of their product to be of a continuously high standard. We were engaged in working out the physical details when a storm of protest arose from exhibitors all over the world.

"These protests were based on the mistaken premise that there was to be something in the nature of a trustification of the motion-picture industry. Nothing could have been further from the facts, but, realizing our inability to dispel this impression, we have decided that our independence and integrity before the exhibitor is paramount to any economy we might effect in the face of adverse, if mistaken, criticism. Both companies are in complete accord in this decision.

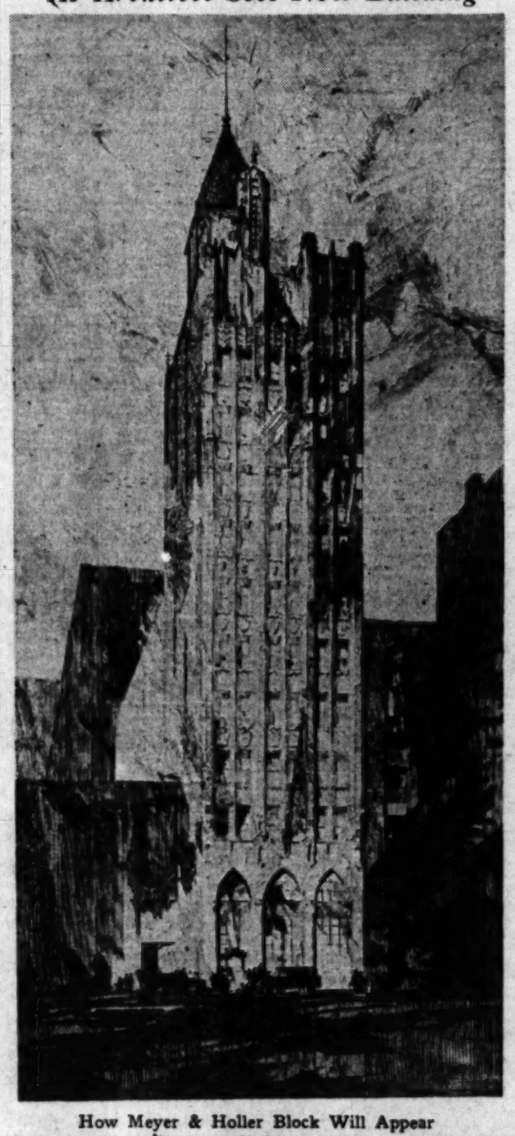
"Speaking for the United Artists, I cannot make it too plain or too emphatic that our aim from the very formation of the organization has been mutual co-operation and complete independence. We shall not now or in the future abandon that aim. United Artists now and always will make its own pictures and sell its own pictures to the best theaters available at the best price obtainable."

Schenck declared that the merger, if effected, would have saved over $4,000,000 annually in distribution costs through the elimination of duplicating offices and office forces of the two distributing systems. Pictures would still have been sold independently, he added, and the M-G-M theaters would have received no special consideration. He insisted that the creation of a trust in the motion-picture industry is an impossibility, "because the industry deals with personalities and these cannot be controlled as can commodities."

Regarding increased production, Schenck stated that United Artists will not shorten production time but will eliminate long lay-offs. The proposed European trip of Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford will not be effected, however, as Mary already has one picture ready for release and Fairbanks's next picture, "The Black Pirate," will not be ready for general release before September.

Schenck was unable to state on what basis Gloria Swanson may become a member of United Artists. The organization at present is owned by Schenck, Fairbanks, Pickford and Chaplin, although others release through it.

As Architect Sees New Building



How Meyer & Holler Block Will Appear

Office tower to be built soon on Sixth street will be of Gothic style in which a strong vertical effect will contrast with a picturesque skyline.

NEW OFFICE TOWER TO RISE

Height-Limit Building to Be Erected Soon Between Grand Avenue and Hope on Sixth Street

Another new limit-height Class A office building is to be started immediately in the downtown district on the south side of Sixth street between Grand avenue and Hope street. The frontage is thirty-eight feet with a depth of 115 feet.

The lot is owned by I. Eisner of the Sun Realty Company and the building will also be his property. The major part of the building, excepting the ground floor, will be occupied by Meyer & Holler, who have designed, engineered and are erecting the building. The structure will be known as the Meyer & Holler Building.

Due to the narrowness of the building in relation to its height the Gothic style of architecture seemed to offer the natural solution of the problem, in which a strong vertical effect will be contrasted with a picturesque skyline. Another important element in the design of the facade will be the deep revealing of the vertical piers. The facade will be faced with Ohio sandstone in natural range of colors in conjunction with terra cotta.

To carry out the tower-like character of the building, which has a permanent free exposure on the south and west, the building covers the entire lot only as far as the eighth floor, and from that point up extends back to a depth of only sixty-five feet, it being the intention to treat the four walls of the tower in a manner that will carry out the spirit of the main facade.

Two high-speed elevators leading from an unusually interesting lobby will be one of the important features of the building. While the building will be limit height, it will contain only twelve floors, to give increased height to each floor.

Meyer & Holler have taken a twenty-year lease on these quarters, expecting to make it their permanent home, and the whole deal involves a financial amount of more than $500,000. It is intended to start construction work some time in January.

Yacht on Block in Auction Sale Goes for $7100

E. M. Riter, said to be an agent of the Pacific Finance Company, yesterday won the yacht Katherine R., with a $7100 bid when it was sold at auction by A. S. Menick, deputy United States Marshal, at Berth 92, Los Angeles Harbor.

The Katherine R. was mortgaged for $50,000 to the finance company and another bill of $2000 for towing service, owed to the Wilmington Transportation Company, was settled before the sale. The yacht was built in 1898.

DAM COMPROMISE HINTED

San Gabriel Conciliation Committee Head Suggests Pasadena's Willingness to Effect Settlement

A suggestion that Pasadena may be willing to compromise the San Gabriel Canyon controversy on the basis of storing 65,000 acre feet of water within the county's dam, was made yesterday by F. J. Safley, chairman of the government conciliation committee at the formal conference on the dam question. Supervisor Cogswell expressed doubt of such a settlement, declaring disbelief that there will be available 65,000 acre feet of water for the purpose, or any great amount of water for any purpose.

The conference, which is being conducted at the request of the Federal Departments of Agriculture and Interior, will continue today, and tomorrow the conferees will go on an inspection trip of San Gabriel Canyon under the guidance of Chief Engineer Reagan of the county flood control district.

Other members of the government committee are F. E. Bonner of San Francisco, district engineer of the United States Forest Service, and H. D. McGlashan of San Francisco, district engineer of the United States Geological Survey. The chairman is an inspector of the Interior Department with headquarters at Salt Lake City.

There were present also Supervisors Cogswell and Wright, C. W. Sopp, assistant engineer of the Pasadena Water Department; Ray W. Dowds, counsel of the county flood control district; Harvey W. Hincks, consulting engineer of the Municipal League; Anthony Pratt, secretary of the Municipal League; G. K. Hooper, of Pasadena, Peter Diedrich, engineer of the Glendale light and water department; W. S. Jones, hydraulic engineer of the San Gabriel Valley Protective Association, and City Counsel Howard of Pasadena.

The chairman's suggested compromise was made in course of a discussion of Pasadena's objection to the building of a railroad by the county up the canyon, which will interfere with that city's plans for a storage dam in the canyon's lower end.

During the conference Chairman Safley announced that if the informal meetings fail to result in an agreement, the committee will have formal hearings, take testimony and make a definite finding to be submitted to the two departments involved.

On tomorrow's inspection trip the conferees will visit the sites of Engineer Reagan's proposed dam at San Gabriel Forks, and of the alternative dam site at Granite Canyon.

PLANE INJURES FOUR IN AUTO

Filming of Picture Scene Results in Smash-up

Pilot and Companion Unhurt in Spectacular Crash

Aviator Fails to Clear Car in Head-on Rush

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Dec. 1.—Four persons were injured, one seriously, when an airplane crashed into an automobile in the taking of a motion-picture scene at the Long Beach Municipal Airport this afternoon. All the injured were in the automobile. The two men in the airplane escaped unhurt through what aviator witnesses declared to be remarkable skill on the part of J. G. Montijo, the pilot, who is a well-known "stunt" flyer.

Joe Walters, cameraman, was the most seriously injured. He suffered a possible fracture of the skull. The others injured were Thomas Brannigan, cameraman, Eddie Fix, actor, and Ray Cushman, driver of the automobile. All are members of the Henry King company engaged in filming a Samuel Goldwyn picture. With Montijo in the airplane was "Bud" Fisher.

For three days the company had been trying to make "retakes" of a scene in which an automobile dashes along a road with an airplane approaching it head on. Just as a collision seems unavoidable, the airplane, according to the plan, lifts and "zooms" over the car.

NEW DRIVER EMPLOYED

During these three days only unsatisfactory shots were obtained, due, according to observers, to the driver of the automobile turning aside at the last minute from the roaring advance of the plane, yesterday Cushman was employed to drive the automobile.

With Fix beside him, and the two cameramen in the tonneau cranking to get the scene, Cushman drove down an imaginary road across the aviation field at a fast clip. Montijo, in a heavy enclosed plane of the "cabin" type, took off to meet him.

Both held their machines true, but at the last moment the plane failed to lift rapidly enough. Its running gear and propeller swept the automobile. The four men in the car strove in vain to dodge as, with a roar and splintering crash, the airplane scraped the top of the open automobile, and wrenched clear.

The automobile was wrecked. The camermen, Walters and Brannigan, and their instruments, were swept from the car.

EVADES SPECTATORS

Montijo held his wrecked plane in the air. The landing gear and one wing had been torn away. A large crowd of workers and spectators was in the path of the heavy plane with its limousine body. With the motor still going, Montijo, working his rudder to make up for the lost wing, cleared the crowd and maneuvered his plane a quarter of a mile across the aviation field, bringing up against an old building. Montijo and his passenger were unhurt.

The four injured men in the automobile were taken to the Community Hospital. Fix, Cushman and Brannigan suffered severe cuts and bruises. Walters, the most seriously injured, probably will recover, physicians stated.

C. B. Tate was directing the picture, which, it is said, has been completed with the exception of the airplane-automobile scene.

COUNCIL ACTS ON AIRPLANE REGULATION

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONG BEACH, Dec. 1.—The City Council here today passed on first reading an ordinance designed to regulate the operation of airplanes over the city of Long Beach and to prevent stunt flying and other hazardous work by pilots over thickly settled portions of the municipality. The ordinance was adopted following appeal by members of the Long Beach Aero Club to the Councilmen not to leave the control of aviation in Long Beach to persons who know little or nothing of aviation. Besides providing rules of the air for the guidance of flyers, the ordinance provides for a commission of expert aviators to pass on the qualifications of air pilots and the condition of their airplanes.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

WE WERE comparing notes on the great men we had met.

Another newspaper man and myself.

CAKE BATTER

To a reporter the famous and illustrious of the earth are just raw material.

They are what cake batter is to a cook; or hammer and nails to a carpenter.

THE SADDENED LIZARD

He was telling me about a famous publisher who summoned a star artist to make a journey of several days' duration — and several thousand miles' distance — in order to look at a funny little desert lizard who had been afflicted; he had lost his reptile tail; but it had left his proud spirit undaunted.

None of his vast publishing projects interested the big man as much as this lizard.

GOOD LISTENERS

Comparing notes, we came to this conclusion about men who could reasonably be called great:

They are nearly always interested in foolish little things; they nearly all have humor and tolerance. In the great majority of cases they have extraordinary powers of memory. Nearly every big man we could think of was a good listener.

LITTLE THINGS

Their interest in blunt-end lizards and such things is an instinctive defense.

If they confined their attention to the big problems of their lives, not one of them could live through the ordeal.

Wherefore Theodore Roosevelt used to go to the zoo every Sunday morning and watch the yaks fight. And Woodrow Wilson went to frivolous vaudeville shows and read detective stories. And Elihu Root liked to play bucking broncho with little children.

GRACIOUSNESS

They are gracious because they are serene in the consciousness that they can lick any situation that arises.

Mr. Wilson was very gracious in the early days of his Presidency; not so gracious toward the end. He froze up, it seemed, in direct ratio to his loss of dominance of the situation.

The only contradiction of this apparent truism I can think of was the late E. H. Harriman. He was not an affable man to interview. Doubtless this was due to his illness. A situation he could not lick.

THE RAILROAD KING

The one time I ever tried to interview Mr. Harriman was at a moment in which he had failed to master the situation.

It was at Riverside.

A locomotive was taking his private car somewhere that he didn't want it to be taken. He was frantically trying to signal for it to stop.

Mr. Harriman no doubt realized the peculiarly ludicrous situation.

Here he was the king of the railroads. At a gesture or a nod, he could bring railroad magnates to their knees. With a scratch of a pen he could wreck great transportation systems.

Yet, he knew so little of practical railroad working that he didn't know the brakeman's signal to a locomotive.

COMMISSION IS RE-ELECTED

Helton and Morton Winners in Santa Monica City Vote; Spencer, Mrs. Carlisle and Hart Winners

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 1.—F. A. Helton, Commissioner of Finance, and John A. Morton, Commissioner of Public Works, were re-elected in the municipal election here today. Charles A. M. Spencer was elected police judge over O. B. De Camp, a write-in candidate. Mrs. Blanche Carlisle and George A. Hart, president of the Board of Education seeking re-election, were elected to the school board.

The official vote of the city's thirty-four precincts, complete, gives Morton 3798 to 1572 for his opponent, Henry C. Peterson, for Commissioner of Public Works.

For Commissioner of Finance, Helton received 3016, and Wallace Braden, 2417.

Spencer received 3098 votes for police judge to De Camp's 1274.

Spencer carried all thirty-four precincts, Morton thirty-three and Helton twenty-nine.

The vote for members of the Board of Education, two to be elected, was:

Mrs. Carlisle, 2535; Hart, 2234; Dwight C. Freeman, 2089; Ira D. Wheeler, 1930; Mrs. John M. Connan, 1014; Wallace Willetta, 490.

Less than half of the city's 14,000 registered voters cast ballots.

The finance fight was the hottest of the campaign, centering around the city-planning issue. Braden campaigned on a platform advocating a city planning commission, while Helton favored the idea in a different form.

De Camp, a young Ocean Park attorney, failed to file his candidacy for police judge in time and supporters either wrote in his name or used stickers provided on the streets near the voting booths.

Commissioner of Public Works Morton carried his home precinct 64 to 22. Finance Commissioner Helton carried his precinct 109 to 69, his opponent, Braden, losing his, 127 to 141. For police judge, Spencer carried his precinct 67 to

MILLION-DOLLAR LOVE SUIT FAILS

Charge Against Copper King's Wife Dismissed

Court Rules Former Spouse Late With Action

Decision Reserved in Attack on Reno Divorce

The suit for $1,000,000 damages for asserted alienation of affections brought by Mrs. Rosellia O. Butler against LeRue Wallace Jenkins Butler, present wife of Cooley Butler, reputed multimillionaire copper king, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Collier on the ground the suit had not been brought within the statutory period provided by law.

Mrs. Rosellia Butler, according to her complaint, married Butler in Duluth, Minn., in 1900, and lived with him until January, 1922. In May, 1923, it was stated, she obtained a divorce from Butler in Reno on a cross-complaint she filed to a suit he had instituted.

In her alienation suit, the plaintiff charged the defendant conspired with others to alienate Butler's affections so that the defendant might marry Butler as soon as he and the plaintiff were divorced.

Attorneys for the defendant set forth that inasmuch as the plaintiff and defendant were divorced in May, 1923, the suit was not brought within the period of one year thereafter and therefore had no place on the court calendar.

At the time of instituting her alienation action, Mrs. Rosellia Butler also filed a suit for divorce in the local court against Cooley Butler, asserting that the Reno decree was invalid on the ground neither she nor Butler had established the required residence in that city at the time the decree was granted. She also declared that facts in the case were misrepresented to her.

Attorneys for Butler had filed a motion to dismiss this action but Judge Collier reserved decision to the 9th inst.

SEMESTER CHANGE TABLED

U.S.C. Cabinet Postpones Action Establishing Four-Quarter Scholastic Year

Action on the proposal to establish a four-quarter scholastic year at the University of Southern California, thus eliminating the summer vacation, has been deferred for several months, it was announced yesterday at the conclusion of a meeting of the administrative cabinet of the university.

The plan involves the division of the year into four quarters instead of the three semesters as at present, in order to give students desiring to do so an opportunity of concluding their courses in three or three and a half years instead of four.

Hal J. Stonier, executive secretary of the university, pointed out that many of the older students do not care for the summer vacation and the adoption of the four-quarter scholastic year would eliminate their dissatisfaction.

The plan, which is in effect at Stanford and several other large universities, has been under study for six months or more by the administrative cabinet composed of all the deans of the various schools and colleges and President Von KleinSmid of the university.

The cabinet tentatively decided to conduct two commencements each year, one in February and the other in June, because of the large number of students to accommodate. The next meeting of the cabinet is scheduled for next February, Stonier said, and at that time definite action may be taken on the four-quarter plan as well as the two annual commencements. The question of adopting intelligence tests for incoming students also may be taken up at that time, it was stated.

Dr. Von KleinSmid presided at yesterday's meeting at the Athletic Club and gave a verbal report of his findings during his recent tour through the East, where he visited many of the universities.

MOB PERILS BUDDING RACER

Long Beach Youth, Said to Have Demolished Parked Car at Sixty-Mile Clip, Rescued by Police

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Dec. 1.—An embryo auto racing king came to grief here today when, driving a roadster at an asserted speed of sixty miles an hour, he crashed into another car and was rescued from an angry mob by the timely arrival of motorcycle officers. The asserted speed demon is in the City Jail on a charge of reckless driving.

The youth with a lust for speed, prevented the action.

is J. V. Boyd, 23 years of age, of 6392 Orange avenue, Virginia City. Police assert Boyd, driving a high-powered car, careened into another car standing beside the curb on Bonito avenue, smashing it to a twisted pile of junk. Boyd, police say, sped on but was overtaken by Motorcycle Officers Erb and Halstead and placed under arrest. A crowd of angry witnesses gathered and threatened to take the prisoner from the officers, but the arrival of other officers

In Boyd's pocket was a letter of introduction from a Los Angeles automobile advertising expert to a racing driver. "He wants some advice on the whys and wherefores of racing and I know you can give him the dope," was the text of one paragraph of the letter.

Boyd will get considerable more advice on the whys and wherefores of race driving from the Long Beach police within the next few days than the racing driver can give him in a whole year, local police officials said today.

RESERVE UNITS ORGANIZED

First Companies of New Naval Service Enlistment Formed Under Supervision of U. S. M. C.

Organization of the first company units of the Fleet Marine Corps Reserve and the Volunteer Marine Corps Reserve was actively started yesterday at the United States Marine Corps recruiting headquarters, 130 South Broadway, Room 426. Applicants will be given the regular physical examination for what promises to be a very popular and instructive reserve enlistment, according to Capt. W. W. Aiken, U.S.M.C., in charge of the station.

The two Los Angeles reserve companies will be organized by First Lieutenants Guy Lewis, local attorney, and Ernest F. Bishop, of the Los Angeles police detective bureau, both experienced officers.

Immediately following the promulgation of the regulations for recruiting, under the provision by Congress made effective July 1, 1925, it became necessary to assemble the units by organization in order to facilitate handling enlistment in a service as popular as the Marine Corps. It is part of a comprehensive plan to develop a trained soldiery, or at least partially trained, for duty in time of national need.

Young men desirous of taking advantage of an opportunity for the crystallization of their ideals of patriotism and citizenship, and who are interested in the study of military problems, will be given exceptional opportunities through this enlistment without interfering with their regular vocations.

The following are eligible for enlistment in Class 4: Men who have completed a minimum of one year in any branch of the Regular Army, Navy or Marine Corps, or who have had equivalent military training, also members of the naval militia; men without previous military experience who enlist in an organized unit of the Marine Corps Reserve.

In Class 6, enlistment is open to men with or without military experience. In this class, drill is not compulsory. Applicants must be not less than 18 years of age, and must not be members of any other naval or military organization excepting the militia. Clothing and equipment are furnished, and pay is based on drill duty.

MAN SENT TO JAIL ON EXTRA GIRL'S CHARGE

Lorenzo Carleton, employee of a Hollywood motion-picture publication, was sentenced yesterday to serve two months in the County Jail by Judge Archbald on a charge of having contributed to the delinquency of an 18-year-old motion-picture extra girl. Carleton had pleaded guilty and sentence was imposed after the court denied his application for probation. Carleton was asserted to have been intimate with the girl and to have caused her to pose in the nude for photographs. The girl said she thought Carleton would aid her to get into motion pictures.

Auto Collision May be Fatal to Passenger

Ed Hodges, 56 years of age, of 343 Douglas street, suffered injuries yesterday which may prove fatal in an automobile accident at Beverly Boulevard and Wilton Place. His skull was fractured at the base and his right leg broken. At the Receiving Hospital Dr. Chase declared his condition critical.

Hodges was a passenger in a car driven by Wilson Crawford, 23, 2754 Alessandro street, and containing also Joe Richards, 22, of the same address. It was in collision with a car driven by Lew Harris, a used-car salesman of 2102 West Seventh street. Harris was not hurt, and Crawford and Richards escaped with cuts and bruises.

Detective Lieutenants Bain and Stoll are investigating.

KILLS SELF ON CHURCH STEPS

Former Field Official for Labor Department and Applicant for Deputy Marshal Post Takes Life With Gun After Ascertaining Cost of Cremating Body

Beneath the gilt announcement of the Gospel Tabernacle Church, Eighteenth and Georgia streets, "Strangers Cordially Welcome," yesterday lay for a time the body of William Telle, 60 years of age, of 441 Towne avenue. He was a former field official under the Commissioner of Labor and unsuccessful applicant for the post of Deputy United States Marshal. Telle, after calling up an undertaker and inquiring the cost of cremation, had shot himself in the abdomen with a cheap revolver, while seated upon the church steps. Among other papers beside him was a note that read: "Cremate my body. Call Walter Blue," and another which gave Blue's address as 717 West Washington street, which is the Wilshire Undertakers, headed by Blue.

Blue is president of the Securities Benefit Association, of which Telle was a member, and was called by him on the telephone with the cremation inquiry about half an hour before the suicide.

The papers, which gave Telle's name and address, contained a letter from Senator Shortridge regarding the Deputy Marshalship and several political indorsements for the post. A number of receipts from physicians indicated Telle was in poor health. Letters also have the name of the dead man's brother as Dr. H. H. Telle, a dentist of Kansas City.

ECHO ANSWERS QUERY OF WIFE

Husband Explains Presence of Two Women and Divorce Results

The conversation between Mrs. Lois Thornburg and Mrs. Florence Watkins when Mrs. Thornburg found Mrs. Watkins in her home was not particularly sparkling, according to Mrs. Thornburg's testimony in her suit for divorce from E. Frank Thornburg, before Judge Gates yesterday.

"What are you doing here?" Mrs. Thornburg said she demanded.

"What are you doing here?" Mrs. Watkins parried, she said.

This did not seem to be getting anyone anywhere, so Mrs. Thornburg said she next appealed to Thornburg for an explanation. His explanation was not informative either, at first, but he finally admitted that Mrs. Watkins had been staying at the house in Mrs. Thornburg's absence, she said.

Judge Gates granted the wife a decree.

cannot answer those questions?" Durbrow almost roared.

"I mean just what I said, that we have another witness that can answer those things," Wheat calmly replied.

VIEW ATTACKED

Durbrow brought out that under Hill's plan a person standing in the Plaza would see a building forty-two feet high instead of an impressive structure befitting the city, a part of the building being below the level of view. He sought to show also that the Hill plan does not make adequate provision for Pacific Electric Railway service to and from the union station. Hill said the plans could be changed if the provisions were shown to be inadequate.

Hill's plan does not include a railway express building, Durbrow showed, and such real estate values as are in Hill's figures are values of a few years ago and not of today. At one point in the cross-examination, Hill said:

"The physical construction cost today would be less than then."

By then he referred to the time when the figures were prepared for the plan which was submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission some time ago.

RED LINE OBJECTS

Once in course of the hearing when Wheat made a sarcastic remark, Durbrow commented that as he understood the law Wheat was there to see that justice be done equally to the railroads and to the plaintiffs in the case.

Frank Karr, Pacific Electric counsel, cross-examined Hill, attacking the witness's plan as not containing provisions for adequate Pacific Electric connections with the steam lines and as creating impracticable conditions for the Pacific Electric.

Hill contended that the conflict between Pacific Electric plans and his own plan grew out of the Pacific Electric's preparations for serving the present joint Southern Pacific-Union Pacific station without regard for the possibility of a Plaza union station.

ASK DEFINITE PLANS

A. S. Halsted, Union Pacific counsel, attacked some details of Hill's plan as did also H. H. Sanborn, counsel for W. H. Daum, a real estate dealer, who has proposed construction of a station on a site more favorably regarded by himself.

Sanborn questioned the witness as to whether the Plaza site admits of future expansion and Hill said it contained provision for expansion "for a long time to come."

City Attorney Stephens told the commission that Daum's plan is virtually unknown and that the railroads themselves have submitted insufficient evidence to show what they want instead of a Plaza station. He requested that the commission direct Daum and the railroads to provide specific plans as to what they are demanding and the commission so directed.

The commission adjourned the hearing until January 5, 10 a.m.

LAUDS SERVICE OF HUNTINGTON

Dr. Vollbehr, Berlin Savant, Visiting Collector

Says Nation Owes Pasadenan Debt of Gratitude

Declares Library One of World's Greatest

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 1.—The American people and the entire world owe an undying debt of gratitude to Henry E. Huntington, famous capitalist and art collector of San Marino, for the monumental service to the spread of culture which he is effecting by the collection of the Huntington Library, says Dr. Otto H. F. Vollbehr, of Berlin, one of the leading bibliologists, bibliophiles and scholars of the world, who is in this city at the Hotel Vista del Arroyo, visiting and studying at the Huntington Library for the sixth time.

Dr. Vollbehr, who was last here in March, has one of the largest and most celebrated rare-book collections in the world in his own library in Berlin. It is especially famous for its books, manuscripts and folios printed previous to the fifteenth century, and known as incunabula. In addition to his activities as a bibliophile, Dr. Vollbehr is a distinguished orientalist, one of his country's foremost chemical engineers and a doctor of philosophy of the University of Berlin. He also holds degrees from Marburg and Kiel.

CULTURE EVERYTHING

The distinguished visitor, who has been a close friend of Mr. Huntington for many years, spoke in the highest terms of the latter's philanthropic motives in establishing his library collection, which will some day become a public institution. He deprecated financial and capitalistic endeavors and accomplishments, adding, "but the spread of culture is everything."

"What a man does for humanity is never recognized until he is dead. Let us hope that your country's acknowledgment to Mr. Huntington will be long deferred—for twenty years, until he has had time to finish his collection."

Dr. Vollbehr remarked that such a collection as the Huntington Library would be more appreciated in Germany, England or France than in the United States.

According to Dr. Vollbehr, the Huntington collection of 5000 pre-fifteenth century prints is the largest in the world, with the exception of the collection in the old State Library in Munich, which contains 10,000 such prints. Dr. Vollbehr has 4000, some of which he has exchanged with Mr. Huntington, when one collector had two of a type, and the other none.

COLLECTIONS SACRIFICED

Dr. Vollbehr corroborated a previous statement of Mr. Huntington when he asserted that the money situation in Europe during the last ten years had forced many private collections on the market, and enabled more affluent collectors to increase their libraries very rapidly.

He declared that his most treasured book is an old medieval Russian folio, known as a glagolitical print, printed in letters of the Syrillic, a dead language. There are only two books of the kind in the world, the other being in the Vatican library at Rome. Dr. Vollbehr's is in the better state of preservation, he said.

The eminent scholar spoke sadly of Germany's losses in the World War, but declared that the Germans are working harder than the people of any other European nation, and that they will eventually overcome their setbacks. The Dawes reparations plan will not be a success, he declared, stating its provisions impossible to accomplish. He declined to comment on the Locarno conferences.

Dr. Vollbehr will remain in Pasadena until March, he said, as he expressed his fondness for the beauties of Southern California. Mrs. Vollbehr, who is now in Berlin, will join him in January.

WIFE NAMES FOUR IN SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Mary F. H. Hirt, Beverly Hills, Requests Alimony of $1000 a Month

Mary Frances Harbison Hirt of Beverly Hills yesterday filed suit for divorce against her husband, Leon Edwin Hirt. She charges cruelty and accuses him of associating with other women, four of whom are named in the complaint.

The complaint sets forth that Mr. Hirt is the possessor of a fortune estimated at $250,000 and has an income of $2500 a month. Mrs. Hirt asks $1000 a month alimony and a division of community property, among which is listed $40,000 in stock of the National Products Company.

She charges that her husband was often seen in the company of Miss Sterling of Pasadena and that they often embraced and kissed. To her objections, Mrs. Hirt says in the complaint, her husband replied that Miss Sterling was so dear and pure that he didn't want her name mentioned by his wife. She also charges that he took automobile trips with Helen Brown and associated with Mary Harris and Marguerite Harris Smith. They were married in 1911 and separated in March, 1924. The complaint was prepared by Attorney Bradner W. Lee, Jr.

Members of the Co-Operative Club will hold their first monthly "market" tonight at the Victor Hugo Cafe on Grand avenue, continuing the entertainment after dinner with games in the basement of Halbriter's store. Nancy Welford, star of the musical comedy "All for You," will appear in song accompanied at the piano by Arthur Freed, while added entertainment will be provided by Jack Padden, now playing in "Sent For Heaven."

LAUDS SERVICE OF HUNTINGTON

Dr. Vollbehr, Berlin Savant, Visiting Collector

Says Nation Owes Pasadenan Debt of Gratitude

Declares Library One of World's Greatest

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 1.—The American people and the entire world owe an undying debt of gratitude to Henry E. Huntington, famous capitalist and art collector of San Marino, for the monumental service to the spread of culture which he is effecting by the collection of the Huntington Library, says Dr. Otto H. F. Vollbehr of Berlin, one of the leading philologists, bibliophiles and scholars of the world, who is in this city at the Hotel Vista del Arroyo, visiting and studying at the Huntington Library for the sixth time.

Dr. Vollbehr, who was last here in March, has one of the largest and most celebrated rare-book collections in the world in his own library in Berlin. It is especially famous for its books, manuscripts and folios printed previous to the fifteenth century, and known as incunabula. In addition to his activities as a bibliophile, Dr. Vollbehr is a distinguished orientalist, one of his country's foremost mining engineers and a doctor of philosophy of the University of Berlin. He also holds degrees from Marburg and Kiel.

CULTURE EVERYTHING

The distinguished visitor, who has been a close friend of Mr. Huntington for many years, spoke in the highest terms of the latter's philanthropic motives in establishing his library collection, which will some day become a public institution. He deprecated financial and capitalistic endeavors and accomplishments, adding, "but the spread of culture is everything."

"What a man does for humanity is never recognized until he is dead. Let us hope that your country's acknowledgment to Mr. Huntington will be long deferred for twenty years, until he has had time to finish his collection." Dr. Vollbehr remarked that such a collection as the Huntington Library would be more appreciated in Germany, England or France than in the United States.

According to Dr. Vollbehr, the Huntington collection of 5000 pre-fifteenth century prints is the largest in the world, with the exception of the collection in the old State Library in Munich, which contains 10,000 such prints. Dr. Vollbehr has 4000, some of which he has exchanged with Mr. Huntington, when one collector had two of a type, and the other none.

COLLECTIONS SACRIFICED

Dr. Vollbehr corroborated a previous statement of Mr. Huntington when he asserted that the money situation in Europe during the last ten years had forced many private collections on the market, and enabled more affluent collectors to increase their libraries very rapidly.

He declared that his most treasured book is an old medieval Bible folio, known as a glagolitic print, printed in letters of the Gothic, a dead language. There are only two books of the kind in the world, the other being in the Vatican library at Rome. Dr. Vollbehr's is in the better state of preservation, he said.

The eminent scholar spoke sadly of Germany's losses in the World War, but declared that the Germans are working harder than the people of any other European nation, and that they will eventually overcome their setbacks. The Dawes reparations plan will not be a success, he declared, styling its provisions impossible to accomplish. He declined to comment on the Locarno conferences.

Dr. Vollbehr will remain in Pasadena until March, he said, as he has expressed his fondness for the climate of Southern California. Mrs. Vollbehr, who is now in Berlin, will join him in January.

WIFE NAMES FOUR IN SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Mary F. H. Hirt, Beverly Hills, Requests Alimony of $1000 a Month

Mary Frances Harbison Hirt of Beverly Hills yesterday filed suit for divorce against her husband, Louis Edwin Hirt. She charges cruelty and accuses him of association with other women, four of whom are named in the complaint.

The complaint sets forth that Mr. Hirt is the possessor of a fortune estimated at $250,000 and an income of $2500 a month. Mrs. Hirt asks $1000 a month alimony and a division of community property, among which is listed stock in the National Realty Company.

She charges that her husband was often seen in the company of Miss Sterling of Pasadena and that she often embraced and kissed him. To her objections, Mrs. Hirt says in the complaint, her husband replied that Miss Sterling was a dear and pure that he did not want her name mentioned by his wife. She also charges that he took automobile trips with Miss Brown and associated with Mrs. Harris and Marguerite Smith. They were married in 1911 and separated in March, 1924. The complaint was prepared by Attorney Bradner W. Lee, Jr.

TO GRACE CLUB MEET

Members of the Co-Operative Club will hold their first monthly meeting tonight at the Victor Tea Cafe on Grand avenue, continuing the entertainment after dinner with games in the basement of the latter's store. Nancy Welford, star of the musical comedy "Kiss Me, You," will appear in song numbers, accompanied at the piano by Ben Freed, while added entertainment will be provided by Ruth Peddon, now playing in "Just For Heaven."

FEATHERED FINERY FLUTTERS FEMALES

Alice Joyce

LAW WARNS OFF-STYLE IMITATORS

Picture Star Assured of Individuality and Envy of Every Other Woman

Through a combination of wisdom and good luck, aided and abetted by the United States government, Alice Joyce yesterday began making herself unpopular with other feminine stars of the Hollywood film colony—acquiring that desirable unpopularity that accrues joyously to the woman who can be positive she is wearing something no other woman in her "set" can wear.

In the star's case, it is a set of brown crossed-aigrettes, of which there are said to be only half a dozen sets in the country due to a recent Federal ban placed on the beautiful feathers. Miss Joyce did her aigrette shopping early, however, and yesterday the sighs of envy were plentiful when she appeared for a courtroom scene wearing the aigrettes caught at the side of a smart velour hat.

Friends of the actress declare she is the only film luminary who ever set a style which others who might desire could not follow.

REVOLVING FUND POLICY TO BE FIXED

City Council to Act on Six-Cent Appropriation at Next Meeting

A definite policy toward allocation of the special public improvement revolving fund, amounting to 6 cents out of every $1.25 of city taxes, will be formulated at the next meeting of the Council committee of the whole, the Council yesterday adopting a motion to that effect by Councilman Allan.

The motion followed a tremendous storm of disapproval directed at a resolution introduced by Councilman Ash, chairman of the Finance Committee, asking that a second $25,000 be allocated from the 6-cent fund to assist the property owners of the Glassell-avenue district in laying nine inches of concrete paving on that thoroughfare.

Councilman Colden rose and in a heavy manner stated he would vote in favor of the resolution, but:

"In a short time I may ask for money from this fund to assist property owners in constructing boulevards to the harbor district, and I hope the chairman of the Finance Committee will not object."

Councilmen Hall, Sanborn, Criswell, Moore and Shaw in turn voiced their objections. Councilman Ash defended his request, on the ground that the property owners of the assessment district were poor and overburdened by assessments on a sewer and storm drain.

The revolving fund was created to aid in improvement work throughout the city and Mr. Allan's motion to settle the question of its distribution was received as a means toward peace.

ACID VICTIM WANTS WIFE PROSECUTED

Young Bank Teller Avers He Will Appear Against Woman if Found

Elmer Hartz, youthful bank teller whose eyesight was partly destroyed Monday night by carbolic acid said to have been hurled in his face by Mrs. Arline Hartz, told police yesterday that he will prosecute his wife if she is found. The woman is said to have disappeared soon after the acid-throwing episode and has not been seen since at her home in the Commonwealth Hotel.

Detective-Lieutenant Stevens, detailed to the case by Assistant Captain of Detectives Bean, discounted earlier theories that Mrs. Hartz had committeed suicide and intimated that she soon will be found.

Hartz, who lives at 3453 Larissa Drive, told Stevens that he and his wife have been separated for some time but that on numerous occasions she has displayed jealousy.

☆ AMERICANA PRINTS ☆

THE NEW SILKS For the First Time in Los Angeles and Exclusively at Bullock's

A unique departure in printed silks. Six distinguished American artists whose names are known wherever art is talked, have created the designs. They have accomplished a high purpose in producing for the American woman patterns of distinction done by American Artists, not French copies—the adaptations of artisans.

In these silks, the fresh and aesthetic spirit of America has been caught—the slender vigor of the skyscraper, the exotic majesties of the Grand Canyon, the mysteries of the ancient Maya and Inca civilizations.

On exhibition beginning Thursday, in a section devoted entirely to Americana Prints. At Bullock's only in Los Angeles.

Silk Section, Bullock's Second Floor.

To make a new appeal to modern woman who demands individuality in her costume, Americana Prints were developed. How thrillingly different to the woman of fashion is the idea that she may wear a Katherine Sturges, a Neysa McMein or a Ralph Barton at Coronado this winter, or at Carmel next summer.

Delay Hearing on Writ Sought for Referendum

Hearing on a petition for a writ of mandate brought by Clarence W. Horn to compel City Clerk Domingues to accept and check a referendary petition asking that the ordinance providing for increased water rates be submitted to a general vote was continued yesterday by Judge Shaw of Superior Court to the 8th inst. The delay was occasioned by other matters having precedence on the court calendar.

Horn asserted the petition was signed by a sufficient number of voters to require a vote on the ordinance, but that Domingues had declined to accept it on advice of the City Attorney. The City Attorney was said to have counseled against accepting the petition as the ordinance was passed as an emergency measure, and as such was not subject to the referendum. Horn contended no emergency existed at the time the ordinance was passed.

OWENSMOUTH GARAGE MAN SET AT LIBERTY

Lance Conroy, Owensmouth garage owner, who was arrested recently in connection with the theft of automobile accessories in that community, has been released from custody and the charges against him dropped. Detective Lieutenant Neustetter of the Van Nuys division, who arrested Conroy, together with Louis Severe, stated there was nothing on which to hold the garage owner. At the time of his arrest he had been accused of receiving stolen property. No complaint was issued in the case.

Libel Filed on Ship for Damage to Glass Cargo

Libel suit against the steamship Albert Jeffress was filed in United States District Court yesterday by the California Glass Company as the result of damage to 2491 cases of window glass shipped on July 10, 1923 from Norfolk, Va. to Los Angeles Harbor.

Damages of $618.41 are asked by the plaintiff corporation, $559.55 for breakage and $55.75 for survey fee, together with interest on the principal and cost of suit.

The shipment was sent by Libby, Owens Sheet Glass Company, the suit declares, and because of improper storage the greater portion of the cargo was damaged or irretrievably broken.

The boat, its engines, tackles and boiler are made the subject of the civil action.

YOUTH CHARGED WITH BURGLARY AND ATTACK

Asserted to have broken into the home of Mrs. H. P. Howard, 1772-G North Wilcox avenue, and to have threatened Mrs. Howard's daughter with a gun, Patsy Manno, 15 years of age, was charged with burglary and attempted attack in a complaint filed yesterday in Judge Archbald's Juvenile Court. According to juvenile officers, Manno broke into the Howard flat early in the morning of November 30, last, and made his way into the room of Mary Howard. The girl, who was said to have been awakened when Manno was alleged to have prodded her with a pistol, screamed for aid and, according to the officers, Manno was overpowered by Mrs. Howard, another daughter and a neighbor and held until the police arrived.

GIRL'S STORY DENIED

Man Sued for $75,000 Takes Stand In Own Defense

Taking the stand in his own defense, Donald F. Harris yesterday denied in Judge Crail's court the charges made against him by Miss Jessie Gentle in her suit for $75,000 damages.

Miss Gentle, who said she had been a friend of Harris's for some time, declared he lured her into a room in a Fresno house and attacked her. She declared a baby was born later, and she named Harris as the child's father.

Harris denied emphatically that he had ever had any improper relations with Miss Gentle. The case is scheduled to go to the jury today.

Under the will of her millionaire father, the late James B. Duke, Doris Duke, aged 12 years, becomes the richest heiress in the country.

HELD ON CHARGE OF AIDING DELINQUENCY

Ivan Hunsaker and Mrs. Jean Ferlin, wife of George Ferlin, recently convicted of murder and arson, waived preliminary hearing and were held to answer yesterday by Judge Archbald of Juvenile Court on charges of contributing to the delinquency of two minor children of Mrs. Ferlin. While Ferlin was in the County Jail pending appeal from his conviction on the murder and arson charges, Mrs. Ferlin and Hunsaker were charged with having occupied the same apartment in the presence of the children. Judge Archbald fixed the 8th inst., for arraignment of the pair.

A TEN-QUART COUNTRY

Everybody in the United States gets ten quarts of ice cream this year. There are a few girls in this section who had their share before Valentine's Day blew in.

THE TURN-OUT

The industrial reporter says that recently Fords were being turned out at the rate of one every ten seconds. If one were being junked every minute the Ford population would still be gaining.

THE FINANCIAL ZOO

There will always be a wolf in Wall street as long as the crop of spring lambs keeps coming in. With the bulls and bears, the wolves and lambs, the goats and an occasional tiger the street seems like a meal of animal crackers.

THE LADY BANDITS

Two women held up and robbed a South Dakota bank the other day. Here is another case in which the women are taking away a man's job. Some of our best burglars are worrying about the future—and not without cause. The competition is something fierce.

THEATER BUILDING

A big corporation is said to have a program which calls for the building of 1000 or more new theaters in this country. This is very ambitious, but the average citizen never fancied that there was a famine in playhouses. There are plenty of places to go after the whistle blows.

THE LOST LOCKS

Now a barber is being sued for damages because he cut the long locks of a maiden without the father's consent. The girl is only 16 and had a wonderful mop of hair. Being a minor, it is the contention of the father that the barber had no right to enter into a contract to dock her dome without parental consent. If our barbers wish to be on the safe side they will hereafter ask the flappers to bring their fathers with them when they have their beans trimmed.

NO SPECIAL RIGHTS

The Illinois law which was passed at the behest of the labor unions with intent to permit "peaceful picketing" has been declared unconstitutional by the Illinois Supreme Court. There is no such thing as a peaceful picket. The intent of picketing is to injure the business or property of some one and this may not be made lawful under the Constitution. Members of the labor unions have their natural right as individuals to leave their jobs, but they may not use threats or violence against those who prefer to work. The union can give them no right or privilege which does not belong to the independent worker.

UNDERSEA WARFARE

If these big submarines Uncle Sam has been building for his fleet are costing $5,000,000 apiece the government is getting the worst of it. They are not worth the money. The submarine is of no value whatever except as an instrument of war and we can have no construction program that could possibly give us enough of them to protect our watery frontiers. We assure the world that our only desire and passion is for enduring peace, but it chills the faith of others in our motives when we create these vipers of the deep. They are terrifying to their own crews and are often peacetime coffins for their own creators.

THE WOMAN OF IT

Governess Miriam Ferguson of Texas, whose administration of the Lone Star State is just now under heavy fire, is apparently trying to create a diversion through her sensational proclamation offering rewards of $500 for the conviction of liquor offenders who have incomes of more than $5000 a year. If would seem that if the rewards are paid they would have to come from the Ferguson pocket. The State cannot pay a bounty for the punishment of a certain class. It may be all right to proceed against rich families who have liquor in their homes, but assuredly no masculine Governor in his right mind would seek to pledge State funds for the especial prosecution of one division of society.

THE WRONG QUEEN

A man who went to meet the sweetheart he had found through a matrimonial advertisement looked all through the station for the Queen of Rumania. The woman with whom he had been corresponding had sent a photograph of Marie in lieu of her own. Her Majesty is considered the most beautiful example of living royalty and this swain certainly considered himself in luck when her picture was presented him as a candidate for his hand. He was disillusioned when a pudgy female of ancient visage came coyly up and assured him that she was the person for whom he searched. She said that she had forwarded the Queen's photo merely to hold him until she herself came on the scene. The lover would not linger, however. He took the next train back to the home town and will henceforth do his courting along lines of direct action.

"THE PEOPLE" IN POLITICS

"Why cannot the people conduct their own business instead of paying a big profit to private interests to conduct it for them?". This question is always arrogantly posed by the propagandists of public ownership and control of business enterprises. They consider it a challenge to democracy and charge everyone who does not promptly and unreservedly answer "They can" with being subsidized by private interests making millions at the public expense.

But to one who possesses the faculty of clear thinking the answer is simple, because no plan has ever yet been devised by which the people as a whole can conduct any business. The municipal ownership advocates purpose to create a municipal department and label it "the people." But it isn't the people; it is a political bureau, created under the political code; and in California at least it is freer from public regulation than the public utility companies, which are under the immediate supervision of the State Railroad Commission.

These municipal bureaus are conducted by politicians and become a part of the so-called political spoils of successful political groups. The question reduces itself to this: "Can politicians conduct business better than business men?" Secretary Hoover answered this question in the negative in an address over the radio last year. Referring to the whirlwind of politics in which these political bureaus are almost invariably carried away, he added:

> No commission or any body of administration can carry on these vast operations efficiently in this political maelstrom. We shall loose most of our democracy in the storm.

"Business," said the President recently, "is the work of the world." And when business becomes enmeshed in politics business is bad, politics is worse and the public interest suffers most of all. This is not merely a theoretical conclusion; it is an economic fact established during the last ten years, not only by the experience of the Federal government in trying to operate the railroads, but by that of fifty communities in this country that have taken fliers in municipal ownership and operations of electric light and power plants.

During the last few months twenty-four communities in four Middle West States alone have abandoned their municipally owned and operated plants to return to the service supplied by public utility companies. The States referred to formed the kernel of the former Progressive group. They are Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa and Oklahoma.

And the experience of these States is not exceptional. In the Industry and Development section of The Times on Sunday was published a list of forty-one communities that have abandoned their publicly politically operated light and power plants to return to private ownership, and for almost identical reasons. The communities voted to embark on public-ownership enterprises on the representations of the municipal ownership propagandists that the service would be more efficient and less expensive. But actual experience proved it was just the other way 'round; the service was more expensive and less efficient, and these political bureaus exercised a demoralizing effect on the government of the communities.

Many other communities throughout the country that made similar experiments would like to abandon them; but the political bureaus are so powerfully intrenched, through laws that the electorate ratified while under the spell of the municipal ownership propaganda, that the people cannot get rid of them.

Some experts who have observed the trend of municipal ownership in this country during the last decade have arrived at the conclusion that the greatest corrupting and demoralizing influence in modern municipal government is that of the political bureaus that conduct businesses which have nothing to do with government. The demoralizing influence which the once-notorious forty fat commissions exercised on State politics and which the Los Angeles Light and Power Bureau exercises on our municipal government is not exceptional. It is the experience of at least fifty American communities that have tried similar experiments.

Some doubting Thomases will ask why business men are not kept in charge of these political bureaus. That was tried in almost every instance; but experience irrefutably proved that business and politics, like oil and water, will not mix. The lust for the spoils of office forces those in charge to replace business methods by political methods or to retire. Successful executives in industry know the taint of politics and they are no longer to be lured from private enterprise where merit alone wins success.

There are men patriotic enough to sacrifice their personal interests to perform government functions that are necessary and indispensable, but not to perform service that is not an essential function of government and that should be dispensed with.

FOR PACIFIC COAST UNITY

Unified and harmonious action designed to benefit the whole Pacific Coast by stimulating interest in it as a distinctive and progressive section of the United States has been planned by the development associations of Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle, and other Coast cities will be invited to join the movement. At a meeting to be held in Seattle on December 8 representatives of California, Oregon and Washington organizations will make definite plans to pool their developmental interests and get busy telling the world what a delectable country the Sunset Land is and why it is deserving of their attention as a place of pilgrimage, residence and investment.

Some such action as this should have been taken long ago. It should have been manifest all along that nothing was to be gained by jealousies and rivalries which pulled this way and that and caused outsiders to smile at our provincialism and the strenuous efforts of each region to establish its own primacy.

Southern California will join the movement in a whole-hearted way, for the spirit of liberalism has been striving here for years and would have dominated the situation but for the blind insularity of those who could see nothing valid in the claims made by people of other sections of the Coast as to the scenic, climatic and other attractions of their localities. All broad-minded Southlanders who have traveled up and down the Coast are willing to admit that this particular part of the country has no monopoly of beautiful scenery—that the Yosemite, the Shasta region, the Dalles of the Columbia and the wonderful forests and mountains about Puget Sound have great beauty and that each has a charm that is all its own. And as for fertility, while Southern California is rich in soil and of amazing productivity, the great San Joaquin, Sacramento and Santa Clara valleys, the abundantly yielding Hood River, Columbia and Wenatchee regions, each in its own way and for its own products, is distinctive and in some respects incomparable. Many of these sections also afford fine fields for business and industrial activity.

The smooth highways of the Pacific northwest, extending from the California line to Vancouver, already attract many touring motorists and in time may prove almost as great a lure during the summer months as those farther south.

United action in setting forth the advantages of all these places and in interesting new people and new capital in them will produce splendid results, and the more that each of these regions is benefited the more good all the others will derive. Southern California has nothing to fear from the plan of uniting with the other sections of the Coast. It has nothing to lose thereby and all to gain.

This is a day of organization and of united effort. That "spirit of amity and sympathetic understanding" for which President Coolidge so earnestly pleads can and should be given full illustration out here on these western shores. For more can be accomplished for the whole Coast under the dominance of this harmonious spirit than by divided effort of the most strenuous nature.

BACKWARD BERMUDA

"Bermuda Moves to Raise the Ban on Electric Roads" is the caption over a news cable from the island resort in the middle of the Atlantic.

Bermuda has no railways nor automobiles now. She has prided herself in the past on the absence of the modern. But evidently tourists like to travel faster and so an electric line has been sanctioned from one end of the island to the other.

It is found they cannot run the institution on Bermuda grass and onions. Their onions are great producers of large lacrymal emotions in the movies; but they lack magnetism.

And most folks all over the world wish Bermuda would keep her grass at home. The grass is found to be the prolific father of profanity.

Riding five miles an hour in an old cart hub-deep in dust or mud does not tend to invite pleasure-seekers. They get too little scenery and too much pulverized real estate.

The world wants thrills and wants them quick. Electric railways and autos give swift samples of scenery. The world has run past the point when it will stand speeches or scenery too long-drawn-out.

Five miles an hour is highly commended at an intersection; but for interviewing scenery in general it gives too long an exposure at any one spot.

Just now Florida seems to think that success consists in conducting a New Year's football classic and is trying to start one. But roads and cars have a vast deal more to do with the development of any country.

Highways are an index of progress. Countries far advanced in civilization always have good roads. Free intercourse induces commerce of ideas as well as products.

Conservatism is highly venerated in a mule—especially at the west end. But in an island it can be carried too far. Folks want some kick in their pleasures.

WOULD-BE DICTATORS

Noted for unreasonable demands and autocratic assumption of dictatorial attitudes, the American Federation of Labor has reached the zenith of audacity in its pronouncement that the unions alone shall profit by the rapid development of water-power and labor-saving machinery. The demand of the federation, as voiced by President Green, is that wages shall be increased and working hours shortened to meet the corresponding decreased demand for man power by reason of the improved methods of production. He would take from the consuming public all right to share in cheaper production, from the inventor all incentive to evolve improvements and from capital all benefits arising from enterprising installation of modern equipment. The suggestion is that by increasing wages and "reduction in the number of hours making up the working day" the cost of production is to be kept at the same level as when hand work and horse power were in flower—all the advantage of modern methods to go to self-seeking union labor and none to reduction in price to the consumer or to requite the efforts of the progressive manufacturer. The modern leaders of union labor, lacking the astuteness of some of their forerunners, seem bent upon cutting their own throats. An attitude of half-way generosity toward those who furnish the demand for wage-earners might win for them some sympathy, even among the 90 per cent of free American laborers who refuse to become serfs of the union dictators.

SUGAR AND CREAM

By James J. Montague

As a child we were eager for many things—
Horses and ships and the thrones of kings;
Indians to kill on the western plains,
And little steam engines with long, long trains.
Of these we often would sit and dream—
But our thoughts were mostly of sugar and cream.

Sugar and cream on a slab of bread,
What cared we if they lay like lead
On our small insides through the restless night
And we tossed and moaned till the morning light?
The very next day our face would beam
With joy as we thought about sugar and cream.

There are many things that we need today
As forward we journey our toilsome way,
Self-control and the discipline
That teaches us surely to fight and win,
But always we flee from the heat of strife
And seek for the sugar and cream of life.

For sugar and cream we forget the game,
We forget the hope of abiding fame,
We forget the work that we ought to do
And perhaps our chances of heaven, too;
While we sit, with our hungering eyes agleam
As our thoughts dwell fondly on sugar and cream!

NO VERDICT BEST

For a criminal trial to end in a disagreement of the jury usually is a cause for dissatisfaction. There will be little or no discontent anywhere, however, with the fact that the Blazer case out in Colorado so has terminated. The discontent would have arisen if the old doctor had either been convicted of murder or had been pronounced innocent.—[New York Times.

INFERIORITIES

BY AURELIUS

Now comes one of the younger and lesser Vanderbilts with the complaint that the space on the front pages of the New York newspapers once devoted to the activities—and the inactivities—of the 400 is occupied by the movie stars. Screen favorites from Hollywood attract more attention in Gotham than the "legitimate" society folk, a certain indication of the degeneracy of the times.

It was his grandfather, or perhaps his grand uncle, who was quoted as saying "The people be damned." And, lo, the third generation of this people is backing the Vanderbilts off the first page.

The doings of the 400 seldom attract interest, because they seldom do anything worth while. The 400 once sought isolation from the masses. Now some of them are getting peevish because isolation has been thrust upon them.

The present generation does not ask who one is, but what one is. They are infinitely less interested about what one has than what one does. The attempt in the closing years of the last century to create a moneyed aristocracy in this country failed miserably.

"Red" Grange driving an ice wagon commanded vastly more respect than a member of the 400 riding in a limousine. As for the descendants of the 400 of the end-of-the-century; who thinks about them or cares about them now?

There has never been a place in Southern California for a moneyed aristocracy. The only distinctions here are distinctions of ability, the only aristocracy that of the intellect. The hoboes in velvet are not popular. The blue book of the end-of-the-century would now be regarded as a blacklist.

There is a legitimate reason for the growing popularity of Hollywood, Los Angeles and the waning popularity of Fifth avenue, New York. Hollywood is a hive teeming with industry; Fifth avenue is a show place for the drones. Hollywood earns what it spends; Fifth avenue is supported largely by inherited incomes. A movie star of Hollywood earns $1000 a week; a member of the feminine 400 of New York spends $1000 a week that some one else earns.

Fifth avenue is jealous of Hollywood; and jealousy is a confession of inferiority. But it is not of record that these talented, charming, industrious, financially independent girls of Hollywood are jealous of Fifth avenue.

THE IRISH PIG

The condition of the Irish pig trade is described as the worst for thirty years. The Irish pig is being driven from the British markets, mainly owing to the competition of the Danes. Before the World War Ireland had 976,000 pigs, while Denmark had 600,000. Now Mr. MacKenna, a member of the Dail, estimates Denmark has 1,800,000 pigs and the Irish figures have declined. He also attributes the Irish decline to the high cost of feeding stuffs, to the part failure of last year's potato crop and to a more or less widespread disinclination to breed pigs.—[Indianapolis News.

LETTERS TO The Times

Civic Center

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It has been my privilege and pleasure during the current week to have had access to and to minutely examine plans for the proposed civic center as projected by the Allied Architects' Association of Los Angeles and those prepared by Messrs. Cook and Hall.

Well known is it that comparisons are odious, so it shall not be my province here to make any such, but will say here, "without fear or favor," if the plans as drawn by the A.A.A. of Los Angeles are not accepted, then the city of Los Angeles will miss the opportunity of making this wonder city of the world the most beautiful city of the world.

Never yet have I seen such natural advantages as has the city of Los Angeles for the making of a civic center which will be a delight to and the talk of the world at large if only the most admirable scheme as propounded by the exercise of brain and knowledge of some seventy of the finest and most noted architects and civil engineers of the United States is accepted, and by all interested parties mutually agreed upon.

If the city fathers turn down the projected plans as proposed by the Allied Architects' Association of Los Angeles they will rob this yet-to-be-made beautiful city of the greatest natural asset ever designed by the Great Architect of the universe. Such is the opinion of a Britisher who hopes in the very near future to be proud to swear allegiance to Old Glory and to be as true an American patriot as he has been to the Union Jack, under whose crosses he has served three sovereigns.

San Quentin Prison

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Nov. 25.—[To the Editor of The Times:] There are sixty-four women in the women's department here, with accommodations for but twenty. Beds line the corridors, sewing and living rooms. As State, county and city institutions are immune from health laws (although hogs are not) their violation of sanitary and air-space conditions it is useless to discuss. The officials of this department tell me that Los Angeles sends the largest quota of sentenced women; another feather in our cap! If it is possible to make some other provision for convicted women, in justice to society, will not our judges not stain their souls by sending women to such a crowed place. As a number of these women have served half their sentence, I have urged upon two of the Prison Board (for whom I have the highest regard as men of unblemished character and disinterested service) to grant such paroles as they deem wise at their meeting November 27-28. I shall be at San Quentin on that date to further urge that some relief be found to obviate this cruel overcrowding. No complaint was made to me by any inmate (and I personally conversed with many.) All declared that the treatment received was just and considerate. They further said that Warden Smith took personal interest and never ignored requests.

BACK TO THE BEARD!

[Prof. Charles G. Shaw of New York University remarked recently that when man shaved off his beard he gave away his birthright.]

Back to the beard! Back to the honest days in Which sex meant sex, ere by false fire dismayed,
Man sank his proud crest in a barber's basin
And beat his sword into a safety blade.
Chanticleer shorn of spur and long tail feathers
Does meek obeisance to the clucking hen;
A skipping ewe leads flocks of unbelled wethers,
And maneless lions whimper in their den.

Back to the stock that scorned a sphere so narrow,
Scorned to be barbered to a woman's whim—
The stock of Cyrus, Cortes and Pizarro, Raleigh and Drake, Saint Paul and Abd-el-Krim.
Back to the blend of Teutonized
Celt-Saxon,
Our own Columbia at the apex
reared—
Sheridan, Grant, Lee, Sherman,
Stonewall Jackson,
The last to bear the banner of the beard!
Felled are the forest trees. Now saplings limber
Straddle the soil where roots of empire sunk;
Cut-over lands—all brush—no topmast timber—
Millions of twigs, but not one solid trunk.
Where are the faces that Jehovah gave us,
When the earth shook and Sinai's rock was seared?
Down with the bunk and blather that enslave us!
Up with the chin! Back to the man-sized beard!

Not the Victorian pattern, pruned and peaky,
Not the wet "walrus" droopingly
forlorn;
Not the loose whisker (misnamed Bolshevik!)
Badge of the helpless by Slav peasants worn;
Not the trimmed "toothbrush" on the lip of folly
(The mus ridiculous C. Chaplin reared)—
But besom-bristled, crisp as frosted holly,
Back to the furious, full-blown fighting beard!

Stars of KHJ Children's Hour Head Campaign

Reforestation Plan Gets Association Backing

Honor Paid Roosevelt in Broadcast Speeches

BY PAUL SHEEDY

Five thousand children from Los Angeles and vincinity, headed by the youthful stars of KHJ's children's hours, will take the lead in the campaign of tree planting being fostered by the American Reforestation Association over the air from the tower studio of The Times through the courtesy of the Frank Meline Company. This sponsor last evening gave its second of the series of splendid concerts on "Trees," preparing for the big planting which will be conducted in January and February at Benmar Hills.

Particular honor was paid Theodore Roosevelt as a great conservationist when Florence Collins Porter, widely known civic worker and president emeritus of the Republican Women's Federation, and Mable Louise Mills, secretary of the American Reforestation Association spoke before the microphone later in the evening telling how the present deplorable conditions and devastation in our timber lands had been heedlessly caused by in recent years.

ESSAY CONTEST UNDER WAY

As a further means of interesting children in the planting and care of trees, the forestry organization is launching an essay contest for all school children, giving a prize of $500 as a means of teaching the rising generations the urgent need of co-operative work throughout the country to increase the forests and conserve the present timber.

The Meline concert from 8 until 10 o'clock was made up of excellent instrumental and vocal music in addition to the interesting talks, with the Music Box Trio, composed of Carolyn La-Verre, violinist, Bernice Neil, cellist, and Mona Content, concert pianist, giving selections in ensemble as well as the individual artists appearing in solos. David Albert, youthful accordion player, also made a hit with his renditions.

But few voices have met with the warm response over the air that has greeted Elsie Lee Wilson, 14-year-old soprano, who sang again last evening, and again

Studio Favorites Will Give Program Tonight

Piggly Wiggly Hawaiian Trio

Dave Albert, piano accordion

Edward Novis, baritone

Vivian Marple, "Blue Bell of KHJ" demonstrated the delightful qualities of her singing, ranking her with others of more mature years.

ORHEUS FOUR SINGS

The Orpheus Four male quartet was also in the studio. These four singers have firmly established themselves in the affections of radio patrons, always pleasing when they sing at KHJ.

A fantastic touch was given to the program when Queen Titania and her Sandman appeared in the studio during the concert to broadcast a delightful imaginary fantasy on "Trees," prepared especially in honor of the Meline Company's efforts to increase interest in reforestation.

Earlier in the evening, the tiny monarch of the radio fairies made her weekly visit to the studio for the children's hour when her court musician, Louis F. Klein, and little Charles Leslie Hill, known as Uncle John's "Honey Boy," appeared to entertain the lads and lassies of radioland.

Through moonlit skies of Fairy Fancy, Queen Titania and her Sandman took Uncle John and Radioland on a visit to the Palace of the Birthstones. The December doorway opened to the Golden Key of Love and as they passed into December Land, they saw a crystal castle nestled high up on the mountains in the distance.

DRAGON FLY AIRPLANE

A dragon fly, airplane of Fairyland, carried them swiftly to this shimmering castle and they entered. After passing through many rooms, each of a different shade of blue, they came to the central room of the castle, where they found a great mass of crystal rock, imbedded in which were great masses of blue material. Queen Titania explained that these rich blue parts of the rock were turquoise, birthstone of December.

Giving Uncle John a tiny hammer and chisel of purest gold, the Fairy Queen instructed him to chip off a bit of this blue rock, which he did. This was then taken by the Sandman and polished into a perfect gem, which Queen Titania presented to Uncle John as a memento of his trip. Following this, heavy mists filled the room and when these had cleared away, the three friends found themselves back at KHJ once more.

Lenore Killian, favorite contralto singer of the station, was also present for the children's hour. Her voice has become identified with these Tuesday twilight broadcasts, with the youngsters out in Radioland always waiting for her lullabies.

MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST

Thousands of children are preparing for the annual music memory contest to be held the 16th inst., in the Philharmonic Auditorium, with the selected compositions broadcast every evening from 5:30 until 6 o'clock from KHJ by Edward Novis, baritone soloist, using the Knabe Ampico through the courtesy of the Fitzgerald Music Company.

Yesterday's matinee concert of the Pacific States Electric Company presented Dot Street, favorite with radio enthusiasts all over the Southwest; Grace Currey, harpist, who has long played at KHJ, and the Harmony Trio, the youthful instrumentalists from the Community Playhouse at Pasadena, who have been praised repeatedly for their playing on major evening concerts.

This musical broadcast was followed immediately by the weekly game in the series of auction bridge being given over the country through the sponsorship of Station WSAI at Cincinnati. Mrs. Catherine A. Streeter of Los Angeles was one of the players designated from the recognized experts of the country and she came to the studio to participate.

The noon concert of dance music was given by Jack Smith and his orchestra, making a big hit with their Charleston numbers.

The extension of the Los Angeles Railway bus service on Melrose avenue from Fairfax avenue to Orlando street was approved yesterday by the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation, which at the same time received the appeal of Wilmington residents for an extension of Pacific Electric bus service in the harbor area.

The new Melrose line will charge a 5-cent fare with no transfers, and will operate from 6 a.m. until midnight.

The board granted permission to the City Transfer and Storage Company of Oceanside to carry freight from Oceanside to the Wholesale Terminal Market of Los Angeles.

A franchise to lay a pipe line through parts of Los Angeles lying between the harbor and El Segundo was granted the Murphy Dillon Company by the board.

Fund Voted to Aid Valley Area Transportation

Improvements in transportation problems for the Glendale-San Fernando Valley section were adopted yesterday by the City Council.

The Council directed the appropriation of $3200 to aid in the construction of a by-pass across the Los Angeles River at Glendale Boulevard to aid in relieving congestion across the bridge, which, in the last few months, has grown to tremendous proportions. The county, it was stated, had already apportioned $3200 for the work.

A report of the Bridges and Viaducts Committee was adopted which called for a separation of grade at Riverside Drive and Glendale Boulevard crossing. The report contemplates that the money for the improvement will come from county funds and the Major Traffic Plan bond funds.

PATRONAGE URGED FOR HOME TRADE

Advertising Club Speaker Sees Need of Industrial Development Here

W. L. Brent in an address to the Los Angeles Advertising Club at the Biltmore yesterday said greater industrial development is one of the chief needs of Los Angeles. He pleaded for patronage of home industries and suggested that local business men form an industrial committee to inform the public of the high quality and low prices of Southland products.

Mr. Brent contrasted the present status of Los Angeles with the state of development here twenty years ago and said with the natural and recently-created advantages of this city, including the harbor, transportation facilities, cheap water and power, splendid school system and the open-shop principle in industrial fields, there should be practically no limit to the growth of Los Angeles within the next twenty years.

"And we have 10,000,000 people in the Pacific area as customers for our products," said the speaker.

The meeting was presided over by Herman Nater, with Bob Mason as chairman. A musical program was presented by artists from Loew's State Theater.

Don Thomas, secretary of the club, announced that the speaker next Tuesday will be Harry T. Watson and his subject will be "Pictures Tell and Colors Sell."

Mandate Bars Extra Work of City Employees

So much overtime work by municipal employees must cease, according to the mandate yesterday of the Council Finance Committee. The committee had before it a report by Efficiency Director Knox, which indicated that many city employees worked overtime, for which they receive extra pay, and that their efficiency consequently was cut down.

"If the departments are overworked and have too small a number of men then we will increase the number of employees," said President Workman.

The report showed that the city annually pays $150,000 in overtime.

Kuhrts-Smith

The marriage of Miss Hazel Lorrine Smith to Jack Gordon Kuhrts was one of the prettily appointed events of November 15, taking place in the Church of the Messiah, West Washington Boulevard. The bride wore an attractive gown of pale green velvet and cloth of silver, while her maid of honor, Miss Peggy O'Neill, was becomingly frocked in a gold-colored gown. The bridal bouquet was of orchids and lillies of the valley. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Kuhrts left in their machine for an automobile honeymoon through the State, and after their return will make their home here.

NEMESIS OF AUTO DRIVER CATCHES UP

Collector Finally Jailed as Result of Asserted Traffic Escapades

Several escapades in the past few months came to something of a climax yesterday when William Frye Tebbetts of 603 South Westmoreland avenue, said to be connected prominently with the stock sales campaign of a local hospital, was lodged in the City Jail on charges of driving while intoxicated and of failing to stop and give aid after an accident. Tebbetts, who is 42 years of age, formerly was Collector of Internal Revenue at Mobile, Ala., according to statement, is said to have abandoned his car and started to run away. A police officer near the spot arrested him on an intoxication charge, it was said, and it was not discovered until after he had given $20 bail at the police station and gone away that he was driver of the car responsible for the accident.

On September 27, last, according to police records, a car driven by Tebbetts struck another car at Sixth street and Commonwealth avenue and was abandoned by the driver, who later was arrested at the Ambassador Hotel. Because of lack of witnesses, according to Capt. Kallmeyer, this charge was dropped. A woman and a boy were injured in this accident. On November 24, last, the police records also show, Tebbetts was arrested on a charge of possessing two bottles of liquor in violation of the Wright Act. He pleaded not guilty and the case is still pending.

NEW TRAINS ON GLENDALE RUNS TODAY

Heavier Travel by Shorter Subway Route Reason for Added Service

The scheduling of two additional trains on the Glendale line of the Pacific Electric due to heavier travel by reason of the new tunnel was announced yesterday by D. W. Pontius, vice-president and general manager.

Another morning train henceforth will leave North Glendale at 7 a.m. and an afternoon train will be added for Glendale during the peak hour of afternoon travel, its definite leaving time not yet having been determined.

Mr. Pontius said travel will be watched closely on the Glendale-Burbank line and that just as quickly as the necessity of additional trains and readjustment of time tables can be determined the service will be improved. Travel yesterday was heavier than anticipated, but it was said a few days will be required to determine definitely the number of new commuters attracted by the saving of travel time now effective.

Many four-car trains are now being operated to and from Glendale in place of three-car trains heretofore used. Work will be started within the next few days on extending passenger landings in Glendale and Burbank to accommodate trains of four cars.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

VACCINATION FOR DOGS

Mrs. W.—You ask why we cannot get rid of rabies, that terrible disease of "mad" dogs, which is such a menace to children.

I have read that Australia has never had a case of rabies. The reason? Very strict quarantine regulations. No dog is allowed to get into Australia that is not quarantined until the authorities are sure it is free from disease. England was entirely free from rabies for many years, but during the World War some infected dogs gained access by airplane.

Dogs can be immunized against rabies, by vaccination. Any veterinarian can do this. In some communities antirabies dog vaccination is compulsory.

Dogs suffering from rabies not only bite each other, but they bite human beings and other animals. The disease is one of the most awful of all diseases, both in dogs and man. All dogs that are worth keeping should be protected against it, not only for themselves, but for the protection of humans.

INJURIES TO THE BREAST

Miss P.—It is quite normal for one breast to be slightly larger than the other. Unless there is a lump formed from the injury you received in your girlhood, I would stop worrying about it entirely.

Miss A.—I cannot give you the names of individual surgeons and doctors. If you are not acquainted with those in your city, please ring up your County Medical Society and they will give you a list of those specializing in your trouble.

VARICOSE VEINS

Miss H.—Varicose veins may be worse during pregnancy, but I don't believe that at 28 years of age you can have them to the extent that it would be dangerous for you to marry and bear children. (We have an article on Varicose Veins which you may have by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.)

I cannot believe that any of your troubles are sufficient to keep you from the happiness of marriage and children. Before having children, however, you should have your pelvis examined to be sure that it is of sufficient size and the deformity you mention is not of such a nature to debar you from normal childbirth.

TUBERCULOSIS

Mrs. J.—We have an article on Tuberculosis, which contains a list of books on the subject, written for the layman. The article may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to me in care of this paper.

"STANDARD" MEASURING CUPS

When I read in an article recently that some of the so-called "standard" measuring cups had twice the volume that they should have, I wondered if some of our reducing followers who have failed to reduce on what they consider a very low calorie diet, had been measuring their food with one of these overgrown cups.

The United States Bureau of Standards recently tested some so-called standard measuring cups and found that many were not correctly divided into quarters, thirds, halves, etc., and one cup was found to be twice as large as another!

You can test your measuring cup by seeing if it holds sixteen tablespoonfuls of water. The best tablespoon to measure with is the one which you buy in the bunch of measuring spoons. Failing this, use a regulation tablespoon, not a dessert spoon.

G.—Send for the article on care of the scalp. It covers baldness and gray hair. See answer to Mrs. J. for directions.

Tomorrow: A Simple Meal Will Help.

My Dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must inclose 10 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your names as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the columns as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

NEWS OF THE CAFES

The Montmartre Cafe in Hollywood will celebrate "Ancient Highway" night tonight in honor of the film of the same name now being shown at the Metropolitan Theater. Billie Dove, feminine star of the production, and Irving Willat, director, will be guests of honor and award the prizes for the dancing contest.

Through special arrangements with Frank L. Newman, managing director of the Paramount theaters, several vaudeville numbers from the prologue being presented in conjunction with the showing of the picture will be given, in addition to the impromptu vaudeville program arranged by Prof. Moore, leader of the Montmartre orchestra, who also will act as master of ceremonies.

Betty Boyd, film actress and Charleston dancer, will execute an intricate Charleston dance solo. Many of the film luminaries have made reservations for the affair, according to Brandstatter.

The Greenwich Village Cafe in the Christie Hotel, Hollywood, will have as its guest of honor tonight Miss Natalie Kingston, film player, who will judge the usual Wednesday evening dancing contest and award all prizes.

There will be first, second and third prizes, given through the courtesy of Dr. Maier, of Maier's Scientific Laboratory, each consisting of a box of De-Hy-Dro beauty cosmetics.

Manager Anteo Agreci is expecting an unusually large crowd, because of the popularity of Miss Kingston.

What Women are Doing

BY MYRA NYE, C.F.W.C.

"The women of California are turning toward the intimate problems of their own homes, and especially toward the wise rearing of their children. The clubs are being used for discussion of these issues, and everywhere meetings are being devoted to the subject of child welfare to the exclusion of other more general subjects," said Dr. Mariana Bertola, president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, yesterday after her return to San Francisco, after nearly a month spent in visiting clubs in the Los Angeles and southern districts. "The spirit of the federation is being eagerly received wherever it is presented. There is only where the value of federating has not been shown that there is any hesitation. The Federation News has done much to interest the club women of the state into a co-ordinated organization."

Dr. Bertola came north directly following the State board meeting, which took place at Fullerton Saturday, at which she presided.

During her trip Dr. Bertola visited all the important points in San Joaquin district. "It takes more than ability to preside at a meeting to be a district president," commented Dr. Bertola. "On one occasion Mrs. W. S. Cairns of San Joaquin drove me through a rainstorm in the dark so that we could reach a meeting on schedule time."

The carrying on of the safety campaign, in which the California Federation of Women's Clubs has been co-operating with other agencies, will not cease the 15th inst., the date specified in the original plan, but will be kept up by the federation until satisfactory results have been obtained, it was decided at the State board meeting of the federation at Fullerton, November 21 last.

At the suggestion of Mrs. Henry Nye, State chairman of the water and waterways committee of the federation, a letter was sent to Senators Johnson and Shortridge urging the support of legislation looking to the conserving of watersheds through fire protection in the forests.

On motion by Mrs. W. H. Fisher of Los Angeles, State chairman of community service, it was decided to pass a resolution deprecating the sale and display of goods pertaining to the liquor trade as suitable Christmas gifts as being in a spirit contradictory to the Eighteenth Amendment.

The appointment of Mrs. Ida Mothers as Central California press chairman was ratified.

The next meeting of the board will be at San Francisco, the 19th inst., at the Whitcomb Hotel, with Dr. Mariana Bertola in the chair.

Health and Welfare

Dr. Bessica R. Raiche of Anaheim, public-welfare chairman of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, averages ten health and welfare talks a month, covering much territory as is reasonable in contacting federated, P.-T.A., business clubs, health organizations and farm bureaus.

Under the department of public welfare, the federated clubs of Orange county are launching an intensive drive for a Red Seal title to further extend their preventoriums work and enlarge their fresh-air camp.

Los Angeles Opera Reading

In selecting "Lohengrin" for production at its next regular meeting Friday evening at the Gamut Club auditorium, the Los Angeles Opera Reading Society has picked what has come to be recognized as marking the career of the wagner the greatest achievement in operatic production up to the time of its composition. Students of operatic history find in "Lohengrin" the finishing movement of the most remarkable stride toward the perfect adaptation of music to the drama, in this case both the product of one mind. It is conceded by most authorities that this opera Wagner came nearer than any of his predecessors or contemporaries to merging the word or phrase and its meaning in the appropriate interpretive music sound.

"Lohengrin" ranks in musical history as probably the first successful step toward the demolition of that form of musical production which theretofore had been classed as opera for want of a more definitive term. These former productions as a rule, were either couple plays linked together with music, or strings of ballads connected by dialogue. But in "Lohengrin" the world found the first drama in which the libretto and the dramatist was illuminated in its value enhanced to a superlative degree by a musical setting of the same writer.

It is the enlightenment of lovers of the opera, both men and women, that is the chief aim of the Los Angeles Opera Reading Society, which gives its readings at 8 o'clock the first Friday evening of each month to afford the same opportunity to men as that hitherto extended to women and the few men who might be able to tear themselves away from their business cares in the daytime. It is understood to be the only organization of the kind in America in which membership is open to both sexes.

Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith will make her debut as opera reader in "Lohengrin," and her essay into new field will be watched with interest by those familiar with her achievements in other forms of oratory. Maestro William Tyroler, for five years the trainer of the Metropolitan Opera choruses in New York, will direct the musical production. The cast will include Mrs. Myers Engel as Elsa, Dan Friday as Lohengrin, Elsa Van Gorman as Ortrud and Percy Maier, baritone, as Count of Brabant.

Los Angeles Opera Reading

In selecting "Lohengrin" for production at its next regular meeting Friday evening at the Ebell Club auditorium, the Los Angeles Opera Reading Society has followed what has come to be recognized as marking in the career of Wagner the greatest achievement in dramatic production up to the time of his composition. Students of operatic history find in "Lohengrin" the finishing movement of the most remarkable stride toward the perfect adaptation of music to the drama, in this case both the product of one mind. Big Sister League

Each year the Big Sister League gathers the friends of their organization together for a family party at the training home, 2118 Hope street. It is the occasion for the annual bazaar and display of work done by the inmates of the home.

This year, as it does, the first week in December, it gives an unusual opportunity for getting holiday gifts that are hand made and individual.

The bazaar will be conducted all day tomorrow, and the dinner will be served at 6 o'clock.

D.A.R.

Yesterday the Echscholtzia Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held their regular meeting at Ebell clubhouse. The Regent, Mrs. George Richard Biggs, called the business meeting promptly at 2 p.m.

The program was of unusual interest, as Mrs. Willoughby Rodman, local chairman of foreign relief committee, spoke on "Woman as a Factor in the Scheme of Things." During her talk she reviewed her recent impressions of South America and compared the opportunities, restrictions and accomplishments of that continent, Europe and the United States, as they apply to ambitious and energetic women. Mrs. James Henry Ballagh presented artists from the Matinee Music Club in an enjoyable program.

Ebell Club

Since Los Angeles has become such a music center many famous composers from all over the world have come to make their home here. A number of the resident composers are to present a program before the music department of the Ebell Club this morning. Frances Marian Ralston will give "Reflections of a Composer and a Teacher," and will play some of her compositions. Modest Althauler, former conductor of the Russian Symphony Orchestra in New York, will speak on "Nationalism in Music in America." Songs written by Ethlea Snider Turner will be sung by Mrs. Roy C. Arnold, with the composer at the piano, while Lucy Fuhrer Genter will present for the first time some of her work for the 'cello. A group of songs by local composers will be sung by William Pilcher, tenor. This will be the only department meeting held in December, and the usual guest luncheon will be omitted.

Overseas League

The monthly meeting of the Los Angeles Unit of the Women's Overseas Service League will be held at the Gatch-Holl studios, 2508 West Seventh street, tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock, with Miss Grace Hobson, president, presiding.

The meeting will witness the nomination of officers for the coming year, according to Mrs. Blanche Mullen, chairman of the nominating committee.

Plans also will be discussed for Christmas activities at Sawtelle, at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Club, 755 South Main street, which is maintained by the local unit of the league, and with disabled ex-service women, at the Thursday evening session, with Mrs. Zoravda McCulloch as service chairman in charge of arrangements for the gift giving and holiday celebrating.

Women's Political League

Col Frith, Federal prohibition administrator for Southern California, will speak on "Prohibition and Its Relationship to Politics" before the Women's Political League at a meeting to be held tomorrow in the Windsor Tea Room, 527 West Seventh street, at 3:15 p.m.

Mr. William Bowen, chief counsel to Col. Frith, also will address the club.

Writer to Lecture

Most controversial writer of current nonfiction, Albert Edward Wiggam, will deliver one lecture in Los Angeles during his coming Pacific Coast tour. This event will take place Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Trinity Auditorium, 847 South Grand avenue.

Mr. Wiggam stands without a peer, it is said, in challenging interest by his manner of handling personal problems of every-day life. His many readers in Los Angeles are rejoicing over this opportunity to hear his discussion of "What Civilization is Doing to Humanity." Seldom has a writer of a mere one or two successful volumes achieved such outstanding fame as has Mr. Wiggam in "The New Decalogue of Science" and "The Fruit of the Tree." On the surface it looks phenomenal, but there lies behind these best sellers of nonfiction years of scientific study, laboratory experiments and social investigations, both in this country and in Europe. The two volumes are truly the ripened fruit of many years' planting and pruning.

Mr. Wiggam is presented jointly by three Los Angeles clubs, the High School Teachers' Association of Los Angeles, president, Miss Lloy Galpin; the Los Angeles City Teachers' Club, president, Miss Gladys Moorhead, and the Women's University Club, Mrs. Lawrence L. Larrabee, president.

Tickets may be obtained at rooms 202 and 204 Trinity Building, and at the Women's University clubhouse, 943 South Hoover street.

West Jefferson Club

Today at 2 p.m. the West Jefferson Women's Club will hold its first meeting in the Odd Fellows' Temple at Washington and Oak streets. As it is current events day, Mrs. Bernice Johnson will be present with her usual entertaining and instructive remarks on current topics. In addition there will be music and the lexicology department will meet.

Hunting the Oyster For Its Shell

A growing industry of the South is the burning and crushing of oyster shells into a powder to be used for stimulating plant growth. The use of the shells was necessitated by a scarcity of nitrates, so farmers were compelled to seek other fertilizer and the pulverized oyster shells proved to supply the necessary qualities for enrichment of the soil. Hunting the oyster for fertilizing purposes has now become a flourishing business.

BY MYRA NYE

"I didn't dream I'd get a chance to speak among so many women," said the only man beside the speaker who attended yesterday the institute of government and politics conducted by the California League of Women Voters at the Women's Athletic Club.

"Women are just as chivalrous as men," countered Mrs. Frances Blackburn, presiding in the discussion following the address of Prof. Roy Malcolm on: "Political Parties in the United States," and she allowed him to speak without interruption longer than any woman spoke. The subject of his little impromptu might be named "Party Slaves;" for so he termed all those who hold to party politics. This opinion placed him in another class almost by himself. The discussion among the women with one exception indicated strongly that there has been in this body of women a distinct turning to partisan politics.

"I object to being tagged" said the one exception among woman warmly. "I am a Democrat because all my people are Republicans."

"A new political reason under the sun" some one remarked, and Miss Ethel Richardson asked for permission to speak in behalf of partisan politics.

WINS FOR PARTISANSHIP

"I was converted to partisan politics last summer," she said, "and now I am convinced that every non-partisan is a non-patriot. We must stay with the parties of our choice, work with them and be loyal to them."

Miss Richardson carried the day for partisan politics. Prof. Malcolm's address and answers to questions emphasized also the fact that the government of the United States is by political parties and third party movements are doomed to failure. He called attention to the fact that Col. Roosevelt, who led in a third party movement, was convinced of his mistake and asked his son a short time before he died never to ally himself with a third party.

"If you want to correct evils in your party, work from within and don't get outside" said Prof. Malcolm.

Prof. J. E. Harley of the University of Southern California, as is Prof. Malcolm, was the morning speaker, his subject being: "The United States as a Modern Democracy." He emphasized throughout his address the influence of the United States on National governments of the world.

LEADS THE WAY

Beginning with the formation of the government in 1787, Prof. Harley set forth that the very traditions and fundamental principles and policies of the United States made her continually a factor in world organizations. He said: "Not only has the United States of America exerted a great influence on national governments throughout the world, but she has led the way in world organization," and he cited as the most successful examples today, the League of Nations, the Permanent Court of International Justice and the Pan-American Union. Taking each in succession, he presented arguments to show that they are, according to his opinion, the offshoots of American brain and purpose.

"It is the truth to conclude," said Prof. Harley, "that America has taught the world the lesson of democratic republican government. The extent of America's influence in modern democracies is concretely illustrated by a reflection upon the Romanoffs, the Hapsburgs and the Hohenzollerns. Where are these proud regimes today? The Hohenzollerns have been pushed aside and Wilhelm the II is silent and unostentatiously sojourning in the town of Doorn, Holland. In his place as Emperor of the Germans was placed Frederick Ebert, a former saddle-maker, who rendered distinctive service in the critical days of the German Republic and whose name is now respected and honored throughout the country."

SOVIET NOT REPUBLIC

In similar manner Prof. Harley reviewed the downfall of each autocratic monarchy and told of the replacement by republican form of government, naming the new republics like Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Austria, Esthonia, Lithuania, Latvia; the latter three forming parts of the old Russian Empire which has now been transformed into the Russian Federated Soviet Socialist Republic.

"But the Russian republic is such in name only," said the speaker. "The Russian constitution contemplates a dictatorship of the proletariat, a doctrine which is not harmonious with the fundamental principles of the American republic which does not recognize class. This fundamental difference between the two governments lies at the basis of President Coolidge's policy of nonrecognition of Russia. There are other issues involved, to be sure, like the failure of the soviets to recognize their international debts and the activities of the Third Internationale; but the real barrier is the fundamental difference in the structure and policies of the government concerned," concluded Prof. Harley.

TODAY'S PROGRAM

A Gale Through a Conduit

In order to draw off the poisonous fumes from the 46,000 automobiles that will make daily use of the vehicular tunnel under the Hudson River, an "airway" has been laid under the traffic road through which electric fans will drive a seventy-five-mile gale to carry off the poisonous gases.

TWO SEEK DEATH BY OWN HAND

One Woman Succeeds in Killing Self While Other in Serious Condition

Two women attempted to end their lives in the gloom of last night's downpour. One succeeded. The other was reported in a critical condition at the Receiving Hospital.

Mrs. Dora Silverman, 42 years of age, was found dead in the bathroom of her home at 2811 Malabar street by her son Nathan. The door was locked and the gas had been turned on.

Ill health was given as the cause, according to Detective Lieutenants Bird and Boehn of the Boyle Heights Station. The body was taken to the W. C. Draper Undertaking Company.

Mrs. Mabel Boland, 26 years of age, who lives at 4568 Pasadena avenue, was taken to the Receiving Hospital suffering from lysol poisoning. Police Surgeon Renfrew described her condition as critical.

Despondency resulting from a domestic quarrel was the probable cause, according to Detective Lieutenants McBride and Palmer, who investigated.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR NEAL DOWELL BARKER

The funeral of Neal Dowell Barker, widely known Altadena architect, who died in a collision between his automobile and a motor bus Saturday on the Ridge Route, will be conducted from the chapel of the Los Angeles Undertaking Company at 2517 Pasadena avenue, at 2:30 p.m. today. Interment will be in the Mountain View Cemetery. Barker was the father of Reginald Barker, motion-picture director and vice-president of the Richardson Music Company.

PLAN KIDDIES' CANDY FUND

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Union-avenue school gave a silver tea at the home of its president, Mrs. W. A. Tappendorf, 173 South Burlington avenue, yesterday afternoon to raise funds to help the teachers provide Christmas candy for the children. Mrs. L. H. Rothbun, press chairman of Section E, and Mrs. Anita Bacher, counsellor, spoke. Several solos were given by Elizabeth Wondres, high-school pupil.

HEARING IS SET IN MURDER OF BROTHER

H. Paul Mitchell, charged with murder in connection with the death of his brother, Marion Mitchell, was arraigned before Justice Baird yesterday and his preliminary hearing set for Thursday. Marion Mitchell, 19 years of age, died of a bullet wound received while sitting in an automobile. H. Paul Mitchell is accused of having shot him by mistake for J. H. Thomas, whom, it is said, he regarded as having a bad influence over his brother.

Cities in the Air

A progressive Viennese architect predicts that the city of the future will consist of structures built on stilts several hundred feet in the air. These aerial colonies, he says, will have the shade of trees and will be supplied with artificial lakes for scenic and practical purposes.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT MOVING ITS OFFICES

The City Health Department began moving its offices yesterday from the Bullard Block on North Spring street to the International Building at Temple and Spring streets. It is expected that several days will be required to complete the transfer. The health department will occupy the top five floors of the building, and several clinics which have been housed in other parts of the city will be located at the central headquarters. In addition to the health department, the City Prosecutor, Social Service Commission, crime-prevention division of the police department, and the City Mother's Bureau occupy offices in the International Building.

The investing public has absorbed approximately $1,000,000,000 worth of Federal Land Bank bonds.

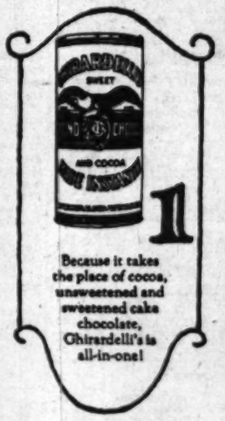
Chocolate Date Muffins! Richer than ordinary muffins, but not so rich as cake. Served with a tart jam or marmalade—they're different from any muffins you've ever tasted. And they're quick to make because you sift all the dry ingredients together.

If you've never tried the instant-ready magic of Ghirardelli's Ground Chocolate in biscuit and muffin mixtures—try the recipe at the right and see!



Because it takes the place of cocoa, unsweetened and sweetened cake chocolate, Ghirardelli's is all-in-one!

With jam or marmalade—um!

2 cups flour
½ cup sugar
1½ cup Ghirardelli's Ground Chocolate
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
½ cup melted shortening (use half butter)
2 eggs
½ cup dates cut in small pieces

Sift dry ingredients twice, saving 1 tablespoon flour with which to dredge dates. Stir in milk, shortening and dates. Fold in lightly beaten eggs. Bake in small, well greased muffin tins in moderate oven (about 350° F.) 25 to 30 minutes. This recipe makes 18 muffins.

MENACE MARTIN TRIAL WITNESS

Mystery Men Warn Youth During Attack

Jury to Try Stone Chosen; State Opens Case

Scene of Girls' Murder to be Viewed Today

An attack upon one of the prosecution's important witnesses who was threatened with death by two mystery men if he gave testimony against S. C. Stone, former Glen Airy nightwatchman, was disclosed yesterday by Capt. Jesse D. Hunter, investigator of the District Attorney's office, during the progress in Superior Judge Hahn's court of the trial of Stone on an indictment accusing him of the murder of the little Martin sisters. Ten women and two men were selected to determine the guilt or innocence of Stone.

The attack by the two men was made upon Ralph McIntosh, 15 years of age, of 2918 Rimpau avenue, after he was lured from his home Monday evening by a telephone call. Hunter announced yesterday special guards have been assigned to protect McIntosh and his mother, Mrs. Winifred McIntosh, who will also be called as a witness for the State.

TELLS OF ATTACK

McIntosh was summoned to Mansfield street and Jefferson avenue by one of the mystery men to meet his mother who, they said, was in distress. He hurried to the designated spot, where he was approached by two men.

"If you and your mother don't keep out of the Stone case we'll put you where the Martin girls are," threatened one of the men as they set upo nthe youth. McIntosh tore off his glasses and defended himself, putting one of them to rout with a well-placed kick and the other with a blow on the chin. He then fled and the two men drove away in an automobile.

McIntosh, whose right hand is in a bandage as the result of the blow against his assailant's chin, reported the attack to the Sheriff's office, but a search of the vicinity for suspects failed. McIntosh said he did not recognize either of his threateners.

Unexpected progress was made yesterday at the trial and good time was set in the selection of a jury for a murder trial. The jury was sworn shortly after 3 o'clock when Attorney Chandos Bush, representing Stone, announced he was satisfied. Dep. Dist.-Attys. Ryan and Dennison are prosecuting.

JURORS SELECTED

The jurors who will try the case are: Mrs. Anna B. Bennett, Torrance; Edward F. Burrell, a broker, of 11718 Goshen avenue, West Los Angeles; Will M. Chapin, 523 Orizaba avenue, Long Beach; Mrs. Mary J. Britton, 555 East Anaheim street, Long Beach; Miss Mary McFelia, 3718 McClintock street; Mrs. Ada G. Lawrence, 11339 Collins street, Lankershim; Mrs. A. F. Armstrong, 763 North Heliotrope Drive; Mrs. W. J. Brizius, 1806 Camden avenue, South Pasadena; Miss Laura E. Paxton, Rivera; Mrs. Margaret I. Tomlinson, 984 Fourth avenue, and Miss Myra Michaels, 2304 Tenth avenue.

Two alternate jurors were chosen. They are Mrs. Ira J. Carney, 1405 South Harvard Boulevard, and Mrs. Ellen M. Knott, 1717 Virginia Road.

As Dennison made his opening statement to the jury, Mrs. Paul Buus, mother of May, 14, and Nina Martin, 9, whom Stone is charged with killing, sat in a seat in the front row sobbing quietly. She was garbed in black. In direct contrast, Stone, sitting beside his attorney, leaned forward in his chair and listened attentively as Dennison told what the prosecution intends to prove to find him guilty.

Dennison asked the infliction of the death penalty against Stone. He told how the Martin sisters left their home on the evening of August 24, 1924, to purchase some candy and of the events leading to the finding of their decomposed bodies months later in a clump of bushes not far distant from their home.

REJECT CONFESSION

He also asserted the prosecution expects to prove Stone was the last person seen with the sisters while they were alive, in spite of his assertions to the contrary. Dennison created somewhat of a sensation during his opening statement when he said the prosecution will not attempt to introduce a confession purported to have been made by Stone to Alva Floyd, former Culver City justice of the peace, convicted of embezzlement.

He did say, however, Floyd will be called to the witness stand to give testimony that Stone told him, while they occupied the same cell at the County Jail, that he, Stone, was with the sisters on the evening of their disappearance. Stone, according to the prosecution, told Floyd that he picked up the girls at a grocery store, drove them about for a while and then took them to a picture theater on Washington street. He then drove them to his home, where he gave them something to eat and then took them home. They were not seen or heard from after that, Dennison said.

Seventy witnesses have been summoned by the prosecution to give testimony against Stone. H. Gorman, deputy County Surveyor, was the first witness called. He described a map of the Glen Airy district prepared by his office. The next witness was H. F. Arnold, Inglewood undertaker, who took charge of the bodies of the Martin sisters.

Members of the jury, accompanied by Stone, his attorney and by Ryan and Dennison and court attaches, today will be taken to view the spot where the bodies of the Martin sisters were found. They will leave the Hall of Justice at 10 o'clock in a sightseeing bus. It is expected the trip will require all morning.

HOXIE TO TESTIFY

When his trial was called, Stone hobbled into the courtroom on crutches, with an air of confidence. He injured his hip, he said, in a fall from his bunk in the County Jail. He was dressed in his gray watchman's uniform which he wore at the time he was arrested.

In selecting a jury Bush exercised eleven of his twenty peremptory challenges to the prosecution's one. Twelve jurors were excused for cause because they were opposed to the infliction of the death penalty. A majority of them were women.

Jack Hoxie, motion-picture star, who is a relative by marriage of Stone, has been subpoenaed by the defense as a witness. Bush declined to comment on the nature of Hoxie's testimony.

Following the disappearance of the two little girls an exhaustive search was started which culminated on February 4, last, when their mutilated and decomposed bodies were found, their clothing torn. Stone was arrested during the search but released due to lack of evidence. After the finding of the bodies the investigation was renewed, evidence presented to the grand jury and Stone indicted.

GOVERNOR APPOINTS EX-JUDGE

Ralph Clock of Long Beach Will Succeed Newbert on Fish and Game Body

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Dec. 1.—Former Superior Court Judge Ralph Clock of Long Beach, advised today of his appointment by Gov. Richardson to a place on the State Fish and Game Commission, succeeding Chairman Frank M. Newbert, declared that he will accept the appointment. Announcement of the appointment and the resignation of Mr. Newbert were made by the Governor today at Sacramento.

The appointment of Judge Clock to the Fish and Game Commission is in keeping, he said, with matters in which he is deeply interested and he declared that he will devote his best efforts to the work.

Judge Clock, by the new appointment, enjoys the honor of having been named to important State offices twice within the administration of Gov. Richardson. He was appointed to the Superior Court bench of Los Angeles county to fill an unexpired term, more than two years ago. At the conclusion of the term he declined to become a candidate to succeed himself and resumed his law practice in Long Beach. Last summer he was offered a place on the State Railroad Commission but declined to accept it.

Jury Picked to Try Local Man in Murder Case

Trial of Harry Alpine on a charge of murdering Barney Blum was started yesterday before Judge Keetch. The jury was obtained and taking of testimony will begin today.

Blum was shot and killed about three months ago in front of the Temple-street bakery in which he worked.

The prosecution, handled by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Orme and Costello, will contend Alpine shot him in the course of a dispute over liquor.

FLINT SEES BENEFIT IN SOUTHLAND BOOM

Former Senator Flint returned yesterday to his home at Flintridge after a business trip to Washington. Flint made the trip to Washington and return in just nine days, stating upon his arrival here that he had expedited his business in order to escape the extreme eastern cold.

Flint is the president of the All-Year Club. He stated that the Florida boom has helped to turn the attention of easterners to the South, with a resulting benefit to Southern California.

CIVIC PLAN MEET DUE FOR TODAY

City and County Will Get Together on Proposal for City Hall Site

City and county will meet finally this morning in conference over the Civic Center plans. Mayor Cryer's special committee will call upon the Board of Supervisors for an exchange of ideas.

The Supervisors have indicated their approval of the plan prepared by the Allied Architects' Association, while the City Council, in accepting a design for the new City Hall, evidenced that it was not in accord with that scheme, tentatively arranging for a site for the municipal building other than that chosen by the Allied Architects.

The specific topic of the conference will be the proposals for the relocation of Spring street north of First street and the grading of Broadway between First street and Sunset Boulevard. These matters are so closely tied up with the whole Civic Center scheme, however, that it is expected broader questions will be involved.

Ground for New Theater Broken by Picture Star

Ground was broken yesterday at 6025 Hollywood Boulevard, near Gower street, for a new theater to cost $500,000. The site has been leased for twenty-five years by the Hansen Theaters, Inc., at a total rental of $600,000.

Alice Calhoun, motion-picture star, vice-president and one of the principal stockholders in the Hansen Theaters, Inc., operated the steam shovel at the ground-breaking ceremonies. With her were Sanford Rich, Hollywood's first mayor, Billy Lord, motion-picture juvenile and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

Among other guests were Mark Hansen, president of Hansen Theaters, Inc., J. G. Curl, secretary-treasurer, J. Beck, Edward Rowland, manager of the Playhouse; B. Y. Taft, C. J. Weyl, H. N. Hubbard, J. J. Conlan, J. E. Mitchell, S. Mautner, "Pop" Howell and H. L. Groggerty.

The contract calls for the completion, ready for occupancy, of the theater within 101 days. The theater will be devoted to first-run pictures exclusively.

WATCH POTATO 'BOOTLEGGERS'

Police on Lookout for Thieves Who Took Quantity of Spuds

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WORCESTER (Mass.) Dec. 1.—Discovering in the high price of potatoes a new and lucrative business, thieves stole thirty bushels of spuds at Knowles farm, Auburn, the other night.

It is the largest potato robbery on record here since the high prices set in. Police are watching potato "bootleggers," hoping for clews which will lead to the arrest of the latest in the category of thieves.

Questions Crime in Forged Check for Rum Buying

The new question of whether giving bad checks in payment for liquor is a criminal offense was raised yesterday before Judge Burnell when Elma Applegate, a trained nurse, pleaded guilty to forgery and asked for probation.

Deputy Public Defender Faries, her counsel, contends that as liquor has no standing in law and cannot be stolen, the checks were given for no consideration and no wrong was committed in the eyes of the law. He also urged that Miss Applegate bore a good reputation and had never been in trouble before.

There will be a hearing on the matter Tuesday.

HEARING CONTINUED IN MANN ACT CASE

The hearing of Tuckett H. Lawry, head of the Lawry Automobile Company of Whittier Boulevard, upon a Mann Act charge, was continued yesterday by United States Commissioner Turney to February 17. The adjournment was made necessary by the illness of the principal witness, Betty Freadell. According to the charge, Lowry took the young woman with him on a trip to Canada and return. The case is also the subject of investigation by the immigration authorities with a view to Lawry's possible deportation, as he is a Canadian, though he has taken out first papers of naturalization.

DRAMA NEXT

GLORIA SWANSON TO DO FANNIE HURST STORY

By Grace Kingsley

Despite her success in "Stage Struck," Gloria Swanson is going back to drama, with perhaps a little comedy intermixed.

Lawrence Gray

Miss Swanson's next picture for Paramount will be "Untamed," it was announced yesterday by Jesse L. Lasky, who is here conferring on Famous Players-Lasky Corporation's coming product.

"Untamed" is an original story from the pen of Fannie Hurst, who wrote the last James Cruze production, "Mannequin." Details of the story are not yet available, but those close to the author declare that "Untamed" will furnish Miss Swanson with one of the most colorful roles she has ever had. Her starring part has been likened to Katherine in "The Taming of the Shrew."

Miss Swanson will have the same leading man who played opposite her in "Stage Struck." Lawrence Gray is the man. He did so well in the above-mentioned picture that there wasn't a dissenting voice when it was suggested that he appear again with the star.

Gray first met Miss Swanson when she made "The Coast of Folly," last summer under the direction of Allan Dwan. With a newly-acquired long-term contract in his pocket, Gray hesitated somewhat to accept a minor role in Miss Swanson's picture, but finally decided to do so. When the star and Dwan saw his work on the screen, he was immediately chosen to play opposite her in "Stage Struck," which was made in New York. As the dexterous flapjack tosser he made such an impression that he was again assigned the principal supporting role in Miss Swanson's new picture.

"Untamed" will be made at the Paramount Long Island studio, production to start in the near future. Frank Tuttle will direct.

CECIL DE MILLE HAS POPULAR GIRL STAR

However busy Marguerite De la Motte may be stitching on doilies and doing her Christmas embroidery work, she has got to let the needles rust while she makes a picture for Cecil De Mille.

Marguerite de la Motte

Cecil De Mille has just signed Miss De la Motte to play the feminine lead in Rod La Rocque's new starring vehicle, "Red Dice," which William K. Howard will direct.

"Red Dice" is to be made an outstanding production. Jeanie Macpherson collaborated with Douglas Doty in the adapting of the story from an original by Octavus Roy Cohen.

Miss De la Motte, as everybody knows, recently has been featured in a great number of productions, including "Fifth Avenue," and "The People vs. Nancy Preston," and longer ago, "The Mark of Zorro," "The Nut," "Wandering Daughters," "The Famous Mrs. Fair," and others.

And just while we are speaking about the De Mille productions, it may not be out of place to report that Papyrus, one of the fastest dogs in the world, is the latest member of the cast to be signed for "The Volga Boatman," Papyrus being the property of Arthur Rankin, who plays an important role in the picture. The dog recently in a race did one-eighth of a mile in twelve and two-fifths seconds.

Featured players in "The Volga Boatman" include William Boyd, Elinor Fair, Victor Varconi, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff, Robert Edeson, Rosa Rudami and Arthur Rankin.

Mantells May Return

It is quite possible that Robert Mantell may return to us during the coming summer to produce plays for the Artland Club at the Greek Theater. The noted interpreter of classic roles has been invited to undertake this enterprise, and is seriously considering accepting. In case he does so, his wife, Genevieve Hamper, and his son, Bruce Mantell, will return with him, with Miss Hamper probably going into pictures.

Another problem which is now engaging Mr. Mantell's attention is whether he shall put still another Shakespearean drama into modern clothes. He is seriously considering doing "King Lear" in this way. "Hamlet" in modern dress has, he says, been a great success financially.

Mantell and his wife did not go to Europe as they expected last season, but instead toured the South. Returning thence the actor met with a serious accident which might easily have cost him his life. A small pimple on his neck was being lanced when the surgeon's knife slipped cutting into a vein. Mantell bled profusely before the flow could be checked.

However, he pluckily arose from his bed on the second day, though warned not to do so, took the train from New York to Wilmington, Del., and went on the stage the very night of his arrival.

Alice Calhoun's Party

Alice Calhoun simply cannot be happy unless she is minding the little adage about "pretty is that pretty does." So this philanthropical young star is more and more going in for that sort of activity known to the Sunday-school books as putting out the helping hand.

The star's newest activity will be the giving of a benefit performance for the Los Angeles Music Settlement School, in which institution she has long been interested. The performance will take the form of a musicale, to be given at Alice's beautiful new home, 626 Lorraine avenue, next Friday evening. A number of well-known dramatic and musical stars will appear, and George W. Barnes, president of the Barnes Music Company, will be present and deliver an address.

NEED ATMOSPHERE NOT PRACTICAL PROP

Irvin Willat's assistant director was issuing orders to a crowd of extras.

"I want all you men to wear fur coats and caps tomorrow," he announced.

"I haven't got a fur coat," said the fourth man from the left in the third row, "but I can wear two suits of underwear!"

The assistant informed him that that would hardly do as the scenes were to be made in a lumber camp for "The Ancient Highway" which features Jack Holt, Billie Dove and Montague Love this week at the Metropolitan Theater.

HORTON SUCCESSOR NAMED

Robert Gleckler, Eastern Actor, is to Make Debut at Majestic Next Sunday in "The Show-off"

Following the announcement that Edward Everett Horton is saying farewell to the stage this week at the Majestic Theater where he is playing the title role in Booth Tarkington's famous comedy, "Clarence," considerable interest has been displayed by theatergoers in his possible successor.

Yesterday Producer Michael Corper announced he had secured the services of Robert Gleckler, pronounced by many critics as "one of the best leading men in America," to succeed the popular "Eddie."

While a stranger to this city, Gleckler comes here with a notable stage record. He made his debut with the Castle Square company in Boston in "The Admirable Crichton," and within one year he was the leading man. He has been leading man with the Harry Davis stock company in Pittsburg, the Keith company at the Crescent Theater in Brooklyn, at the Criterion Theater in Chicago, and of companies in Detroit, Montreal, Washington, Kansas City, New Haven and St. Paul.

Gleckler has also played in road companies and on Broadway. He followed Charles Waldron as Jarvis Pendleton on tour in "Daddy Longlegs," was the schoolteacher in the original production of "Mother Carey's Chickens;" played the fiance in "The Tavern," with George M. Cohan and Lowell Sherman, both in Chicago and New York; was Blake in "Partners Again" at the Selwyn Theater, New York, and appeared for two seasons in "The Rat."

His most recent New York appearance was in "A Man's Man," which is still running in New York and where Producer Corper saw him for the first time. So pleased was the latter with his splendid ability he began negotiations with him that resulted in Gleckler coming to Los Angeles.

His first appearance will be in George Kelly's comedy hit of the last two New York seasons, "The Show-off," next Sunday afternoon.

ZIMBALIST RECITAL STIRS ENTHUSIASM

Virtuoso Delights With His New Compositions; Playing Brilliantly

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

Zimbalist, violinist with few peers, played a capacity audience into a state of rapturous enthusiasm at the Auditorium last night in spite of the rain. Building his program from a masterly and authentic reading of the Pugnani Praeludium he succeeded in the presentation of his new sonata so well that its rendition might be called the high peak of the concert.

The work is scored for Andante sostenuto, Allegro, Andante con Amore and Allegro Vico. Its opening measures were decisive statements with serious musical content. His themes are dignified, clearly handled and, most amazing wonders of all, the piano part is orchestral in its scope. In fact, the piano has much the best of it a good share of the time. The harmonies are modern but well-defined. As one intelligent commentator put it, the Zimbalist sonata is autobiographical. It is modern, as he is, it has a classical background and its atmosphere is in turn, Russian and American.

From Russia he has taken a folk song made famous by Tschaikowsky and used with telling effect in the Fourth Symphony. There are moments of mounting melody and anticipated climax which would not be a surprise in Cesar Franck. In America he has gathered fragments of southern jazz—ultra refined in its embodiment in the last movement, but jazz under the disguise.

The Hubay Concerto in G Minor is also new to Los Angeles. It is indeed "gay," as Zimbalist describes it. The first movement is composed of chopped themes. The Scherzo is typical of this composer and, because of its tricky bowing and intonation, places the concerto beyond the reach of any but the virtuoso. The Adagio, is rather a surprise in that it is laid high up on the first half of the violin. The Finale, with its super-cadenza, which was superbly played, returns to the characteristic "zephyr" mood of the popular writer.

Two Chopin numbers arranged respectively by Wilhelmj and Spalding, were interesting in the reactions of the audience. The first was a bit too sentimental and was answered by sighs. The second was so clever and violinistic that it had to be repeated. In the Persian song arranged by Zimbalist, the accompanist distinguished himself. Mr. Zimbalist seems disposed to make it hard for the pianist when he writes. As he has the good judgment to choose so splendid an accompanist as Emanuel Bay, the result is all that could be desired.

Adding some of the small and charming numbers of Kreisler and a clever setting of "Turkey in the Straw," the violinist could not dismiss his audience and he was still giving encores long after the usual closing hour for concerts. He will not be back again for three years as a tour of the world is in store for him.

Marguerite De La Motte this week occupied her permanent dressing-room at Metropolitan studio, where she is under long-term starring contract.

JURY IN FRESNO SCANDAL PICKED

Bitter Fight Marks Opening of Police Bribe Case

Many Witnesses Will be Called to Stand

Former Chief to Testify for Government

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Dec. 1.—After the jury box had once been filled only to be virtually emptied by peremptory challenges, a jury was procured in the Federal District Court today for the trial of twelve former members of the Fresno Police Department on charges of conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act by accepting "hush money" for the protection of bootleggers. The jurors are: Roy M. Bostwick, irrigation official; Roy Stanley, lumberman; Thomas M. Anton, former City Commissioner; L. R. Jeffries, insurance man; Percy Church, attorney; Howard N. Foss, real estate man; F. J. Siepel, farmer; Dan Bloomer, farmer; A. Y. Jordan, Chamber of Commerce official; Jules Fontaine, Community Chest secretary; J. G. Martin, lumberman, and Ralph H. Seaton, banker.

The jury was procured and sworn in shortly before the adjournment of court for the day.

The second day of the trial was marked by revelations of a somewhat sensational nature and strenuous efforts on the part of three government attorneys and nine defense counsel to keep in the jury box those men who appeared of a friendly frame of mind to the respective sides of the case.

With twelve jurors passed by both sides shortly after the opening of the afternoon session of the court, the defense exercised eight of its ten peremptory challenges and the government five of its six.

A mild sensation was sprung when W. A. Barr, Fresno dairy operator, admitted upon questioning by Judge Henning that he had made a wager on the outcome of the trial of the accused police after he had been summoned for jury duty. It was only a friendly bet, he stated upon being questioned by Judge Henning. He was excused by the court.

Trial of the accused police will involve the calling of 110 witnesses approximately, and the taking of testimony and arguments will require a total of five weeks' time, it was indicated today by statements of the court and defense attorneys.

Anticipating a long session, Judge Henning announced today that a special session of the court will be called for January to clean up the calendar which has been delayed by this trial.

One of the surprises of the day was the announcement by Asst. U. S. Dist.-Atty. Albert K. Lucas, that he will call as government witness Frank P. Truax, who, until a few months ago, was Chief of Police.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 1.—In taking over the San Diego water system today the city of San Diego is richer in water properties and supply to the extent of $3,750,000, according to city officials. Ownership, control and general supervision of the Lake Hodges dam and the Sutherland properties passed to the city today, when Fred Rhodes, City Manager, assumed authority.

The first payment to officials of the San Dieguito Company is scheduled for 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when the Common Council will meet in adjourned session to make formal tender of $500,000 in cash to John Treanor, manager of the San Dieguito Corporation. In compliance with the terms of the option which citizens voted at the recent special election.

SHOT DEFENDING GIRL

Fresno Man May Die from Bullet of Negro Bandit Received Protecting Companion

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Dec. 1.—George Gordon, 28 years of age, a Fresno truck driver, was hovering between life and death today from a bullet wound in his abdomen, inflicted by an unidentified negro highwayman early today when Gordon attempted to defend his girl companion from an attack by the negro.

While Gordon and the girl, whose name was not revealed by the authorities, were sitting in a parked car on a country road near Fresno, they were confronted by the armed negro and robbed of $6. After relieving them of their money the highwayman attempted to assault the girl and shot Gordon when he sought to beat off her assailant.

As Gordon fell wounded, the negro ran through a near-by vineyard and escaped. The girl drove Gordon to the City Emergency Hospital, where an operation was performed by Emergency Surgeon Vanderburgh. Gordon was taken to a local hospital for further attention. He is said to have about an even chance to recover.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Blasingame headed a posse which combed the district until a late hour today but found no trace of the gunman other than his tracks through the soft earth of the vineyard.

More Men Are Sent to Valley Police Forces

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, Dec. 1.—With the taking on of six new policemen from the police school of the Los Angeles department, the Van Nuys and valley division force now has thirty-eight men, it is announced today by Capt. L. L. Oakley, commanding the district.

The six new officers are S. J. Johnson, V. W. Phillips, Carl W. Broyles, D. E. Ward, Frank J. Heller and Armond J. Kern, some of whom will remain with headquarters in Van Nuys, while the others will be distributed to the other stations in the valley that are subordinate to the Van Nuys station.

Capt. Oakley today said that the valley police division was gradually growing to be a police force of no little size, as a result of the increasing population of the various districts, and the need for more men to handle traffic and other police matters.

The new men with the old officers will be used on beats and in patrol service, each having separate territories under their immediate work. About a year ago there were less than twenty men in the valley force, and only two motorcycle officers.

With the thirty-eight men the division now has four motorcycle officers, an ambulance, ten patrol cars, and a new $4500 ambulance is expected within a week.

Last February the Van Nuys Emergency Hospital was established here, with Dr. L. S. Welburn as newly appointed assistant police surgeon in charge.

HOSPITAL WILL FIGHT ENJOINER

Riverside Court Order Draws Fire from Institution

Osteopathic Patient Wins Admission to Ward

Board, However, Prepares for Legal Battle

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 1.—The board of directors of the Riverside Community Hospital, in session today, voted to employ legal counsel and answer all charges brought against them by Edna Carnahan and Lester Carnahan in their complaint filed yesterday, in which they ask that the directors be permanently restrained from refusing any available accommodations to any citizen because of their attending physician or from denying any reputable and responsible physician from practicing in the hospital.

Chauncey L. McFarland and Lyman Evans, the two legal members of the board, will appear before Judge G. R. Freeman next Monday morning, when the case comes before the court. When counsel has been formally engaged by the directors these two members will act as an advisory board. Citations to appear Monday in Superior Court were served last night on the board members by Sheriff Clem Sweeters.

On Saturday afternoon the defendants obtained from Judge G. R. Freeman a temporary restraining order and, accompanied by Sheriff Sweeters and their osteopathic physician, Dr. A. E. Gooden, demanded and obtained accommodations for Mrs. Carnahan in the regular maternity wing of the hospital, which, they assert, had been refused them on a previous visit by the superintendent, Miss Nellie M. Porter.

According to the affidavit of Mrs. Carnahan, the defendants visited the hospital last Wednesday asking for accommodations in the maternity wing for Mrs. Carnahan, a prospective mother, and when Miss Porter learned her physician was an osteopath the reservation was refused unless a medical physician was employed. Miss Porter told her, Mrs. Carnahan said, that she could have reservations in the wing set aside for patients of ostopaths. Following this, through their attorneys the defendants obtained admission on the restraining order and demanded in their complaint that Mrs. Carnahan receive the same accommodations and facilities accorded other patients or receive damages in the sum of $50,000.

Mrs. Carnahan is now a patient at the hospital and the necessary fees have been paid in advance by her husband. Members of the regular nursing staff will be assigned to her case, hospital authorities say.

Redondo Beach Grants Fishing Pier Franchise

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

REDONDO BEACH, Dec. 1.—A franchise for the erection of a fishing pier adjoining the municipal pier was granted to Capt. W. L. Monstad by the Board of City Trustees last night, construction to begin at once. The new pier will be built from the south entrance of the present pier and will be 300 feet in length. It will be of similar construction to the municipal pier with boat landing and booths to accommodate purveyors of fresh fish.

The project is in line with the development program planned by the city in making accommodations for the pleasure fishing trade here, which represents an investment of boats and equipment totaling nearly $250,000, handling immense crowds of pleasure seekers the year around.

The present landing at the foot of the municipal pier is to be abandoned and the pier is to be developed as a pleasure zone in accordance with an agreement made a fortnight ago with C. L. Langley of Venice for concessions and an addition to the pier to cost in the neighborhood of $500,000.

PAROLE DENIED WET DRUGGISTS

Four Today Face Ninety-Day Jail Sentences

Long Battle Lost After Three Stays Granted

Final Appeal for Mercy Refused

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 1.—Losing in a four months' appeal for parole, four San Bernardino druggists probably will enter the County Jail tomorrow to serve ninety-day sentences pronounced by Federal Judge W. P. James of Los Angeles for violating the Volstead Act.

The druggists, B. F. Towne, W. B. Bazilon, W. F. Marsh and C. L. Bruce, pleaded guilty to a charge of selling whisky without prescriptions to Federal operatives and, in addition to the jail sentences, paid a total of $1100 in fines. An appeal for probation was placed before Judge James, attorneys for the druggists advancing the plea that the druggists overstepped the law during a sales campaign in a spirit of rivalry.

The four defendants are managers of stores operated by the Towne-Allison Drug Company, leading druggists of the city, and all are widely known.

Three stays of execution were granted the druggists by Judge James on requests of attorneys that the defendants needed time in which to prepare their personal and company business before entering jail.

Fruit Packers Name Officers; Outlook Bright

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, Dec. 1.—Two of the largest fruit-packing firms in the Redlands district conducted annual meetings today, heard reports of the past year and the outlook for the coming year and elected officers.

At the annual meeting of the Gold Banner Association, which for a year has been occupying its new $75,000 packing-house, officers elected were: O. W. Harris, president; J. J. Prendergast, vice-president and treasurer; W. A. Throop, secretary, and Charles M. Brown, general manager.

The report showed that the growers received more money than in a normal year because of high prices resulting from a loss in shipments through the cold snap in January. The outlook for the coming year is excellent with the association having a large increase in acreage.

It was reported that 120 acres or more in the association will be under heaters this year that were not last year.

There were 140 stockholders at the annual meeting of the Redlands Co-operative Association, the largest fruit packing-house in the city. C. H. Clock, president, presided, and there was shown a motion picture of the shook mill at Susanville of the Exchange Supply Company. Reports were made showing $500,000 returned to the growers the past year.

ANAHEIM WALNUTS SHIPPED

First Pool Closes Establishing Records in Size of Crop and Efficiency in Disposal

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ANAHEIM, Dec. 1.—First pool shipping of the Anaheim Walnut Growers' Association packing-house closed on schedule November 20 with records established as to the size of the crop and the efficiency of its disposal, Walter Ross, manager of the packing-house, has announced.

Practically the entire crop of this district, a total of 1,825,000 pounds, or $13 tons of walnuts, valued at nearly $500,000, was handled by the Anaheim house during the approximately eight weeks it was in operation, Ross said.

The season here this year got under way about three weeks earlier than last year and the full staff of thirty-five employees was used and the plant run at its maximum of efficiency throughout the entire shipping period. The total amount of nuts handled showed a 72 1-2 per cent increase over the amount handled last year, when only 529 tons or approximately 1,000,000 pounds were shipped, according to Ross.

The crop here this year exceeded from 20 to 30 per cent all advance estimates compiled early in the year by the California Walnut Growers' Association, and upon which the price schedule now in effect was established. The prices first announced, however, are still being maintained, Ross declared. He added that prices this year are very nearly the same as last year with its much smaller crop. Budded walnuts are being paid for at the rate of 29 cents for No. 1 grade, which is the same as last season, and No. 1 soft shells are priced this year at 24 cents, or only one cent under last year's price, he said.

EXPLODE ONTARIO CASE

Wife and Son of Man Who Filed Charge Tell of Revenge Plot Against Merchant

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ONTARIO, Dec. 1.—How W. Dickey, a rancher until recently residing at Grove and Francis streets, sought to "get even" with G. W. Foster, a grocer, after the latter had filed suit against the former through the Merchants' Adjustment Service to collect a bill of $46.73, was revealed today when Mrs. Dickey and her 15-year-old son Albert, appeared before Judge Holbrook and disclosed details of a plot to discredit the grocer.

Foster was arrested November 26 on complaint of Dickey, who charged the grocer with having sold cigarettes to his minor son, Albert, and who, in swearing to the complaint, informed Judge Holbrook that his son-in-law and daughter had witnessed the sale and would so testify. When he appeared in court Foster stoutly denied the charge and pleaded not guilty. His trial was set for tomorrow.

Appearing before Judge Holbrook today, Mrs. Dickey reported that her husband had deserted her, taking his belongings and with the aid of the family motor car, slipped away between two days. She denied that there was any foundation for the charges preferred against Mr. Foster by her husband and the young son admitted before the judge that his father had threatened him if he would not promise to testify against the grocer in court. A married daughter of the Dickeys also appeared in court and denied ever having witnessed the sale of cigarettes by Foster to her brother. They admitted that Dickey was aggrieved at the collection suit brought by Foster and was seeking to "get even." It is expected that the case against the grocer will be dismissed when it comes up for trial tomorrow.

Future Called Optimistic for Raisin Industry

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, Dec. 1.—Optimism for the future of the raisin industry of California was voiced by Ralph P. Merritt, head of the Co-operative Growing and Marketing Association, the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers, at a mass meeting of Kings county raisin growers here last night. For the first time since wartime prices stimulated planting of raisins to the point of overproduction, he stated, there is no carry-over of raisin stock and new processes and packs owned exclusively by the association are going to assist the growers to cash in at sound level prices.

The contract with the independent packers having expired, the association is selling them no raisins, nor will it do so. The speaker advocated that 75,000 acres in raisins too poor to pay the cost of production should be taken out, which action would aid the raisin market and be no real detriment to owners.

The people of the San Joaquin Valley, the speaker said, own the largest dried-fruit business in the world, with markets in the four corners of the earth. Continued co-operation will enable the growers to establish better markets, obtain the best prices the world will pay and help to put the farmer on a level with representatives of commerce and industry.

During the past year the carry-over of raisins, always the biggest trouble of the association, has been eliminated, and prospects, with continued co-operation, said the speaker, looked encouraging.

AMERICAN RAILS UP TO JAPANESE DIET

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

TOKIO, Dec. 1.—Decision as to whether or not Japan will exclude steel rails of American make will be made by the Diet, the high legislative body of the empire.

Following many inquiries from America, the Railway Department, an official body, qualified its statement of November 26, last, in which announcement was made of "plans to replace all steel rails on all railroads with British and German rails, excluding rails of American make." The qualified statement points out the actual replacement program, as to type of rails, will be considered further and that approval by the Diet will be necessary for final decision.

Chief Engineer Uyemura of the Rail Department, who headed the committee which made a two-year rail test, and who sponsored the original statement, explained that American rails purchased in 1907 and manufactured under the Bessemer process, were found inferior.

Subsequently, open hearth rails were purchased, and while these have not been tested, it is unofficially believed they are too hard and carbonized for use in Japanese narrow-gauge roads.

Shiro Kurokawachi, head of the railway section, said the department does not intend to purchase any more American rails, but plans to use more European products in the future if possible.

It was stated that no rails were imported from America in 1926, although a recent small order was placed for experimental purposes. An official test report will not be available for a month.

Riverside Auto Deaths Mount to High Figure

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 1.—Ten persons killed and 115 injured is the toll taken by the 363 automobile accidents occurring in Riverside during the first eleven months of the present year, according to figures on record at the police station.

Although no comparison can be made with previous years, as before 1925, no monthly records were kept, it is known that motor wrecks are on the increase, with the dead and injured list steadily increasing.

In November accidents have been heaviest, forty-six having been entered on the police blotter, with twelve injuries and one death resulting. October led in the number of injuries, with eighteen resulting from motor crashes. In the same month two deaths occurred.

The largest number of deaths—four—occurred in February, although only twenty-nine accidents were recorded then, with nine injuries, most of them trivial. The smallest number, both of accidents and casualties, was in January, when only twenty-four accidents, with five injured and none killed, were reported.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 1.—Weng Choo, bent with three score and ten years, packed up his belongings today and started home—back to the China that he left sixty years ago as a coolie to work as a laborer in America.

Wong Choo tearfully said goodby to his friends of Chinatown and said he was glad to be going home.

"I die pretty soon—I happy to go back," he said with a forced smile. But his friends of Chinatown said that Wong Choo's days are probably numbered because in his heart he carries a load of shame and embarrassment.

For Wong Choo is going back home as an undesirable alien. He was deported for selling opium.

On the place of Arnold Huber and Arnold Rorher on Burnet street for some time there has been a pen of 250 maturing White Leghorn pullets. In the flock was a single young White Leghorn rooster. Several weeks ago, one of the pullets sneaked off under a hover in one corner of the pen and laid ten eggs. This week the hen hatched ten chicks from the setting, all continue to thrive.

CAT SLEEPS IN BLAZING KILN

Survives Fiery Ordeal Minus Whiskers and With Fur a Rich Brown, But Otherwise Unhurt

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, Dec. 1.—Inglewood has a "salamander cat." This animal, "Stub" by name, due to a tail accidentally amputated in early youth, successfully survived the ordeal of the fiery furnace, like the three youths mentioned in the Bible story, and calmly came forth from an entire night in a newly-fired porcelain kiln, completely denuded of whiskers and eyebrows, and his hitherto inky black coat transformed to a rich seal brown. Otherwise the fireproof feline is as good as new and apparently in full possession of all of his nine lives.

"Stub's" master is H. F. Coors, owner of the new porcelain products factory just completed here. The animal was born and first opened its eyes in a Los Angeles chemical laboratory. It was there it formed the risky habit of bunking up for the night in the cozy warmth of a test kiln which was not kept blazing during the night, but which retained its torrid temperature well on toward dawn.

The feline was given to Mr. Coors and during the six weeks that the latter has been superintending the building of the first unit of the plant here, the animal took up its quarters in the new kiln as soon as its walls were bricked in.

The cat was forgotten when the huge gas burners were lit in the kiln last night. This enclosure is circular, nearly thirty feet high, and in proportions, like a giant jug. The gas fires will burn for a week until it has been fired to a temperature high enough to take the porcelain products for glazing, but it was hot enough for a stove when "Stub" calmly walked out this morning, waving his stump of a tail, and as unperturbed as usual, notwithstanding his torrid experience.

Mr. Coors is of the opinion that this experience may lead, as many other unforseen occurrences have, to the discovery of a great invention, in this case, how to make real seal skin from cat fur.

FIGHT ON GRAND JURY OPENS

All Actions of 1924 Body Declared Unlawful by Attorney for Condemned Slayer

Validity of all grand jury proceedings in 1924 are attacked in a petition for a writ of habeas corpus for Harry Garbutt, sentenced to be hanged for murder, which was filed by Atty. Erneet B. D. Spagnoli in the Court of Appeal yesterday.

Spagnoli, a San Francisco attorney, rushed the petition here in the hope of forestalling Garbutt's transfer to San Quentin to await the infliction of the death penalty which was set for February 13, 1926. He was unable to procure immediate action on the petition, but learned in the meantime, he stated, that Judge Burnell of the Superior Court had granted a stay of execution, which means that Garbutt will not be transferred before Friday. Action of the Court of Appeal is expected by Spagnoli before that time.

Garbutt's conviction for the murder of Dorothy Lee Hunn, a Pasadena society woman who had befriended him, recently was affirmed by the State Supreme Courtcourt show C. E. Nagel answered.

and he was resentenced by Judge Burnell. Themanner of resentencing also is attacked as illegal in Spagnoli's petition, which asserts that the date was not fixed as required by law, as Garbutt made two appearances before the court for resentencing.

Spagnoli's charge that the grand jury which indicted Garbutt was illegally drawn is based upon the assertion that of thirty names drawn only twenty-two persons appeared, there being no record of the remaining eight. Nineteen jurors should have been chosen from the number drawn and not excused, the petition declares.

It is further charged that G. E. Nagel was one of the jurors summoned, and that the records of the

The proposed investigation was decided informally by the jury and Keyes yesterday and the decision to go further in the matter depends, to what extent Keyes will be able to help them was a matter of conjecture yesterday, and there was no official statement forthcoming from the District-Attorney's office.

MAY CALL GOVERNOR

"We intend to sift the matter completely," said Clayton R. Tayloe, foreman of the jury last night. "Whether they will attempt to do this or not I cannot tell at this time.

While these events were transpiring, a rumor to the effect that Gov. Richardson was causing a secret investigation to be conducted into the activities of the officials he intimated had blocked [illegible] gained credence, but could not be officially verified.

MYSTERY INVOLVED

It is understood that the grand jury will investigate not only "Big Hutch's" connections, if any, with local officials, but also the latter's dealings, if any existed, with other bunko men, and this may cause the return to Los Angeles of Fred Mayne, another bunko man, who also was paroled from State's prison, and who now is supposed to be in the Middle-West.

The recent discoveries that Hutchings and Mayne had been secretly paroled from San Quentin led to the investigation by the Governor. He recently revoked Hutchings's parole and the bunko man is now being sought in New York.

SIX INVOLVED IN BEACH CITY SUIT

Business Man Sextet Named Defendants in Case

Government Asks $47,815.25 Asserted Due as Tax

Declare No Return Made on Assets Distribution

Six Long Beach business men, former stockholders of the Long Beach Tuna Packing Company, a dissolved corporation, were made defendants yesterday in a suit filed by the United States government to recover $47,815.25 as additional tax and 100 per cent penalty on 1917 income.

Those named in the suit are B. Houssells, president; E. A. Archer, C. P. Bishop, R. M. Moore, H. C. Ward and L. J. Massie.

The suit, which was filed by Donald W. Armstrong, assistant United States Attorney, recites that the company ceased business operations on December 10, 1917, and on June 15, 1918, completed the final distribution of its assets to its stockholders. On December 1 the assets of the corporation were sold for $60,000 and two months later a partial liquidating dividend of $25,000 was distributed, and which never was accounted for, according to the government suit, in the income returns filed the last day of the year.

The company was capitalized for $50,000 with 500 shares of $100 each, the majority of shares of which were held by the defendants as follows:

Houssells, 210 shares; Ward, 85 shares; Archer, 25 shares; Moore, 25 shares, and Massie and Bishop, 10 shares each.

In the liquidating dividend they received the following sums, the suit points out:

Houssells, $10,500; Ward, $2750; Archer, $1250; Moore, $1000, and Bishop and Massie, $500 each.

In the income tax return filed for the year 1917, it was asserted in the government suit that $6944.25 in additional tax was omitted, and that a penalty of 100 per cent ad valorem tax should be penalized the stockholders. This tax amounts to $41,851.41.

The suit is directed against the defendants as individuals because the assets of the corporation have been distributed and have vanished beyond the jurisdiction of the government.

TRAFFIC JOB LOOKED INTO BY WOMAN

Safety Council Director Gets Direct Information on Conditions

Seeking first-hand information about Los Angeles traffic conditions, Mrs. Helen Holt, director of the California Public Safety Council, directed traffic shortly after noon yesterday at Seventh and Broadway, the city's busiest corner.

Bearing two banners inscribed with her organization's slogan, "Safety or Sorrow," Mrs. Holt donned Traffic Officer L. A. Holt's cap and badge and for several minutes "kept 'em rolling down Broadway."

What her observations were Mrs. Holt will report at a luncheon meeting today at the Alexandria to 400 delegates to the California Public Safety Conference, representing 270,000 women, members of various organizations including the Federation of Women's Clubs and the Parent-Teachers' Association.

Mrs. Holt, who is also director of the women's department of the California Development Association, is one of the leaders among the women who have decreed that California's traffic death rate of four a day must be reduced. At the luncheon meeting today, Capt. Cleveland Heath, head of the Police Traffic Bureau, and other traffic experts will speak. An organized and determined effort on the part of the women to better traffic conditions throughout the State is expected to result from today's conference.

FIRE GUN AT POLITICS IN PHONE QUIZ

Southwest Chamber Starts Fight for Independent Investigation of Rates

Declaring that "the citizens of Los Angeles have been at the mercy of the Bell telephone monopoly since 1917," that "in spite of promises to the contrary" local phone rates are 100 per cent higher than they were in December, 1921," and that "local politics governed by a secret force seems to be responsible for the loss of $1,000,000 occasioned by delay on the part of the Mayor's Telephone Committee," the Southwest Chamber of Commerce last night adopted a resolution advocating formation of an independent telephone rate investigating committee under the guidance of Arne Andrae Nordskog, independent rate expert, in an effort to keep the public interest free from politics.

The resolution cites the "city government" as having "repeatedly failed to protect its citizens against the invasion" of high telephone rates and highly commends Nordskog as the man who has displayed a thorough understanding of the issues at hand and has given the proper civic spirit in the service rendered during the past year."

The resolution further suggests a "people's telephone committee" of eighty members, selected in groups of ten from each of eight geographical districts. A committee to formulate working details of the proposed plan was formed, consisting of F. C. Kinkle as temporary chairman; H. A. Cole, C. D. Fleming, U. G. Tharp, L. D. McGahn, Robert V. Gorbach, Thomas D. Nichols, J. H. McGarvin, H. T. Holloway, and W. D. Cochrane.

TELLS OF BROKEN CHRISTMAS IDYLL

Mrs. Maude M. Myers

HASTY ADIEU BY HUSBAND RECOUNTED

Fighting Women and Then Discovery of Helpmeet in Room Pictured to Judge

It was Christmas day, 1931. Mrs. Maude M. Myers and several guests were sitting in her apartment at Vallejo awaiting the arrival of Ford W. Myers, her husband, to begin the Christmas feast.

The peace of the Yuletide was in Mrs. Myers's heart. But the screams of two women out in the hallway shattered it. She and her guests ran out to be confronted by two wildly battling women engaged in a hair-pulling contest. The rest of the story of a modern Christmas idyll gone wrong was told by Mrs. Myers in Judge Keeler's department of the Superior Court yesterday.

"The two women fought all over the hall, down the stairs and then on the second floor. My guests and I watched them. Then we heard my husband's voice in an apartment on the second floor. I was greatly surprised and knocked on the door. Nothing but silence!

"I called the landlady. She knocked on the door and said she would call the police. Out ran my husband, dressed only in his trousers and carrying his shirt over his arm. He cursed us, told us he was free, white and twenty-one, bade us a Merry Christmas and departed. That's one Christmas day I'll never forget."

She received a divorce from Judge Keeler. Atty. C. C. Caswell represented her.

Mrs. Duncan's husband is assistant credit manager of the Standard Oil Company in San Francisco, and J. C. Stevenson is Pacific Coast manager of the Graton-Knight Manufacturing Company.

MRS. JOHN P. STEVENSON

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson were married in Lewisburg, Kan., December 2, 1875. Mr. Stevenson is a native of New York and Mrs. Stevenson of Springfield, Ill. For many years they made their home in Kansas City, moving to Los Angeles fourteen years ago.

A big dinner party, to which friends of the couple have been invited, will be a feature of the golden-wedding celebration tonight.

EXTORTION PLOT CHARGED

Manager of Salt Lake and Los Angeles Company Held and Woman Sought in Conspiracy

Charged with conspiring with a woman to extort money from another man, who was once his friend, Herbert H. Welch, general manager of the Nebo Marble Company of Salt Lake and Los Angeles, was arrested last night by Constable Adams on a charge of extortion and placed in the County Jail.

The complainant in the case is James P. Jacobsen of 4306 Normal avenue, an expert accountant. The woman is Mrs. Ruth Bates, formerly of Salt Lake City, who is named in another complaint charging extortion that has been issued by the District Attorney's office.

According to the story told by Jacobsen and his attorney, Frank Wilcox, to Dep. Dist.-Atty. McIsac, both Jacobsen and Welch formerly worked for the marble company in Salt Lake City and became friends. Jacobsen came to Los Angeles and later Welch looked him up and requested Jacobsen to permit a woman cousin of Welch to stay at his house while she was on a business trip here for several weeks.

Jacobsen said he at first demurred but later acquiesced, and Mrs. Bates took up her residence with Mr. and Mrs. Jacobsen.

BUSINESS TO FILE SUIT

He soon learned, Jacobsen told McIsac, that Mrs. Bates's business was the filing of a suit against Charles W. Boyce, wealthy Santa Monica tire dealer, whom Mrs. Bates accused in court of being the father of her young child.

Shortly after Mrs. Bates had settled with Boyce out of court, it was asserted, Mrs. Jacobsen had to make a trip to Salt Lake City and Mrs. Bates and Jacobsen were left in the house together for a day or two until the woman moved to the house of her brother. Shortly after she moved, Jacobsen asserted, Welch called him up and demanded $200, declaring that Mrs. Bates had told him that Jacobsen had attacked her and the $200 was to be in the nature of a first installment toward suitable heart balm.

Jacobsen took the matter up with his attorney and a meeting was arranged. Operatives of the M. E. Firman private detective agency were secreted in another room within hearing and a dictaphone was installed.

MARKED MONEY PAID

Jacobsen and Mrs. Bates are asserted to have renewed their demands and to have accepted $200 in marked money on August 8, last.

Confronted by the detectives, Mrs. Bates is said to have confessed the extortion plot and she and Welch agreed to leave town if they were not arrested. Jacobsen's desire to avoid publicity is said to have influenced him to accept the offer.

However, a few days ago Welch is alleged to have returned to Los Angeles and renewed his demands on Jacobsen and the case was then turned over to the District Attorney's office. The Firman detectives renewed their efforts, located Welch in a downtown hotel and his arrest followed. It is understood that an extradition warrant will be made to apprehend Mrs. Bates in Salt Lake, to which place she has been traced.

JULIAN OIL EMPLOYEES AT BANQUET

President Lewis's Speech on Aims of Corporation Read to Staff

More than 350 employees of the sales department of the Julian Petroleum Corporation and officers of the organization attended the department's regular get-together banquet at the Elite, 633 South Flower street, last night.

President S. C. Lewis was unable to attend, having left for San Francisco, where he is to confer with New York associates today with reference to future plans of the company. His address was read by Ben Blue, toastmaster of the banquet.

"I wish to remind every employes of the promise that I made when I came into this corporation—that the paramount interest of every employee is the stockholders of the corporation in California
